

TEST - AND SEE IF YOU DONT LIKE HEINZ BEST

When Heinz Soups were first offered, women were a bit skeptical. "What" they asked, "serve soups direct from the heated tin, with no additions of milk or cream? And how can 'bought' soups have real home-made flavour?"

Today, thousands of women know how and why. Thousands more are hereby invited to compare the taste and quality of Heinz Soups with any other soup on the market . . . in perhaps the fairest comparison offer ever devised.

Heinz Soups do have unmistakable home-made flavour. They do save time. They do save expense of extra milk or cream. That's because they are begun and finished in one cooking by master cooks. But it is the Heinz chefs who stand over the small, simmering kettles—not you, madam! And, of course, the meat and vegetable juices, butter, fresh, sweet cream and pure spices, are top-notch quality.

Give your family a soup-treat today. Accept the test invitation offered in this announcement. Begin now to enjoy the daily help of Heinz Soups in preparing luncheon, dinner and supper.

- HEINZ SOUPS: Cream of Celery, Cream of Asparagus, Cream of Green Pea, Bean Soup, Scotch Broth, Ox Tail, Onion, Cream of Spinach, Cream of Tomato, Cream of Mushroom, Vegetable, Beef Broth, Chicken with Rice, Chicken with Noodles, Cream of Oyster.

MAKE THIS CONVINCING TEST: Buy any variety of Heinz Soup you prefer. Also order the same kind of soup of any other brand. Heat and taste both brands.

If Heinz Soup does not taste better—mail both labels to us (with your written criticism), and mention the dealer's name and we will pay you the full price of both soups.

Feather in Her Hat

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

And so all Washington knew that night that Ann Rogers of Ellenville, Connecticut, had kissed Lee Monday good-bye when he was about to take off on a transcontinental flight. And before the week was out the whole country knew it for a national news and picture service sent that picture out special delivery.

Mollie said nothing to Rita about the picture and it was not until they were having dinner that she picked up the paper from the table found the picture for herself. Presently she looked up and blew Ann a kiss.

"Well, baby, you're on your way again. Better sit tight this time." Ann didn't say anything and Mollie quickly changed the subject. She said they ought to call on Selma whom they had not seen since the Boston trip with its tragic ending.

Rita begged off. "I've a date," she said, and added, "with Carl, if anyone should be interested." Ann said she would like to go. They found Selma pale and listless and her eyes looked as if she had been weeping.

"I was hoping you'd come," she told Mollie. "But I couldn't have blamed you if you hadn't. This house is under a curse." "Fiddlesticks!" Mollie said. "You can't let it get you down, Selma. Brace up . . . Where's the Senator?"

In his study. Why don't you go in and talk with him. The poor darling's ground down to nothing but nerves. When Mollie left the room Ann sensed that Selma wanted to say something. She got it out at last. It was Carl again.
