Fashionable attire, including silk and satin dresses and costumes and gentlemen's wearing apparel to be sold without reserve by order of H. M. Postmaster-General, was how the catalogue described it, and the whole was made into 239 lots. Here are some sample lots:—

Twenty pairs of boots, shoes, and slippers.
Eighteen Turkish bath and other towels.
A quantity of linen collars, cuffs, and nightdresses.
Eleven pairs of coloured satin slippers.
Black and white silk costume two raincoats, two dresses, and a petticoat.

There were also such odds and ends—all belonging to the "lost-in-the-post" category—as a typewriter, a bottle of wine, a boot polisher, and two bottles of mint sauce.

Most lots only realised a few dollars.

POOR FOLKS WIN ENORMOUS SUMS IN DERBY STAKES

LONDON, June 8.—A little sweep stake ticket, combined with Derby luck, has placed a fortune of £32,000 in the lap of a Yorkshire woman millworker, Mrs. Nellie Ford by name, who drew Papyrus in the Otley Club's £30,000 sweepstake in which more than 200,000 players had taken a chance. Mrs. Ford is described as a hard-working woman, who has spent most of her life working in a mill in order to help support her large family. Yesterday she was offered £3,000 for her chance, but refused as she had a dream that fortune awaited her. The second prize of £16,000 and the third of £3,000 were won by two men of moderate means. Several others have been lifted from penury to "Easy Street" by the luck of drawing winning horses in the numerous sweepstakes he'd in England.

A London man won £12,000 in the Meat Dealers' Sweepstake, of which he announces, he will give one-third to a fund being raised to aid the city hospitals. A young stenographer is better off by £10,000 by winning the prize offered in the Cork Hospital draw, and a street cleaner won a like sum in another draw.

The Calcutta and London Stock Exchange Sweepstakes have not yet been announced. The former is worth about £30,000 and the latter £25,000. It is estimated £250,000 has been won in the big public sweepstakes, while huge sums have changed hands through those conducted on a smaller basis.

CATHOLICISM AID TO PROTESTANTISM

OTTAWA, June 8.—Strength, usefulness and beauty should be the main characteristics of the coming United Church of Canada. It is not the intention of the sponsors to build up a showy ecclesiastical machine, but to assist "in making Canada a nation baptized with the faith and spirit of Jesus Christ." These momentous words were uttered by the Rev. Hugh Pedley, D. D., in his address before the 17th annual meeting of the Congressional Union of Canada here this morning.

Referring to the Catholic Church he said we needed the competitive stimulus of that Church in the highest sense. Catholicism always does its best work when laboring alongside a staunch protestantism, while the Protestant Church is saved from stagnation at times by the presence of the Catholic Church. In the annual report of the executive committee, given by Rev. Dr. W. T. Gunn, Toronto, he pointed out the tinge of sadness that would accompany the leaving of the old church, but it would be replaced by a larger and richer fellowship in the United Church.

The unification of all temperance forces in Canada had also been brought about by the "Canadian Prohibition Federation," embracing all the churches.

ALLEGED NEGLECT KILLED AN INFANT

RITCHENER, Ont., June 8.—The report of the Government analysis on the contents of the stomach of six-months-old Irene Hallman shows that no trace of poison was found in the organ, according to a statement by Crown Attorney Bowby today. The child died from neglect of the parents, according to the finding of the coroner's jury, which heard evidence showing that the parents had left the infant alone in the house, leaving on a fishing trip at 12:30 o'clock, and returning home at eight. The child was found in a dying condition by a neighbor at 1 o'clock. The parents are now held on charges of manslaughter.

FAREWELL GATHERING
On the evening of May 22nd, a large number of the friends and neighbors assembled at the late residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Easter of Kelvin, to bid them farewell before their departure for their future home in North Wiltshire.

Mr. Robert MacMurdo very capably presided in the chair, and called on Mr. Edward MacMurdo to read the following address:—
And Messrs Jas. Jardine and Robert Agnew presented Mr. and Mrs. Easter with two beautifully framed oak chairs. To which Mr. Easter very suitably replied on behalf of himself and Mrs. Easter and in which he said that his future home would always extend a welcome to his old neighbors.

