THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN may be obtained from the Hunter Book Store, next Bank of Nova Scotia, Water Street. Subscriptions will be received and advertisements taken for insertion in the Guardian.

A DOUBLE NOVELTY—The successful and enjoyable innovation instituted by the Summerside Golf Club in holding a dance and card party in "Holman's Toyland", which was profusely decorated for the occasion, last Thursday night, as reported in Saturday's Guardian, was followed on Friday night by a further novelty, when the whole of Messrs. Holman's large staff and men friends, as guests of the firm, took the floor and had a splendid time. Wagner's Orchestra again furnished the music and dainty refreshments were bountifully served.

KILLED BY AUTO IN THE WEST—Mr. G. W. Duncan, of Summerside, has received the sad news that his wife was killed in a motor car accident on Wednesday last at Calgary, Alberta, where she went a year or two ago to reside with her son, Mr. Wilfred Duncan. The funeral took place on Friday last at Calgary. No further details of the accident have yet been received. Mr. Duncan and other members of the family have the sincere sympathy of the community in their sudden sorrow.

MUCH APPRECIATED—The action of the Post Office authorities in placing a mail box at the railway station at Miscouche is greatly appreciated by residents there. The mail leaves early and hitherto there was no way of mailing a letter requiring a prompt answer other than by going down to meet the early train. Now they can be dropped in the box at any time during the night and they are collected in the morning by the mail clerk. Thanks are due to Senator MacArthur and Mr. A. E. MacLean, M. P., to whom representations were made by the inhabitants for their good offices in this matter.—S.

RETURNED WITH BRIDE—Mr. John W. Horton, who arrived at Summerside a couple of weeks ago on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Horton, left on return to his home in Saskatoon, Sask., on Saturday taking with him as all sensible young men should, a bonnie Island bride. Mr. Horton was wedded on September 6th at Charlottetown, to Miss Ruth Coffin of Fortuene Bridge, a very popular member of the staff of Messrs. Patons Limited, Ch'town. The marriage took place at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Crawford Aitken, Rev. Melville Aitken, also a cousin of the bride, officiating. Friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present and every happiness and prosperity in the West.

WEDDING BELLS—Mr. William Rogerson, son of Bruce Rogerson and his wife, formerly Miss Carrie Cole, was married to Miss Gertrude Whittier, Dover, N. H., the ceremony taking place at 4 p. m. in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Arlington, Mass. After the significant ceremony was performed, the wedding party were entertained at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Turner. The event was quietly celebrated, but the contracting parties were congratulated by a large number of their young friends who emphasized the event by presenting the happy young couple with many beautiful gifts. The bride was dressed in white georgette with bridal veil and carried a magnificent bouquet of dainty flowers. The wedding feast was spread at the home of the bride's former nurse teacher. The event was heartily enjoyed by the contracting parties and admiring friends. The married couple were unattended. They will reside at 10 Central Street, Arlington, Mass.—Y.

EASTERN STAR ENTERTAINMENT—A delightful musical and literary entertainment was given by the Summerside Chapter, Citadel of Eastern Star, in New London Hall on Thursday night. Mr. A. S. McKay ably presided over an appreciative audience which filled the commodious building to the doors. The proceeds, in aid of the Chapter, amounted to a handsome sum, including a brisk sale of candy. The programme was as follows: Banjo solo and selections, Mr. John Thomson; readings, Hon. J. H. Bell; vocal solos, Mr. Lowell Hancock; reading, Mrs. A. S. MacRay; comedy, Mr. Norman McDonald; readings, Mrs. A. P. Jamieson; vocal solo, Mr. George Bowness; reading, Mr. C. D. McCallum; vocal duet, Miss Simmons and Miss Wright; quartette, Mr. George Bowness, Mr. Lowell Hancock, Mrs. A. S. MacRay and Miss Bird Wright. God Save the King. The organist of the evening was Mrs. Annie Gordon.—S.

