

THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

ABRIDGING FORTUNES.

Speaking at Denver a few days ago to the people who had assembled to welcome him, President Taft made the startling suggestion that "the proper authority to reduce the size of fortunes is the state rather than the central government."

Monday being Thanksgiving Day, and a public holiday, The Guardian will not be issued on that day.

Thanksgiving Day is of ancient origin. It was a yearly institution among the Hebrew people. Amongst other nations such a day of national gratitude was occasionally proclaimed to signalize some great deliverance.

Until last year, it had always been held on Thursday, but under the pleading and pressure of commercial travellers, and others who are much away from home, and who desired to take advantage of the Saturday and Sunday holidays, to enable them to be with their families on Thanksgiving Day, a change was made from Thursday to Monday.—Wesleyan.