After singing "for they are jolly good fellows," short speeches were made by Messrs John A. Burrows, A. R. MacMurdo, Prowse Yeo, Jas. Jardine and Robert Agnew. All regretting the loss of such good neighbors, but glad to know they are not leaving our fair Province.

Mrs. Mariel MacMurdo capably presided at the organ and rendered some rare old Scotch songs. Lunch was then served by the ladies, after which dancing was enjoyed to the strains of the violin played by Mr. Frank Burrows.

After some "Uncle Billy," all joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne" wishing Mr. and Mrs. Easter prosperity in their new home, the people dispersed to their respective homes.

To Mr. and Mrs. Easter,
Dear Friends:—
On learning that you are about to leave our midst to live elsewhere on our fair Isle, and considering the long time you have resided in this community, we feel it would be an injustice, not only to you, but also to ourselves were we to allow you to depart without giving expression to some token of regard. Words fail to express our sincere regrets and the memory of the friendly greetings you gave to all of us when we visited your hospitable home, as well as the intelligent manner in which you discussed all subjects of general interest, will linger long in our minds.

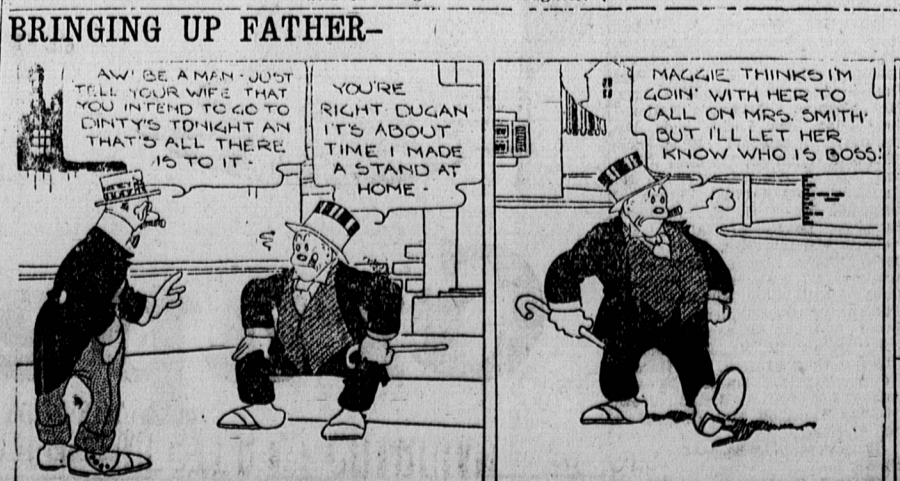

We hope and trust that you and your faithful partner may both be spared for many years to come, to enjoy the blessings of life in your new home in North Wiltshire. With this end in view we ask you to accept these chairs as a small token of our respect and friendship.

Signed on behalf of your old friends and neighbors of Wiltshire and Kelvin,
JAMES JARDINE
EDWARD MACMURDO,
ROBERT AGNEW.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"
Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont., writes:
"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

More Hebrideans Canada Bound

Typical of a happy type.

Waving farewell to loved ones on the Metagama. Life will not be a bed of roses for those who have newly arrived, but they will have to work, and but this they can do. They are descendants of the "lords of the isles" who by strength of arms pushed the invasions of the Scandinavians and Scots. Social and industrial development was retarded a great extent by the clan system, but those who have adopted Canada are well educated and a simple life of toil in adversity through generations has given them a sturdy physique and simple dignity, though forced by hard times to their homes to make new ones, not a few families aboard the Metagama were possessed of over £2,000. Some have stopped in Ontario but a larger proportion of them have returned to Red Deer, Alberta, where they will form a small colony.

THE Hebrideans are a home loving race of people not much given to wandering from their native hearths, but the arrival at St. John aboard the Canadian Pacific steamships Marloch and Metagama of over six hundred sturdy men and women of the western isles, forced by stern necessity to seek their fortunes in the land of promise is not without precedent. In the year 1803 a contingent of 111 was brought from the Isle of Mull by Lord Selkirk to develop the sheep industry on St. Clair Plains Kent County. If times were hard when these people left home,
