ROADS BAD FOR HAULING—A part of the year with much more to haul to market is a poor one for road making in the opinion of farmers coming into Summerside from the western approach. The road blocked leading to River Street owing to a new bridge under construction at the ice yard, farmers from Linkletter Road and other districts in that direction will make a detour by the Pope road, which in wet weather is almost impassable owing to new clay being put on this section of the highway.—S.

Close Successful Summer Cruise Season To Bermuda
HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 25—(AP)—We have just closed one of the most successful summer cruise seasons to Bermuda, the British West Indies and British Guiana since the inauguration of the direct service between Canada and these Empire colonies by the Canadian National Steamships, stated Capt. R. C. A. Goudey, Marine Superintendent of the line on his arrival here tonight on the Ocean Limited.
"While Bermuda and the Islands of the Caribbean are well-known as winter resorts," Capt. Goudey continued, "it is only during the past couple of years or so that they have come into prominence for summer holiday travel, and the heavy passenger lists of the lady liners sailing from Montreal to the Bahamas and Jamaica, and from Halifax via Boston to the Leeward and Windward Islands, Barbados, Trinidad and British Guiana during the past summer indicate the popularity these summer cruises have attained. Indications are that the coming winter cruise season will prove a record one. The increase in travel by these cruise ships is an indication of the greater measure of prosperity that is now being enjoyed on both sides of the line."
Capt. Goudey's trip to Halifax is for the purpose of looking over the facilities of the company preparatory to the commencement of the winter cruise season from that port.

Labor Trouble Grips Martinique
PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Oct. 25—(CP cable)—Officers of the French Steamship Cuba which docked here Saturday night from the Island of Martinique reported that French possession in the three of labor trouble.
They said soldiers had been called out to remove forcibly 100 striking dockworkers who had prevented unloading of the Cuba at Fort-de-France. Another French ship, the Antilles was held up there when her crew joined the strikers, they reported.
The general strike has paralyzed Martinique for three weeks, the Cuba's officers said. All industries in Martinique were reported to have joined in the strike but no violence was reported.

THIRTY SHIPS PASS THROUGH DARDANELLES
The note asserted there was supporting evidence for the allegations which declared a Russian ship landed airplanes, tanks and bombs at Cartagena, Oct. 15; that a Spanish steamship two weeks ago landed armaments of Russian origin at the same port; that a Russian vessel landed 85 military trucks at Alicante Oct. 19 and that three Italian planes landed at Palma, Mallorca, Oct. 7 while an Italian ship unloaded cases of armaments there.
CONDUCT PROBE
The British Government, the note added, was investigating the case of the British steamship Bramhill, which is alleged to have conveyed arms to Spain.
Finally the note stated there were four cases of infractions of the agreement supported by reliable evidence at the disposal of the British Government and which, in the British view, was worth while bringing before the committee in order to ascertain the facts.
Poland, it was understood tonight, will present charges tomorrow that both of the opposing groups in the committee have shipped arms and airplanes to Spain.
The Spanish Embassy in London yesterday charged Portugal with killing 40 Spanish sailors in a naval clash off the African coast.

Drying-Off Cow
It is advisable to allow every cow with calf a rest period of six weeks before calving. To that end, the "drying-off" process in a persistent milker should start eight weeks prior to that event. If milked right up to the time of calving the cow will be likely to give much less milk than normal, or may fail to yield milk. The calf from a cow that is in good condition at calving time, will also show good results from liberal feeding during the dry period of its dam. A ration of legume hay, some silage or roots, and a mixture of equal parts of corn meal, wheat bran, ground oats and linseed meal, is excellent for conditioning dairy cows. The fattening ration should be fed liberally for a period of four to six weeks, and up to within ten days of calving time; then the corn meal should be withdrawn from the mixture and the amount reduced to four or five pounds a day. Just before calving time, a light ration, that keeps the bowels mildly relaxed and has no tendency to produce a feverish condition, should be supplied. After calving, it should take approximately three weeks to get a cow up on full feed and up to her full flow of milk.
The best method of drying-off a cow with which we are familiar is as follows: Start drying-off the cow eight weeks before she is due to freshen. Milk her once a day for two or three days; then once in three milkings; then once in four milkings. Some cows dry-off more rapidly than others. If, for instance, a cow is giving 15 pounds of milk per day, and one milking is dropped, she will perhaps give 12 pounds at the next milking. Then milk once a day until the milk yield falls to 10 or 11 pounds per day; then milking may be dropped to once in three periods. This should dry off any cow. If a cow is known to be a very persistent milker, stop her grain, and in Summer, when grass is good, it is sometimes necessary to keep the cow in the barn, on dry feed.

