Lay Awake In Agony With Neuritis

Kruschen Salts Brought Lasting Relief

Ordinary headaches are had enough, but they are as nothing compared to the awful pains of neuritis in the head, says this woman. Headache, Kruschen completely banished the pain. 'I had neuritis in the head and right arm. I suffered untold agony with my head and I dare not think what might have happened had it continued. Everybody knows what a headache is like, but it is as nothing compared with the awful pain of neuritis in the head. I spent sleepless nights toasting with pain. I began taking Kruschen Salts, and after some months of the treatment I have effected lasting relief.' (Mrs.) L.M. Neuritis, like rheumatism and osteoarthritis, frequently has its roots in intestinal stasis (delay) - the unsuspected accumulation in the system of harmful waste matter, which leads to the formation of excess uric acid. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

Divorce Bill Protested By Senator Hughes

The following report of Senator Hughes' remarks on third reading of the Divorce and Matrimonial Causes Bill is from Hansard, May 18:

Hon. J. J. Hughes: 'Honourable senators, naturally I listened with all the attention I could command to the speech of the hon. member for the right honourable senator from North York (Hon. Sir Allen Aylesworth) and the right honourable leader on the other side of the House (Right Hon. Mr. Meighen) with respect to this Bill on the 10th and the 11th instant respectively. I suppose no better summary can be given of how able lawyers can differ on legal questions. A day or two later other lawyers spoke on the Bill and to some extent they all differed from one another and from the first two gentlemen mentioned. But, as I see it, none of them touched the real merits of the question, which is the moral and which go to the very foundation of all Christian society. Under these circumstances what can the ordinary members of the House, who feel they have some responsibility for the laws made by Parliament do? There are authority upon which the proponent of the Bill will acknowledge to be an authority, and to which they can go for guidance in this matter. I know of no authority that will fill these requirements except the Bible. Therefore, to the Bible I go.

When speaking on the second reading of this Bill on the 15th of March last I quoted from the Bible the passages in which the Lord Jesus Christ clearly and distinctly taught the indissolubility of marriage and declared divorce to be unlawful. Now, if Jesus Christ was that other side of the House, the Christians. On the other hand, if Jesus Christ was not God, Christianity and all that it connotes go by the board. Of course, it may be said that it is hard to understand that one may get authority for almost anything from its pages, and I think this is what the hon. member for the other side meant when he stated on the 24th of March last, as reported in Hansard, at page 157:

'I shall not pursue the inquiry further. I have cited that' - meaning his previous statements that day. - illustrating how it is impossible to act save in the sunlight of the whole writings' - meaning the Bible -

the sunlight of the teachings which these writings are intended to give, and as showing that we should not seek to follow the specific isolated teaching of a single sentence or paragraph. I think this means that to get a proper grasp of the meaning of any part of the Bible one would have to read it through from Genesis to Revelations, compare book with book, chapter with chapter, and verse with verse, and perhaps compare the translations with the original documents. As with this, without Divine assistance, would be a task beyond the capacity of any person who ever lived, and certainly a task beyond the capacity of the members of the House. What, then, are we to do? Are the light of the Bible aside, as a book of no practical value? I think not. I think Lord Tweedsmuir, for instance, was practical when he advised public men to read the Bible and be guided by its teachings.

Now, I admit at once that I quoted specific verses from the Gospels and from St. Paul's epistles, to prove the indissolubility of marriage and the unlawfulness of divorce. But I hold that I did not quote specific verses from their contexts, or seek to distort their meaning in any way whatever. I also hold that these verses are as clear, plain and distinct as any other part of the Scriptures. If any person holds they are so dependent, the burden of proof is on him.

I admit that it is possible to have divorce and a Bible at the same time, but it will not be the Bible of the Christian. It will be a Bible of the level of a scrap of paper, or a book of fables. Yes, it is possible to have divorce and such a Bible and one that ought to be inflicted. We have been told - in fact, I think the judges in Ontario have stated - that seventy or eighty per cent of the divorces given in that province are obtained by collusion and accompanying perjury on a large scale. This amendment would, I believe, virtually wipe out such frauds and crimes. For these reasons and for many others that could be mentioned, the amendment should, I think, be accepted by this House. I therefore submit it for the careful consideration of honourable members.

I move, seconded by the honourable senator from Lunenburg (Hon. Mr. Duff): That the Bill be not now read a third time, but that it be amended as follows: By adding to section 8 of the Bill as sub-sections 2 and 3 the following: (2) Notwithstanding anything in this Act, whenever, hereafter, in Canada, any divorce is, by statute or by the decree of the court, enacted, decreed, pronounced or granted, the respondent in the proceedings for the divorce, hereinafter referred to as the 'delinquent spouse', shall not during the lifetime of the petitioner in such proceedings, hereinafter referred to as the 'former spouse' be competent to intermarry with any person other than his then unmarried former spouse. (3) Notwithstanding anything in this Act, if, during the lifetime of his former spouse such delinquent spouse (a) in Canada goes through a form of marriage with any person other than his former spouse, or (b) leaves Canada with the intent to intermarry with any person other than his former spouse and thereafter out of Canada goes through a form of marriage with a person other than his former spouse, he shall, in Canada, be and be deemed to be guilty of bigamy and punishable as in and by the Criminal Code provided. (The proposed amendment of Senator Hughes was negatived.)

When you cannot eliminate an evil you do what you can to minimize it. Accordingly I move, seconded by the honourable gentleman from Lunenburg (Hon. Mr. Duff), an amendment to the Bill which, if carried, will prevent the guilty party from marrying again during the lifetime of his or her former spouse. If this be a punishment it is, I feel sure, a light one, and one that ought to be inflicted. We have been told - in fact, I think the judges in Ontario have stated - that seventy or eighty per cent of the divorces given in that province are obtained by collusion and accompanying perjury on a large scale. This amendment would, I believe, virtually wipe out such frauds and crimes. For these reasons and for many others that could be mentioned, the amendment should, I think, be accepted by this House.
