Field Secretary Of Salvation Army Here Tonight

BRIGADIER HAM TO ADDRESS PUBLIC MEETING IN CITADEL AT 8 O'CLOCK

On Wednesday May 4th. Brigadier F. C. Ham, Field Secretary of the Salvation Army for Canada, will visit Charlottetown. Born in Western Canada, Brigadier Ham graduated from the Salvation Army Training College in Toronto, and has seen nearly 30 years service in the Army in various capacities.

For a number of years he commanded important Corps in the Maritime Provinces and Upper Canada, and for some time was on the staff of the Salvation Army Training College in Toronto. Previous to his appointment to his present position, about one year ago, the Brigadier was the Commander for the Toronto West Division. During his 6 years in this position, many advances in Army work were accomplished. A member of the Dominion Joint Committee for the Evangelization of Canadian life, and the Social Service Council of Canada, Brigadier Ham also represents the Salvation Army on the Electoral Conference of Churches.

The Brigadier is no stranger to the Maritimes, and is well remembered for his work in such cities as Yarmouth, Moncton and Saint John. While resident in Moncton, the Halifax explosion occurred, and the then Captain Ham was one of the first volunteer relief workers to reach the scene of the disaster, where he was given responsibility for the distribution of all fuel and other commodities during that time of great stress.

Included in the Brigadier's appointments while in our City is a Public Meeting which he will address, in the Salvation Army Hall at 8 p. m. on Wednesday, May 4th. Several prominent citizens and members of the clergy have signified their intention of taking seats on the platform, including Hon. B. W. LePage, Deputy Mayor B. R. Holman, Mr. P. J. MacDonald and Rev. J. M. MacLeod

Major A. Keith, the Salvation Army Commander for New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island will also be present. L-108.

Monthly Meeting Of Local C.W.L.

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held Tuesday, May 3, in the Business Girls' Hall with Mrs. Frank Murray, the newly-elected president in the chair. The meeting was opened with recitation of the League prayer by the chaplain, Rev. Wilfred Keefe.

The president in a short address welcomed the members and introduced Rev. Dr. Monaghan of St. Dunstan's University as the speaker of the evening. He chose as his subject, "Modern Problems". This timely and practical talk proved most interesting to the members and the sincere appreciation of those present was voiced by Mrs. R. J. MacDonald who moved a vote of thanks to the Reverend speaker. This was seconded by Mrs. W. T. Coady and presented to Rev. Dr. Monaghan by the president who expressed her personal appreciation and the hope that Rev. Dr. Monaghan would again favour the League by speaking along these lines at another time.

In replying, the Rev. Doctor said he would be pleased to comply with this request.

The Chaplain, Father Keefe, also spoke words of commendation in regard to the address given by Rev. Dr. Monaghan, and urged the C. W. L. to co-operate in an endeavour to combat the evils of immoral literature and other dangers of modern life.

The business meeting then took place. The minutes of regular, special and executive meetings were read by the secretary and approved, as was the treasurer's report.

Correspondence was read and dealt with. The convenors of other committees submitted reports. Membership fees were received from five members.

The convenor of the cake sale reported a splendid success and thanked all who helped to make it so.

The annual prizes to St. Dunstan's University and our city schools were voted as usual. It was decided to hold an afternoon tea, the date of which will be announced later.

A vote of thanks was presented to the retiring president, Mrs. Frank Walker, on the completion of her term of office.

The following is a list of convenors appointed for the year:

Publicity, Mrs. R. J. MacDonald; education, Mrs. E. Paquette; membership, Mrs. W. J. P. MacMillan; magazine, Mrs. J. H. Blanchard; finance, Mrs. W. T. Coady; Study Club, Mrs. A. J. Howatt; social [illegible] aged and infirm, Mrs. W. O. Davey; citizenship, Mrs. I. E. Croken; program, Mrs. Leo B. Doyle; Girl Guides, Mrs. H. F. McPhee; book review, Mrs. P. W. Clarkin.

Art Society Of P. E. I. In Annual Session

Mrs. D. M. Gass Elected President Of Organization.

