Mrs. Tillie Aldershaw returned home from Halifax last week owing to the serious illness of her husband, Mrs. Wm. McGrath. Mrs. Aldershaw was about to board the train at Halifax to visit her old home after spending some time with her daughter when she was handed the wire, so she changed her plans and left for the island.

Mrs. William McGrath, who has been ill for several weeks and at times reported on the danger list, has been removed to the Charlottetown Hospital for treatment.

Mr. P. R. Sinnott, mail driver on the longest and hardest route here, has purchased a new driving horse from Mr. Ed Rossiter. The new steed is reported to be about the best driver in this vicinity and will be used on the mail route at times when the roads improve.

Speaking of mail routes the rural drivers report the road in the worst state in their memory owing to the continued drifting weather. The snow is more than horses can plough through, routes that should take about three hours require a whole day with man and horse.

Mr. J. W. MacEwen, local merchant, has not been enjoying his usual good health this winter but is at his store daily as he is alone and a country store is so necessary to the public.

The Morell Consumers Co-Operative store management will erect a new building to be used as store and main warehouse in the early spring. The new building will be eighty by forty feet, two stories and have a cellar under the whole building for storing large quantities of goods. The building now used will be turned and taken into the new structure. This speaks well for this new business started only a few years ago and operated by the people for the people along with other branches of business.

Mr. James F. MacDonald was in the city last week having a check up by city doctors.

Mr. Frank MacDonald who moved here from Newfoundland fell after the sudden passing of his wife has returned to the Nova Scotia capital to make his home. His sister Margaret has invited him to manage his house. Mr. MacDonald is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James MacDonald of Halifax for many years.

Despite the mountains of snow this winter the Bristol boys are at top speed.

Mrs. Russell Hawbolt was a week end visitor to the city where her husband Cpl. Russell Hawbolt is stationed with the R.C.A.F.

Welcome visitors here last week were Petty Officer John J. O'Hanley and Mrs. O'Hanley, who arrived from Newfoundland where Mr. O'Hanley is stationed with the Royal Canadian Navy. They also visited Mr. O'Hanley's old home at St. Peter's and Mrs. O'Hanley's home in O'Hanley, P.E.I. Petty Officer O'Hanley left on Saturday to rejoin his unit. His wife and baby will remain on the island.

Several card parties have been held in the vicinity as well as entertainment this winter and a good sum of money gathered up for direct relief.

Mrs. William MacDonald has returned from his son, Joseph MacDonald, who has again returned to the Hospital in England. He was wounded sometime ago but has recovered and returned to his unit.

Several young men from here who hit out for the New Brunswick lumber woods have returned. Owing to the terrible amount of snow it was impossible to do anything in the woods.

It is understood that plans to remove the Morell packing plant to the Red Head shore have been abandoned for the present.

Mr. Harry MacEwen was in the city on Saturday on business.—B.

C. C. F. To Have 225 Candidates In Election

(By The Canadian Press)
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Prof. Frank R. Scott, national chairman of the Communist Party, Federation, told reporters here today that his party would have a million of 225 candidates for the 246 House of Commons seats in the forthcoming Canadian general election. He said the party's chances of forming a government were "very good."

Council members of the party are said to be examining the problems of the war and the coming trade union policy and organization for the post-war years.

Children even more than in most other German-occupied countries. The analysis Monos, condemned to death for the murder of three policemen, is typical. Monos' age is given as 23, but he looks like a man of 40. He is at the beginning of the Metaxas regime—the age at which most boys get their spare time to sport. When the Germans entered Greece he was 20.

The prosecution claimed he was a court-martialing him at the time he was deported to Germany as a laborer, his brother was tortured and then executed by the Germans in Greece.

So Monos joined E.L.A.S., the armed militia of the E.A.M. (National Liberation Front), feeling that since no legal Greek power was capable of defending his rights he would join the wrongs suffered by his family.

The prosecution claimed he was a hit man. His British appeal and the charges, but he had an almost childlike simplicity and when asked how he felt about the judge what he had to say before the verdict was pronounced, he was "incapable of making coherent statements."

Conversation of the crowd in the court centred around the point made by counsel defending Monos who asked the judges why these youths were being tried when their responsible leaders were still untouched.

Assuming that a general amnesty is granted, the traffic problem of the country's youth cast a shadow over the future. The boys who have stood trial can succeed only in enlightened conditions.

How is Greece to relieve the mass of material and political chaos, to tackle this problem?