SUCCESSFUL EXHIBITION—The exhibition at Alberton on Tuesday last was well attended despite the early morning rain which threatened to interfere with the success of the event. There was however an increased number of exhibits in almost all of the departments and an especially large increase in domestic science and handicraft display that were shown with roots and vegetables in the Alberton Rink while the live stock was shown in the field adjoining. The exhibit of Ayrshire heifers from the boys club were shown to good advantage and considerable interest was shown in the awards and contests by the young owners. A fair exhibit of other cattle was shown, including Holstein and Shorthorn with a few real good Guernseys from the herd of Mr. Clark of Alberton. Horses were exhibited in considerable numbers, the classes being well filled. Three rather extraordinary grey stallions were shown. Considering the unfavorable weather a large number of farmers and their families attended. The association is to be commended on such a successful show under the circumstances. The exhibition was formally opened by Mr. A. E. MacLean, M. P., and the other speaker was Hon. W. M. Lea.

SANK SUBMARINE: NOW DRIVES CAB

PARIS, September 22.—A man who claims to have sunk the British submarine L55 near the Fortress of Kronstadt, in the Gulf of Finland, in 1919, is now a taxicab driver in Paris.
He presented himself at the office of a Paris evening paper and told a remarkable story.
"I am," he said, giving only his initials, "Mons. N. N., at present taxicab chauffeur here but formerly commander of the Krasnaya Gorka (Red Hill Fort), at Kronstadt. "It was I who bombarded and sank the British submarine L55 on May 29, 1919 in Kapsorsky Gulf.
"As the published account of that event is not wholly accurate, it has occurred to me to give you the exact details.
"The sinking of the L55 occurred," the man went on, "in exceptional circumstances. I was in command of the fortress, and I was preparing a counter-revolutionary, or anti-Bolshevik, movement. It is, therefore, not without deep regret that I recall to-day the death of sailors who were once our allies.
"But I had to obey the call of a higher conscience. Every evening villages on the coast were being bombarded, and I received not merely complaints but orders. What could I do?
"If I had not acted I should have been dismissed, and my object would have been doomed to failure. I should have alienated the support, on which I depended, of the population of the villages.
"At first I obeyed superior orders to the extent that from my fort I fired a number of salvos in the hope that the English war vessels would go away. But they came again.
"On May 29 I had to give orders to fire on a submarine, the nationality of which I did not then know. The shells of my big long-range guns sent up great pillars of spray—I can see them now—at the spot where the vessel was seen.

"When the firing ceased there was no sign of the submarine. I thought it had plunged, but the news now published shows that I sank it."
"And your counter-revolutionary movement?" he was asked.
"I had eventually to take refuge in a neighbouring country with 6,000 men. Later I went to Poland where I enlisted.
"And the man who sank L55 took up his gloves and hat and went off to pilot his taxicab about the boulevards of Paris.

ANTI-MOTORS SOCIETY

(By British United Press)
LONDON, Sept. 22.—One of the strangest societies ever formed came into being the other day in a Bloomsbury flat. It is to be known as the Anti-motoring Society, and its object is to avoid contact with anything connected with motoring.
Members must produce proof that they are in no way connected with the motoring industry and they must pledge themselves never to possess a car.
Two wealthy women are said to be behind the organization which has been formed to assist residents living in large towns to take effective action against the noise created by motor engines and to aid the police and local authorities to check road-hogging.
The Society is negotiating for the purchase of a small Island off the coast where its members can retire for complete quietness and rest in the holiday period.

Surrender of Shantung Army

(Special to The Guardian)
SHANGHAI, Sept. 21.—Advices from Manchuria today reported the surrender of the remnants of the Shantung Chilli army to the Manchurian commander Gen. Yang Yuting. This news was hailed in Shanghai as the culmination of the two years effort of the Nationalists starting at Canton in 1926 to unite China for the principles of Sun Yat Sen.

The fact that the Manchurians co-operated so closely with the nationalists under Gen. Pai Chung Hsi in whipping out the last organized remnants showed how strong a hold the nationalist cause has in Manchuria. The surrender marked the passing from power of Gen. Chang Tsung Chang pictures-que ex-Governor of Shantung, who rose from coolie-laborer in Harbin to the leadership of one of the important sections of China. The beginning of the end came early this month when the local commander at Tsientao went over to the National Government and took his troops with him. The major defection occurred just as Gen. Pai was taking the field with 100,000 nationalists after announcing to all foreign legations that the time had come to "clean up" the territory south of the great wall.
