The church was beautifully decorated with spring flowers and the guest pews marked with colored snapdragon and forget-me-nots attached with white satin ribbon.

The guests were shown to their seats by Mr. Ian Burnett, head usher, Mr. Gordon Ramsay, Mr. James E. Burnett, Mr. Frank Andrew, Mr. T. L. Fitzgerald.

The pretty bride wore for her wedding a lovely gown of white moire, with bertha neckline, long tapered sleeves, with fitted bodice and a full skirt ending in a short train.

Coming up the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the fair young bride was attended by her matron of honor, Mrs. Ian Burnett, the groom's sister-in-law, her bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Hardy, Miss Louise Rogerson, and little Miss Elizabeth Ramsay as flower girl.

Mrs. Ian Burnett wore a most becoming rose moire gown fashioned after the bride's dress with straw picture hat to match and completed her costume with a bouquet of white roses and pink snapdragon.

The dainty little flower girl wore a frock of white moire with ruffled skirt caught at the waist with mauve velvet ribbon. Her halo headdress was of mauve velvet and small white flowers, and she had a nosegay of mauve and white sweetpeas.

During the signing of the register, witnessed by the groomsmen and matron of honor, Mrs. Ralph Beck sang the beautiful bridal solo, "At Dawning."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Charlottetown Hotel where the bride's table and guest tables were decorated with tulips.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. T. E. McLennan and nicely responded to by the groom, Mrs. Ramsay chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of Apricot crepe with brown accessories and corsage of tallisner roses.

The groom's gift to his bride was a Ronson table lighter, and to the other attendants novelty ash trays.

After congratulations, and amid showers of confetti Mr. and Mrs. Burnett left by plane on a honeymoon trip to Montreal and other points, the bride looking smart in a skipper blue dressmaker suit with white accessories.

At the end of a long and useful earthly life death came to Mrs. Robert MacMurdo, nee Christy Ann Sharp, on Monday, May 31st, 1948, at her home at Kensington. She was 86 years of age and in recent months the weight of her years had become more evident to herself and to those who loved her. About two weeks, prior to her death, she became ill, and gradually declined until she passed peacefully away. She was born at Norboro, a daughter of the late Alexander Douglas, and his wife, Ann Sharpe. At the time of her marriage to the late Robert MacMurdo she went to live at Kelvin where they remained until about 18 years ago, when they disposed of the farm property and settled at Kensington. She was a woman of whom it might truly be said, "She looked well to the way of her household, and sateth not the bread of idleness. Her children rise up and call her blessed."
