Last night was a bumper night at Fairyland. The pictures were grand particularly the war picture entitled "Attacking an English Island." People wonder how such a picture could be produced. These pictures will be shown again tonight and tomorrow night there will be a complete change.

From far away South Africa there came the other day an interesting and valuable gift to C. D. Rankin of this City—a hunting trophy testifying the regard of his friend Hurdle L. McLan, formerly of this City, but now stationed in Swaziland in the mountainous district of Mbatane.

The gift is a handsome leopard's skin, which was secured by Mr. McLan on a recent hunting trip to the low veldt near his station. He had a fairly successful hunt, securing some large buck, and he enjoyed himself immensely. While he was on the trip an old native came to him one day and told him of a leopard, or "tiger" as they call them down there, which had killed a number of his sheep and goats. He begged the white hunter to shoot the leopard and Mr. McLan agreed. He was singularly lucky, for he succeeded in bagging the game in the morning after the first night's lying out for it. The skin was rather a nice one, Mr. McLan thought, and he mailed it to Mr. Rankin, who is showing it with pardonable pride to his friends. The trophy from the veldt is something to be proud of as the skin is in splendid order.

In writing to Mr. Rankin Mr. McLan regretted that the native who had skinned the leopard had cut off all the claws—to be used as charms to protect him from other "tigers."

A Sackville, N. B. correspondent writes: "The opening reception of this collegiate year was held last night at the Mount Allison Ladies' College. This reception is given annually by the 'Young Men's Christian Association,' of the institutions, to welcome all new students to the varied phases of the college life and especially to the above named societies. There are thirteen young ladies from Prince Edward Island in attendance at the Ladies' College this year. Nine of these have come this year for the first time. We are glad to welcome among them, the Misses Ethel Dobson, Lois Taylor, Alice Balderson, Jennie Turner, Beatrice Paton, Mabel Smith, Mary Bruce, Fannie Cameron and Helen Smith. The Misses Hazel Hughes, Hazel Davidson, Elizabeth S. Robbins and Marie Stewart, have come to us again to continue their studies at our institutions."

At St. Paul's Church Sunday morning last the Rev. S. J. Woodroffe preached a heart-searching sermon from the text "Love thy neighbor as thyself." The Rev. gentleman said in part that all night take a lesson from the text and become more interested in one another. That the cup of cold water, the friendly visit, the kindly welcome, the generous act, should be much more in evidence in daily life. The Christian services brought a blessing, and were the outcome of love to Christ and humanity. To pass people at times, without a friendly bow because they might not be considered one's equals in society was unkind, un-Christian, and showed the lack of true refinement. That all should try now and then to call, and assist those along life's journey who were less fortunate than themselves. These were the signs of the truly lady and gentleman, and God would bless these kindnesses. Mr. Woodroffe touched upon the experiences of Miss Smith, a lady who dressed herself in shabby clothes and visited many churches in New York, Brooklyn, Boston and other cities. In but very few of these churches was this woman cordially welcomed. Mr. Woodroffe was not prepared to make comment upon these receptions as he did not know the spirit in which these visits were made. Including he urged all present to be more kind and considerate along life's journey and to start in this week to put these actions into daily practice.

Value of Life Insurance

An eminent speaker at the Underwriters' Convention ably defined Life Insurance and its good to the public in the following words: "Life Insurance is one of the greatest forces for good this country has ever known. There is no feature of our modern civilization that is so sanctified by the graces of love and hope as that institution that has for its object the preservation of the home when age and death have destroyed its natural support."