Mrs. D. M. Gass was elected president of the Art Society of Prince Edward Island at the annual meeting of the organization held in Harris Memorial Gallery last evening. Miss Margaret Irving, retiring president, was in the chair. Mrs. George D. DeBlois is honorary president. Other officers elected include: vice-president, Miss Margaret Irving; secretary, Miss Helen Oulton; treasurer, Miss Gladys Taylor; representative of Maritime Association, Mrs. P. A. Creelman; program committee, Miss Eleanor Lowe, chairman, Mrs. P. A. Creelman, Mrs. J. A. Fraser, Miss Ruth Heartz. Executive—all officers of the Society with Mr. and Mrs. James E. Harris.

Reports on the year's activities were submitted by Miss Irving and Mrs. R. E. Mutch, treasurer. The report of the secretary, Miss Jacqueline Macdonald, was read. Miss Ruth Heartz acted as secretary pro tem in the absence of Miss Macdonald.

The meeting discussed the forthcoming annual convention of the Maritime Art Association which is scheduled to be held in Charlottetown on the 26th and 27th of this month.

An exhibition of water colors by Canadian artists, loaned to the local Society by the National Gallery, opens on Thursday afternoon of this week, it was announced. The exhibition will continue until Tuesday of next week.

Although election of officers took place last night the present executive carries on until fall activities begin in September.

President's Address

Following is the text of the president's report:

"The Art Society of Prince Edward Island opened its third year of activity in October, 1937 with a well attended exhibition of arts and handicrafts, the work of the local members and others interested from different parts of the province.

"An outstanding event which was greatly enjoyed by the public at large, was the exhibition of a valuable collection of English etchings by Augustus John and Gerald Brockhurst, loaned by the National Gallery of Ottawa. In connection with this exhibition a most instructive movie film showing the process of making etchings was rented from Harvard University through the courtesy of Mr. Chandler of the Carnegie Library. At present there is an exhibition of Canadian water colors, also loaned by the National Galleries.

"To secure these exhibitions, our Society through the Maritime Art Association is obligated to a fee to the National Galleries of Ottawa. These exhibits entail many hours of hard work, as each picture has to be unpacked, the protection paper which is gummed, soaked off, glasses polished, suitable hangers attached and hung before ready for public inspection.

"At our weekly meetings, valuable work has been accomplished under the supervision of Mrs. D.M. Gass, Mrs. P. A. Creelman, Miss Eleanor Lowe and Miss Mary McDonald, who are indefatigable in furthering the interests of the Society.

"Mrs. Leo Frank gave a delightful afternoon outing at Rosebank Fur Farms in July and on this occasion a talk on cartooning was given by Mr. A. Scheinfeld, a noted New York illustrator and writer, who depicted some events of the afternoon as souvenirs.

"At each regular monthly meeting, the program committee of which Miss Edith Hugh was convenor, arranged for the presentation of some suitable subject, with most interesting results as follows: In November, Miss Eleanor Lowe took up "Perspective" followed in December with Mrs. Creelman on the "Perspective of Shadows", and Mr. J. E. Harris with "Parallel Perspective". All these talks were illustrated with drawings by the speakers. In January Mrs. Leo Frank prepared a most comprehensive paper on "Modern Art" The study for February was "The History of Pottery Among the Pueblo Indians", illustrated with lantern slides. In March Miss Jacqueline Macdonald took "Primitive Art" as her topic and in this connection we had slides from the National Galleries. April's meeting dealt with the study of Reproductions of the Old Masters, five minute talks being prepared by Mrs. J. E. Harris, Mrs. D. M. Gass, Mrs. R. E. Mutch, Mrs. D.J. Riley and Miss Ruth Heartz.

"The finale of this year's work will be the Maritime Art Association's annual meeting, which will convene here in the Harris Memorial Gallery May 26th and 27th, and we anticipate making it a great success

"May I take this opportunity to heartily thank the members for their loyal support during my presidency. The success we have attained is largely due to the kindness and co-operation of Mr. Harris, to whom we are grateful for the use of the Harris Memorial Gallery; to the Press for their ever generous support, our thanks we also extend."