LADY DUFFERIN PASSES AWAY IN LONDON

LONDON, OCT. 25—(CP cable)—The Dowager Marchioness of Dufferin and Ava, Chatelaine at Rideau Hall in the early days of the Canadian Confederation, died today. She was 93 years of age.
The dowager Marchioness was the widow of the first Lord Dufferin, Governor-General of Canada 1872-78, whose abilities were brilliantly displayed in dealing with the problems of the then infant dominion.
While her husband was Viceroy of India from 1884 to 1888 Lady Dufferin performed notable work in organizing better medical treatment for native women.
Throughout her husband's long career, in Canada and in India, and as ambassador at St. Petersburg, Constantinople, Rome and Paris, as High Commissioner at Cairo and commissioner at Damascus, Lady Dufferin carefully recorded the events of their lives.
"My Canadian Journal" was published in 1891. "Our Vice Regal Life in India" in 1889, and "My Russian and Turkish Journals" in 1916.

Lady Dufferin was Harlot Georgia, eldest daughter of Archibald Rowan Hamilton, of Killyleagh Castle, County Down, Ireland. She married Lord Dufferin in 1852.
Lady Dufferin was a Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire, an officer of the Imperial Order of the Crown of India, a Grand Cross of the Turkish Order for the Sheikah, and of the Persian Order of the Lion and Sun.

Designer Of Bluenose Is In Halifax
Canadian Press Staff Writer HALIFAX, Oct. 23—(CP)—Tired of bustling New York, "where you don't have time to think," W. J. Roue, Nova Scotia's famous naval architect who designed the champion racing schooner Bluenose and a score of internationally known private yachts, is back in Halifax bending over blueprints and "living once again."
"Yes, I've seen the Bluenose since they put engines in her" he replied and there was a trace of sadness in his voice. "Angus Walters had me down aboard her and Angus and I had a good weep over her."
He was totally in accord with Bluenose's proud skipper: "She can still beat any of the bankers, American or Canadian. All they have to do is rip out her engines and replace the keel they took off when she went up to Toronto."
Nova Scotia's leading naval architect left here three years ago with a fanfare of publicity. His wide reputation had won him a place with Ford and Payne, yacht brokers, of New York. He came back quietly and unannounced to return to the drafting room in Halifax a few blocks away from where he labored nearly a lifetime designing fast yachts.
Mr. Roue is still associated with the New York firm but he said he preferred doing his work in Halifax where local yachtsmen have already given him enough work to keep him busy at least part of the winter.
And he hadn't any kind words for New York. "They have a seven day week there and the busiest is Sunday." He laughed like a lad freed from school. "I didn't even have time to eat—but here," and Mr. Roue waved his arm towards a comfortable couch, "I can lay down and have a little nap after lunch, if I feel like it."
He's been designing yachts since 1908. His Halligonian three times beat all comers in the St. Petersburg-Havana races, his Malay won the New York-Bermuda races in 1928 and '30, and his Water Witch showed her heels to the field in this year's Miami-Nassau classic. On the Great Lakes, the Roue-designed Acadia and Norseman of Toronto have consistently triumphed.
"It's great to be back among friends," he grinned as he returned to the drafting board. "They couldn't make a New Yorker out of me."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
Shooting From High Places

The effect of altitude is enhanced in these two pictures, (below) by including in the foreground the brow of the hill, and (right) by the shadow of the building (Empire State) from which the downward shot was made. The pictures were taken at exposures, respectively, of 1/50 second at f.16 and 1/25 second at f.16.

