SPECIAL W.M.S. MEETING—A special thanksgiving meeting of the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church, Summerside, was held in the Church Hall on Wednesday, November 27th with the president, Mrs. J.W. MacKenzie in the chair. The guest speaker for the evening was the Rev. Willis Young of Tyne Valley. His theme was "Love", it being the centre of all missionary work. Others taking part in the devotions were Mrs. Dystant, Mrs. Clancey, Mrs. Distant, Mrs. Forbes and Mrs. Cobb. A very pleasing feature of the program was a duet by Mrs. Robert Wood and Mrs. Maurice Mill. Mrs. Donald Baker extended a vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Young and the meeting closed with benediction by Rev. Charles Carney.—S.

VISITS NATIVE PROVINCE—A welcome visitor to his native Province is Mr. H.B. MacLeod, of High River, Alberta. He is accompanied by his wife and daughter Muriel who are being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sheen, Kensington. They also visited his brother Heath MacLeod and sister at French River. Before coming east Mr. MacLeod just disposed of 4 carloads of steers, 100 head at the phenomenal price of 12-14 cents per pound, no wonder we are paying big money for our juicy steaks. Besides ranching, Mr. MacLeod is actively engaged in farming but has its drawbacks in Alberta. He is having 800 acres of grain hauled out. We extend to them a hearty welcome and glad to know of another Islander making good in the west. The MacLeods expect to visit in Truro N.S., Mrs. MacLeod's home town where she has numerous relatives and friends, thence to Montreal for their son's wedding in Montreal before going west.—S.

A few nights before leaving a surprise party, in the form of a goose supper, was given by a number of their friends. A very enjoyable time was spent. WOMAN WRITER GROWS CYNICAL

A Chicago wife suing her husband for divorce charged that he taught her how to bowl and then walked out when she beat him.

Poor woman, she evidently didn't understand one important thing about men. That is—when they choose a worthy opponent they want to match their opponent they choose another man.

When they offer to teach a woman a game, they are looking for an appreciative audience.

The woman is supposed to learn the game of course—but not too well. And she is never supposed to progress to the point where she can beat her teacher except perhaps now and then through some laughable fluke or unusual bit of luck.

Even when she comes dangerously close to being as good a shot or as skillful a fisherman as her masculine companion, she must remain in the napki class, always willing to be shown, always ready to ask advice.

The minute that she gets to the place where she is the one who is offering suggestions, she has lost all of her companionship so far as a man is concerned.

Most women know instinctively how to be good pupils without being too good—how to give a man just enough competition to keep the game interesting and yet let him win by a satisfying score.

The ones who don't may not always lose as heavily as did the woman who lost her husband by beating him at bowling—but they do stand a good chance of losing a companion, even though they keep a husband.

A smart woman is never actually a man's opponent. She just pretends to be. In reality, she is a combination of sweet student and admiring audience.

To Preserve Paint Brushes Good paint brushes are too expensive and to scarce these days not to take the utmost care of them. After each job they should be placed in a receptacle filled with turpentine and when the work is finished, wash the brushes