Vatican Document To Attack German Racial Theories

(C.P. Havas, By Guardian's Special Wire)

PARIS, May 3 — An important document vigorously attacking a number of outstanding racial theories has been drafted by the Vatican and will be issued shortly, Georges Goyau, of the French Academy, wrote in an article in Le Figaro today.

The Vatican statement has been drawn up by the Congregation of Seminaries and Universities and is principally designed to call the attention of Catholic university rectors to racial theories considered "absurd and pernicious" by the Holy See, Goyau said.

In his article, entitled 'a decisive move against racism by the Pope," Goyau declared the Papacy in this document "emphasizes in no uncertain language the divergencies existing between Catholicism and German racial theories."

"Everybody knows that Mussolini at times would like to hide these differences from his Catholic compatriots," Goyau commented. "Mussolini himself has too much respect for the liberty of the church to contest its right to call attention to the racist philosophy and to pass judgment on it—even at the time the heir of the ancient Holy Roman Empire (Chancellor Hitler) is crossing the Alps."

The Vatican document, signed by Mgr. Ernesto Ruffini, secretary of the congregation is designed to defend truth against the "march of error" and new and "profoundly absurd" dogma, Goyau went on.

"Mgr. Ruffini stresses the despondency which comes over Pope Pius when he is confronted by these 'impudent' and 'extremely pernicious' calumnies which, falsely camouflaged in the name of science, are disseminated everywhere in an effort to pervert the human spirit and uproot true religion," the article stated.

The Vatican's opposition to the various racial concepts was summarized as follows:—

1. The Congregation of Seminaries refuses to recognize the racist doctrine that uncivilized human beings are closer to the animal world than their civilized brothers.

2. It places its veto on the racist theory of blood and on concepts which mould an entire juridical system on the interests and instincts of a race and foster materialist ideologies.

3. It protests the subordination of the religious idea to the law of race, a law born of racist pedagogy which designates the cultivation of the racist spirit as the dominating motif of education.

4. In conclusion it denounces the abolition of human personality by doctrines which stem from a pantheist philosophy stating "men exist only by the state and for the state."

This "doctrinal page" will have repercussions in all christian countries, Goyau added, "not only in France opponent of racial exaggerations, not only in England, where the slogan 'no popery' today is only an archaism, but also in Italy in the imperial Rome which cannot ignore the fact it was the cradle of law," the writer declared.

BENNETT

while Quebec replied there were ways of enacting a law without changing the constitution. Although Ontario at first agreed, Premier Hepburn this week came out in favor of a provincial insurance law).

The whole discussion arose when the relief bill was considered again in committee stage. Conservative Leader Bennett entered the discussion to tell the Government there was need of a long-range plan, not mere palliatives, to provide jobs for Canadians. Among other things, this would involve a change in tariff policies because "you cannot have your goods manufactured in another country and not have unemployment among those who were making those goods here."

When Labor Minister Rogers was taken from the lecture halls of Queen's Unviersity to administer relief in Canada, he had been proclaimed the man best fitted to deal with it, continued Mr. Bennett.

"When I contemplate the patronage in Frontenac and Kingston," he continued. "I realize that academic life does not fit a man for public life any more than work in a saw-mill."

Ontario Claims Right To Tax Mining Profits

Protest Lodged Against "Encroachment Of Dominion" In Taxation Field.

By CARL REINKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 3—In its taxation of mining profits, the Dominion Government is disregarding the intention of Confederation that natural resources should be the particular property of the provinces, the Ontario Government contended today.

To preserve to the province the full benefit of its natural mining resources, the provincial government "requested" the Dominion Government to exempt from its income tax profits derived exclusively from mining operations. The Dominion might properly still tax profits from the processing of ore, it suggested.

The matter came before the Rowell Commission today as Chester Walters, provincial controller of finance, dealt with Ontario's various sources of revenue and present lack of balance between revenues and responsibilities as set up by the framers of the Canadian constiution.

"It was the expectation of the fathers of Confederation that by the development of their natural resources alone the provinces would derive sufficient revenue to meet any increased expenditures which they might incur," Mr. Walter submitted.

"As a matter of fact, the revenues of Ontario from its natural resources have been comparatively small. This is largely due to the encroachment of the Dominion upon this source of revenue."