IN RECALLING your vacation tours, did it ever occur to you how often you were taken or went to high elevations for a view? The summit of a hill, the edge of a precipice, the mountain peak, the skyscraper, the lofty monument, the church tower, the crow's nest of a ship, not to mention going aloft in airplanes.
Therein lies a picture-taking idea for the next time you start going places. Forget not your camera, and whenever you find yourself "on top of the world" somewhere, make yourself "monarch of all you survey" by snapping the picture below. Reserve part of your album for such pictures with an intriguing title—"Jumping Off Places I Have Known," "Scenes from High Perches," "My Camera Goes Aloft," "Topside naps," "Hitting the High Spots" or "What better can you think of? If you will take advantage of such opportunities—and once you get started on his hobby, you are likely to see that you go to high places purposely for picture-taking—you will soon have a collection of compelling, not to say zesty, interest.
The impression that you want to give in these pictures is that of every altitude. To do this it isn't necessary to teeter on the brink of your perch or otherwise to risk your life while you snap the picture. It is better for you and the picture to stand far enough back to include a little of the brink in the foreground, thereby intensifying the feeling of height. Having the horizon line well toward the top of the picture also helps by adding distance and vastness.
You may be tempted to peek your camera over the edge of a retaining wall or window ledge and shoot down. If it be a country landscape, shooting down will not usually give the perspective that conveys the effect of great altitude, so well as shooting with the camera held level, although the picture may still be interesting. In any case, when you do shoot down, the effect will be helped by taking in a nearby object located on the way, such as a protruding gargyle from a church tower, a jutting rock from a precipice, or a bit of the wing or wheel of your airplane. Have the sun at your back, because the shadow of your elevation on the terrain below also helps to tell that you were high up when that picture was taken.
In all such snapshotting it is advisable to use a small lens opening, otherwise, you will lose a little detail in the distance. Frequently, too, it is worth while to use a filter, particularly if your picture is to include a cloud-stuffed horizon or if there is haze.

GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY LAUDED
BOSTON, Oct. 25—(CP)—Governor James Curley paid tribute tonight to the friendliness existing between Canada and the United States and expressed confidence that an attack from the Far East would find the neighboring countries "joined in a common brotherhood."
He spoke at a dinner of the Canadian-American Reciprocity League and declared it was "gratifying to find there are still no armed guards" along the border.
"In the event of a crisis arising between the United States and the Far East," he added, "I believe we can rely with confidence upon the support and assistance by our neighbors to the north and since we have been one in peace it is not unreasonable to anticipate that should the necessity arise, we will be found one in war, joined in a common brotherhood to a common end—the preservation of all that is worthwhile in Christian civilization and progress."
Judge Louis B. Lausier of Biddeford, Me., another speaker, said the people of Maine have a direct interest in the election of Curley to the United States Senate.
Lausier declared that "when Gov. Curley goes to Washington to take his seat as a United States Senator he will not only have before him the problems facing the nation, but those problems the solution of which will have a deep and vital influence on the people of New England."

Taken Into Custody After Gun-battle
RIPPLES, N.B., Oct. 25—(CP)—Nehemiah Hudlin, mulatto who defied arrest since Friday night, was taken into custody without trouble tonight at the home of his brother, William.
Wanted for non-payment of taxes amounting to three dollars, Hudlin was later charged with "resisting arrest" and "shooting with attempt to prevent arrest."
The only weapon he had when captured was an axe. Previously Corporal Ralph Love of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was grazed when Hudlin blazed away with a shotgun. In 1927 the mulatto was acquitted of murdering provincial Constable Russell Hayward, shot to death in a manhunt while Hudlin was resisting arrest on an assault charge.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 24—(CP)— Newspapermen today had a bill of health terming them "reliable, honorable and accurate, from Mrs. George Black, M.P., for the Yukon."
"There is no need to licence or muzzle the press in Canada," she said addressing the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Women's press club last night on "Parliamentarians and the press," she added, "welcome the opportunity presenting their policies and views to the public through the press."
"During my 15 years in Ottawa as the wife of an M. P. and now as one, I have always found the members of the press most reliable, with a sense of honour on releasing copy and accurate in important matters. I have never known a member of the press gallery to betray a confidence and I have known several to sacrifice big 'scops' rather than break faith or release their knowledge ahead of the appointed time."

MAY LOSE TENNIS SUPREMACY
SYDNEY, Australia—(CP)—Jack Crawford, Australian tennis star, believes Great Britain will be hard pressed next year to save off the challenges of Australia and United States for the Davis Cup.
