Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills

Effectuated a Complete Cure in the Case of MRS. CAROLINE HUTT, Morrisburg, Ont.

She says: "It affords me great pleasure to speak about what your Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. About a year ago I was taken ill with heart trouble and got so bad that I was unable to do any work for four or five months. I got so weak and miserable that my friends thought I was going to die. The doctor attended me for some time but I continued to grow worse. At last I decided to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking two boxes they made me well and strong again. I cannot praise them too highly to those suffering from nervous weakness and heart troubles."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers, or

PASSIVE RESISTANCE.

Such is the name under which the Nonconformists of England are organizing to resist the Education Bill. A Passive Resistance League has been formed with an executive composed of the well-known leaders of the English Free Churches. Eminent counsel have given the opinion that this organization is illegal and brings its members within the law relating to conspiracy and exposes them to criminal prosecution, but despite these legal opinions branches of the League have been formed in all sections of the country. These branches now number over two hundred and the enrolment of members is going forward rapidly but quietly. The movement corresponds somewhat closely to that of years ago when the Nonconformists refused to pay Church rates. Some of them were then sent to prison and thousands had their goods distrained upon. The battle lasted for years, but the passive resistance ended in victory for those who adopted that policy.

When the Education Bill of 1902 was brought in Nonconformists protested that a new church rate was about to be levied under the guise of an education rate. The English Church schools were now to be supported by all the ratepayers and yet to remain under denominational management. In eight thousand parishes of England and Wales there is only one public elementary school available in each parish and that school is under Church of England auspices and all children are by law compelled to attend it. These are features which enable the Nonconformist to assert that the new education rate is worse than was the now abolished Church rate. The Church rate went to keep up the parish church, but the Nonconformist was not compelled to attend that church. The objection is that the new education rate goes to support a sectarian school and Nonconformist children are compelled to attend that school. In thousands of parishes the power of the established Church, socially and otherwise is almost absolute. The squire of the parish who in so many cases owns most of the land, expects his tenants to be loyal to the church while shopkeepers and laborers find it imperative to conform to the will of the squire and the parson.

The parson in very many cases is what is known as High Church, with priestly ideas of the ministry and repudiating the name of Protestant. To many Nonconformists the High Church is more repugnant than the Roman Catholic Church, and this adds strength to the determination not to permit their children to attend the Church schools. The fear is that the children's minds will thus be turned against the faith which their parents hold dear. To be under such circumstances forced to pay and forced to send his children to the church schools is what is conceived to be an intolerance to which the Nonconformist will not submit. The grievance is aggravated by the fact that in these church schools, now supported by public funds, no Nonconformist can be a head teacher. This is practically the re-imposition of a religious test in the qualification of teachers.

Mr. Balfour, we are told treats the agitation lightly, not believing that passive resistance will be carried into effect, as the Nonconformists have always been most law-abiding citizens. Church bishops have predicted that the opposition would soon die out. But to-day we are told the agitation is spreading everywhere. In great mass meetings passive resistance is fiercely cheered. Scores of magistrates have already declared that they will not pay the school rate. The Lord Mayor of Sheffield is prepared to resign his office rather than pay. In Leeds at one meeting nearly one thousand names were enrolled.

pledged to resist the law. Well-known members of Parliament are public advocates of the resistance movement. Recently an enormous demonstration was held in Hyde Park against the Education Bill, in which a vast multitude of Nonconformists and working men wildly cheered the advocates of resistance. Such are some of the indications of popular feeling. But it must be remembered that the forces fighting for the law are immensely powerful both politically and socially, and there are many who are in heart opposed to the provisions of the Education Bill who believe it to be their duty to submit to the law.

Twelve British warships are officially stated to be assembled in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, but it is said by Secretary Arnold Foster that he is not aware of any special gathering there. All the same the Russian authorities have no doubt noted their presence.

The Montreal Witness is not pleased with the Government's proposal to build a railway from Moncton to Winnipeg and says:

We do not hesitate to describe this as a deliberate waste of public money. It practically means paralleling the Intercolonial from Moncton westward, a line on which traffic is even now hard to obtain. On the other hand, it will be rich pasturage for politicians and adventures, and the Quebec schemers will sell their bridge at a swinging profit."

There is this to be said in favour of government ownership of railways, that the people, under the system of cash subsidies and land grants by the government have paid the principal part of the actual instruction of all the railways in Canada. They own only the Intercolonial Railway and the P.E. Island Railway. The best paying roads are those which the people after paying for have given to the companies. This gives strength to the growing feeling in favor of public ownership of all the railroads in the country.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

"I was weak, nervous and dizzy, with a fainting sensation when walking," writes one of our children, Geo. of Samuel, Sullivan Co., Tenn. "Could not walk any distance; always felt bad after eating; felt as though something was sticking in my throat; all were unsteady in stomach. Doctored with three physicians but they did not relieve me. I grew worse and used everything I could think of; was nearly ready to give up and then some one told me that Dr. Pierce's medicine was good, so I began taking it. I had taken seven bottles of this now and am as stout as ever, and enjoying health as much as ever. I selected all summer and this winter as much as any one. My case was liver disease and nervous dyspepsia of which your medicine has cured me. In September my weight was about 90 pounds, now it is 125. Please accept my sincere thanks."
