ATTENTION FARMERS

POTATOES NEAR CHARLOTTETOWN TURNIPS

Fertilizer accounts due us must be paid during November. There are growers in this locality who have not moved any Potatoes. I think you are making a mistake for the following reason: The sale of Seed and Table Stock to the American market is not more than a fifth of the usual amount at this time of year. There are too many Potatoes in the United States. The movement of the Table Stock Potatoes to date has been heavy, but there is only one market of consequence, Ontario, and it won't take long to fill that province up.

We are prepared to pay market price and haul your Potatoes, Seed or Table Stock, with our trucks from your farm, either graded or ungraded, it is easy for us to place them now. If your supplies are in out-buildings, contact with us at once.

We have a splendid outlet for large quantities of Turnips weekly, and do not overlook the fact that your accounts are about due. If you wish to speculate and store your crop, that is your affair, but the notes and accounts must be paid.

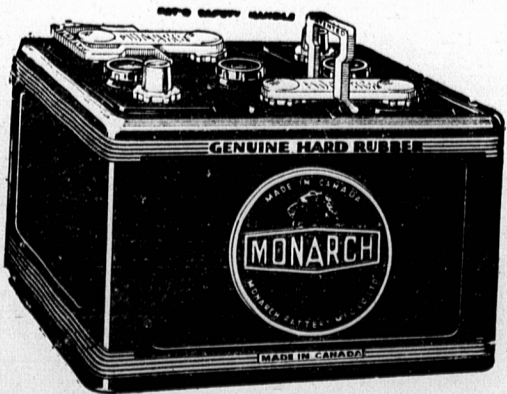

For the next ten days we are open to purchase Potatoes and Turnips from all growers near Charlottetown, irrespective of where you purchased your fertilizer.

Nova Scotia Catches Show Only Increase In August Sea Fisheries

Lessened Landings Reported from Other Sea Fishery Provinces—Cod, Herring and Swordfish Landings Boost Nova Scotia Totals—Drop in B. C. Salmon Catch.

Increased landings and dollar return in Nova Scotia were a bright spot in Canada's sea fisheries results for August, but the other sea fisheries provinces did not do so well and the net result was that aggregate landings, 1,328,000 hundredweights showed a reduction of 134,700 hundredweights and total landed value, $2,957,000 was down almost $84,000 as compared with the results in August 1939. The Nova Scotia gains were largely due to greater success in the cod, swordfish and herring fisheries.

Total Atlantic catches decreased from 9,300 hundredweights, and aggregate 725,000 hundredweights, round figures being given here as in all other cases. However, some stiffening of prices for certain varieties, plus some gains in catch, brought a landed value increase for the coast of $32,000 and lifted the total to $1,091,000.

On the Pacific coast, in other words British Columbia, the month total showed a catch aggregate of 699,000 hundredweights as against 728,000 hundredweights taken in August, 1939, and a landed value amounting in all to $1,865,500, as compared with $1,981,600.

Tabular data by provinces, the month's operation of the Atlantic coast showed results as follows:

Nova Scotia—catch 385,000 hundredweights as against 269,000 hundredweights in August, 1939, and landed value $591,000, as against $385,400. New Brunswick—catch 183,600 hundredweights, a decrease of 95,800 hundredweights, landed value $269,000, compared with $394,000; Prince Edward Island—39,500 hundredweights landed as against 60,000 hundredweights, with landed value decreasing by $39,000, to a total of $85,000; Quebec—115,500 hundredweights, as compared with 125,000 hundredweights, and a landed value of $145,000 as against $154,000.

The big jump in Nova Scotia was in the cod fishery. Provincial catch of cod, 161,100 hundredweights, was about 65,000 hundredweights more than in the preceding August and its value to the fishermen as landed was $229,600, a gain of approximately $120,000.