The Dominion's 15 per cent corporation income tax took a large slice of that revenue, three times as much as the province itself obtained from mining although it spent millions in transportation and power facilities essential to the development of Northern Ontario's mining area.

Last year the Dominion collected $9,876,000 from Ontario mining companies while the province itself collected $2,957,000 and the municipalities $832,000, Mr. Walters said. This gave the Federal Government 72 per cent, provincial 22 per cent and the municipalities six per cent.

While the Government included the taxing of lumber profits as well as mining, Hon. Paul Leduc, Ontario mines minister, suggested mines were of a different category from other resources, since they could not be replenished once they were taken from the ground. When ore was brought up, it was a permanent reduction of capital.

Chairman Newton W. Rowell asked if there was any reason the province could not increase its taxation on mines.

That had been discussed at a Dominion-Provincial conference in 1935, Mr. Walters said, but it was decided not to increase taxation on mining unless the increase applied to business generally. There was a desire not to impede the mines when they played a large role in Canada weathering the depression so well.

Commissioner R. A. MacKay asked whether the Dominion might not be justified in expecting a return at least in proportion to its expenditure on development.

"You're touching us on a vital spot," Mr. Walters said, smiling. He added that from "some things to be seen in the press" one would think the mines branch at Ottawa had even "put the gold into the ground."

"They are not quite equal to Providence yet, whatever may be their merit," Mr. Rowell commented.

"No, but they're improving," Mr. Walters replied.

Turning to subsidies as "a fundamental part of the whole basis of Confederation," Mr. Walters said Ontario last year received $26,944,000 from the Dominion, of which old age pensions made up $9,147,000 and various unemployment grants $14,794,000.

Provincial grants to the municipalities, in turn, were $27,589,000 last year and are estimated at $29,477,000 for the year ended March 31, 1938. Relief, education, roads and health figured, in that order.

The net result of the province taking over municipal income taxes and giving the municipalities a one-mill subsidy was that the province paid out $300,000 from its own pocket, Mr. Walters said.

He considered conditional subsidies useful in maintaining certain minimum standards throughout the Dominion, for example in technical education.

Mr. Walters earlier indicated that while Ontario had obtained budget surpluses recently largely because of the collection of succession duty "arrears," it faced serious budget difficulties in the future. Demands for services were increasing and the municipalities had to be relieved of part of their load, even while the province itself had raised taxation to a high level.

It was claimed Ontario not only paid its full share of Dominion revenue but more than its share, last year contributing 45 per cent of all Dominion revenue.

Mr. Dafoe challenged the claim that Ontario paid more than its share. Since Dominion taxation applied uniformly to the whole country, each region paid according to its income. If it paid more, it must have been that much wealthier.

ment—which largely means peaceful settlement of Germany's demands—depend to a great extent on the spirit evidenced during the German Fuehrer's Rome visit it was believed.

However, Britain will look beneath Musso.ini's showmanship and fulsome words of greeting for indications that Il Duce is not promising Hitler blind support in everything and anything.

Both Britain and France believe the Italian people like little the looks of German bayonets across the Brenner Pass—planted on Italy's northern frontier by Hitler's absorption of Austria.

The French, therefore, are confident Mussolini will lose no time in getting on with an Italian-French accord although they expect him to try to increase his bargaining strength by his talk with Hitler.

Meanwhile, Britain and France will advise Czechoslovakia to meet as far as possible the demands of the 3,500,000 Germans within her borders, and counsel moderation to Germany.

ON COURTESY VISIT

Dr. Herbert Von Dirksen, new German Ambassador to London, called on Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax today on a courtesy visit, but Britain and Germany will not talk seriously until after Hitler is back in Berlin.

Just before Hitler reached Rome, Premier Daladier and his National Defence Government of France promulgated a series of decrees that let Europe know France, although seeking peace, is determined to have land, sea and air power for quick wartime action. Daladier boosted the manpower of every branch of France's defensive forces and ordered new warship building.

In London, War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha took additional steps to get a bigger and better army by stretching both the length of voluntary service and the age limit for enlistment.