It is a question that she will desperately need all the help available. This is not charity, but sound international investment.

Two Big Problems Are Facing Greece

ATHENS, Feb. 6.—(Reuters)—The court-martial of young E. L. A. S. terrorists, now suspended on the order of Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, Greek Prime Minister, while the government and E. A. M. discuss peace terms, turn the spotlight on two big problems facing Greece today.

1. The problem of the country's "lost" youth.
 2. The violence and bitterness dividing the people.

The courts-martial are really the trial of youths who belong to the army of professional children of Europe.

They are "Dead End Kids," the boys who have been brought up in a wartime school teaching physical violence and political extremism.

The borderline dividing patriotism from terrorism must often have been imperceptible for their untutored judgment.

The breakdown of normal life in Greece during the 1940 campaign against the Italians and during three years of German occupation combined with the seeds of internal political hatred sown during the Metaxas dictatorship of 1936-41 swell the ranks of the "problem" youth.

Australia Suffers From Long Drought

By J. E. HOLDWORTH (Canadian Press Correspondent)
 (CP Cable)—Almost all the eastern half of Australia, embracing South Australia, Victoria, New South Wales and Queensland, suffered from an extreme drought during the greater part of January.

There have been some drought-relieving rains over a large part of this huge area, with rainfalls of several inches in coastal regions, but they brought valuable relief to farmers and domestic suppliers and ended the real test of the bush fires which broke out during the dry spell.

However, the arid interior of New South Wales and Southwestern Queensland no worthwhile rains have fallen for all in those areas, temperatures have risen above 100 degrees in many places and during the week no wind to blow off valuable top soil.

Best sellers: One unusual effect of this worse drought of the present century in the effect it has had on people's reading. With the realization that drought and soil erosion are the real test to Australia's existence, the reading public is besieging bookshelves with current Australian problems. "The Land of the Living" by F. R. Y. Timbury; "Wool" by W. E. Mathew; "Onward Australia," by Ion Idriesia; "Australia's Chief Writer" by C. Whiskey Shortage Continues In Britain

By JAMES F. KING (AP)—A modest little item of 80 to 100 words in the British press a few weeks ago said some distillers in Scotland were resuming operations after being closed four years.

It was then one of the best known bartenders on Fleet Street estimated he had used at least a half million words and spent a third of his life in the distillery. He said the industry was not going to be much whisky a year, either at home or for export.

Britain has many bars but in this fifth year of war it's almost as hard to get a drink of whisky as it was in the United States during prohibition.

And when the bartender occasionally brings out a bottle from under the bar it's like a bargain basement run in Main Street back home. Of course you can always get a drink at one of London's "nips" which is less than a pence. But ordinary pubs have almost entirely disappeared.

The distillers have allocated enough barley and other grains to distilleries for them to manufacture about 100 million gallons of normal pre-war production of 30,000,000 gallons.

The plants are operating on a co-operative basis and the grounds it wouldn't pay for all to be before the war.

A spokesman for the Distillers Association said under the law whisky must be held in bond for at least three years. He expected no appreciable increase in the amount of whisky available for export.

LONG RIVER WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The meeting of Long River W.I. was held Feb. 2 at the home of Mrs. Murdoch MacLeod, with an attendance of 13 members present. The President, Mrs. Heath Campbell, presided and the meeting opened by singing Institute Carol and responded to by an exchange of Valentines. Minutes of previous meeting were read, approved and signed. Reports of committees were given and new committees appointed as follows: School, Mrs. Oliver Paynter and Mrs. Heath Campbell; Sick, Mrs. Murdoch MacLeod; Mrs. Joseph Dunning and Mrs. Hedley Paynter; Program, Mrs. Murdoch MacLeod, Mrs. Allan Campbell, Mrs. Andrew G. Johnstone, Miss Mae Pound, Mrs. Arthur Johnstone and Mrs. Heath Campbell.

It was decided that all members bring lunch for next meeting. A plan was planned to have an auction for the next meeting, and each member to bring a friend. In Navy League.

Correspondence was read by secretary and letters from several of the boys overseas, thanking Institute for their boxes. Next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Dunning when roll call to be answered by a "joke." Program consisted of contest, after which lunch was served and meeting closed by National Anthem. Col. 75c. Fees $1.00. Red Cross report for month: 1 G. sleeveless sweater; 4 pairs K. gloves; 3 pairs N. gloves; 1 N. turtle neck sweater.
