THE WAR CHARITIES ACT, 1917.

Department of The Secretary of State of Canada

The War Charities Act, 1917, defines "war charities" as follows: as fund, institution or association, other than a church or the Salvation Army, whether established before or after the commencement of this Act, having for its objects or among its objects the relief of suffering or distress, or the supplying of needs or comforts to sufferers from the war, or to soldiers, returned soldiers or their families or dependents, or any other charitable purpose connected with the present European war. Any question whether a charity is a war charity shall be finally determined by the Minister.

The Act also provides: (1) It shall not be lawful to make any appeal to the public for donations or subscriptions in money or in kind for any war charity as herebefore defined, or to raise or attempt to raise money for any such war charity by promoting any bazaar, sale, entertainment or exhibition, or by any similar means, unless—

(a) the war charity is either exempted from registration or is registered under this Act; and,

(b) the approval in writing of the executive committee or other governing body of the war charity has been obtained, either directly or through some person duly authorized to give such approval on behalf of such governing body; and if any person contravenes any of the provisions of this section he shall be guilty of an offence against this Act.

(2) This section shall not apply to any collection at Divine Service in a place of public worship.

The Act was assented to on the 20th of September, 1917, and the above section so far as it relates to registration is applicable to War Charities on the 20th of December, 1917. After that date, collections made otherwise than on behalf of a registered War Charity by subscriptions, donations, bazaars, sales, entertainments, exhibitions or similar means of collecting money are illegal. Regulations and information respecting registration may be obtained from the undersigned.

THE MARKET BASKET.

CARVING A SERLOIN.

Place this point with the thickest end at the left-hand side of the dish. As the fillet is better eaten hot than cold, the joint may be served with fillet uppermost, and the meat cut across in rather thick slices, a portion of fat being served with each helping. If a number are to be served it is a good plan to cut all the fillet; then turn the joint over and carve slices from one end to the other, serving a portion of undercut with a portion of top slice. Care must be taken to cut the joint evenly and through the flap end. Should the fillet slice be large, then serve with it only a portion of the flap end, thus, if the point of the knife is passed across using up the flap, all being cut along the top and against the served with a portion of the best cut, bone under the meat, so that when several slices are required from the top it helps the carving considerably from the bone.