Nova Scotia's herring catch, 45,000 hundredweights, was more than twice as large as in the August before, increasing swordfish landings off Cape Breton, despite intervals of bad weather, brought the total catch of these fish up to 15,800 hundredweights, with a landed value of $161,000. On the catch side there was an increase of 3,000 hundredweights and on the value side a gain of $62,000.

For whatever reason, sardines failed to come shoreward in customary numbers in New Brunswick waters in August and landings from the fishery were only about 30,000 barrels, less than half the quantity taken a year ago. Sardine landed value, $47,600, was not much more than half as great as in the 39 month. Cod catch in the province increased by some 4,000 hundredweights, but lobster landings declined.

Lessened lobster catches were responsible, too, for a part of the decline in Prince Edward Island fisheries totals for the month. Cod, herring and swordfish catches also fell off in the province.

In Quebec the cod and mackerel fisheries showed reduced landings. Herring catch was up, but not sufficiently to offset the decrease in other two varieties. There are the three main fisheries in progress in Quebec in August.

In British Columbia

On the Pacific coast salmon landings were approximately 397,000 hundredweights, while in August, 1939, the fisheries had yielded a catch of nearly 625,000 hundredweights. On the landed value side was a reduction of about $175,000. Decrease in the halibut and herring fishery were not so great, but nevertheless, neither fishery was so successful as a year ago. British Columbia fishermen, however, landed more pilchard than in the corresponding month of last year, with their catch totalling 175,000 hundredweights. The landed value of the pilchard, $75,000, showed an increase of practically 100 per cent.

Though carried on only on the Atlantic coast of Canada, lobster fishing is big business in Canada's waters. In 1939 lobster fishermen set a total of 2,083,382 lobster traps in Atlantic waters. The traps were valued at $2,295,317.

Lung Cancer Is On Increase

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (AP)—Evidence that cancer of the lung has increased to first place as the rate of human malignancy was reported today to the American College of Surgeons by Dr. Alton Ochsner, Tulane University.

He said his studies indicated that cigarette smoking might be the cause of the rise.

"It is my contention," he said, "that smoking cigarettes is a cause of cancer of the lung, because we know that irritation is a factor in the incidence of cancer, and we know that smoking causes a chronic irritation of the lungs, as, for example, chronic bronchitis or 'smoker's cough.'"

The first signs, he said, are a cough, discomfort (but not necessarily pain) about the chest and bloody sputum. A steady rise in lung cancer since 1920 was shown by Dr. Ochsner in autopsies at the Charity Hospital, New Orleans. This rise was so much that in 1938 over one cent of all persons upon whom autopsies were performed there had lung cancer.

Until then stomach cancer had held first place in these New Orleans autopsies. There have been other reports in recent years of lung cancer increasing.

The largest numbers appear between the ages of 50 and 60. Dr. Ochsner said the lung irritation may have to do with long time before producing malignancy. He and his associates investigated automobile exhaust gases and cigarette smoking as possible explanations of the rise in lung cancer.

Their graph showed a steady rise in lung cancer, which kept right on up to about 1929, when there was a large and sharp drop in the number of automobiles in use in New Orleans.

Dr. Ochsner said, too, that studies of cases involving traffic officers had shown no connection between lung cancer and the motor exhausts they breathe.

A similar graph of cigarettes in New Orleans showed a steady rise in smoking and the degree and degree of this rise closely paralleled the upward lung cancer curve in Dr. Ochsner's graph.

He said that Dr. Roffo, head of the Institute for Malignant Diseases at Buenos Aires, had sprayed tobacco tar into the lungs of animals and found that this excessive amount of tar caused lung cancer.

He said different kinds of tobacco showed a wide variation in ability to cause this animal cancer.

Dr. Everts A. Graham of St. Louis said the animal lung cancer produced in this way was not identical with human lung cancer.

Dr. Graham reported that the death rate from lung cancer in surgical operations has been cut in half in the last three or four years. In his own clinic, he said, the rate this year has been 37 per cent, against 60 per cent three or four years ago.
