This Style Leader—"CONTINENTAL"— is Congoleum Gold Seal Rug No. 479.

"This 'Continental' is one of the finest patterns I have ever seen in Congoleum. It is smartly styled, richly coloured and in harmony with the spirit of modern decoration. Yes, it's a good recipe for tired or dismal rooms."

Outstanding as this pattern is, it is only one of the many amazingly beautiful Congoleum Gold Seal rugs now on display in good housefurnishings stores. And remember—Congoleum Gold Seal Rugs have other advantages than their beauty. They are sanitary, easy-to-clean—a damp mop keeps them spotless—and they lie flat without fastenings of any kind. THE COLLEGE TIMES.—Bright and newsy, the April issue of "The College Times," organ of the Prince of Wales College students, has made its appearance. In addition to the customary features, editorial, poetical, etc., there are some amusing sketches in dramatic form. The issue reflects credit on Miss Jean MacDonald, editor-in-chief, and her competent staff.

Entomology

THE CORN EAR WORM

This insect is often mistaken as the "European Corn borer." It does considerable damage at times to sweet corn and tomatoes. Wintering as a pupa, the adult moth of this insect appears in July depositing its eggs singly, mainly in the silk of corn, but also on leaves before the silk appears, on the tassels as well as on the leaves and stems of tomatoes, and many other plants. The eggs hatch in from three days to two weeks depending on temperature. The caterpillars first feed on the surface of the plant, attacking and checking the growth of the central tuft of the corn. It feeds upon the silk for a time, then burrows into the ears, feeding on the husks, silk, and unripe kernels. Mold and decay often sets in, the excrement and injured kernels forming suitable conditions for their development. Tomatoes are injured by the larvae boring directly into them causing decay, whereupon the caterpillars enter another fruit. When fully mature the caterpillar in a specially constructed cell just below the surface of the ground.

When the pest causes important damage to sweet corn, this may be reduced by dusting with a mixture of equal parts arsenate of lead and superfine sulphur, making the first application as soon as the silk appears. Two further applications are then made before the corn is ready to pick. Any good make of duster may be used and the material dusted on to the silk. As regards tomatoes, spraying with arsenate of lead, or dusting with a mixture containing 10 per cent of powdered arsenate of lead will reduce the injury, if two applications are made, the first when the young fruit has newly formed and continuing at intervals of ten to fourteen days until three or four have been given.

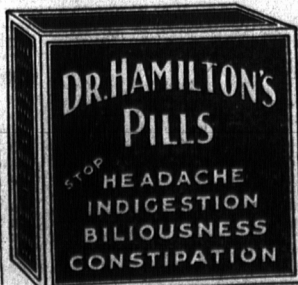

Striped Cucumber Beetle

These voracious striped beetles attack squash, cucumber and related plants and have been found feeding on beans. They are quite common and destructive in some sections. The plants are attacked soon after they emerge from the soil or are set out by adult beetles which have wintered over the ground near where they reached maturity the previous season, along the edge of woodlands bordering on cultivated land or in similar places. They usually emerge in the spring two or three weeks before their favorite food plants are available and feed upon the leaves, petal or pollen of various plants. When squash, cucumbers, etc. are available, they often appear in great numbers and quite suddenly and quickly devour their leaves and often gnaw the stems of young plants. Egg laying soon takes place, the female depositing her eggs loosely upon the plant or in crevices in the ground. From these the grubs hatch in about a week and burrow through the soil, feeding on the roots of the plant for a month or more, finally transforming to pupae in an earthen cell. In September they emerge and are often found feeding on the rind of the ripening fruit, or on available blossoms and pollen, but rarely touch the leaves. They go into winter quarters when the plants are killed by the frost. Nicotine dust such as is used for orchard pests (4-5 per cent nicotine sulphate) applied quickly and forcefully with a hand duster, so as to cover the plants and renewed so as to keep the plants and the soil around the base well watered until the danger period is passed, is a satisfactory remedy. Ordinary flowers of sulphur dusted on the plants, on standarding dusting, or in greater quantity diluted 1 to 5 with slaked lime or flour, has given fairly satisfactory results.

A newer method from which highly satisfactory results are being obtained as by dusting with sodium fluosilicate. This material is now being placed on the market for insecticidal purposes. For use it is diluted at the rate of one part to two of hydrated lime. For very young and tender plants it is recommended to direct the dust to the ground. The material adhering to the legs of other arachnids of the insect has an irritating effect, causing them to clean the affected parts by licking, which results in the poisoning of the insect. The beetles are thus likely to be contaminated by the poison from crawling along the ground about the plants, as well as from the plants themselves.

MR. HAROLD STARR FELLOWS

CANNING, April 18.—The death of Harold Starr Fellows, age 56, occurred Sunday evening, April 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kervin, Canning, N. S. following an illness of several years. He was born at Canning and was a son of the late William and Jane (Dickenson) Fellows. Prior to his illness he was supervisor of export and import fruit and vegetables for the Department of Agriculture at Halifax. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the I.O.O.F., and in politics was a staunch Liberal. The late Mr. Fellows was a very popular and won a host of friends wherever he went.

In Memoriam

MR. CECIL J. SMITH

It is with feelings of deep regret that we today chronicle the death of Cecil J. Smith of Emerald at the age of 34 years. Deceased had been engaged as a hand on the ship Carver for the past few years and while away on one of his trips he had a tooth extracted with the result that a short time after the nerves of his jaws and throat became paralyzed and this caused his untimely death. Deceased was a young man of very sterling qualities, quiet, unassuming and religious. His body was taken to Emerald and interred at Summerville where the last sad rites were performed over his grave by Rev. Father McKenna.

He leaves to mourn their loss his wife (nee Mary Crowe) of Crowe Brae) two children Avonetta aged 1 1/2 years and Joseph aged 8 months. Also his mother, two brothers, Walter and Reginald and four sisters, Mrs. Clarence Hickey of Danville; Sister Catherine Vincent of Halifax; Helen teacher at Every street and home.

The many Mass Cards and letters of sympathy received bore silent testimony to the great respect in which he was held. R. I. P.

EASTER MUSIC.—The choir of the United Church Montague under the direction of Rev. Arthur Long, presented their Easter Cantata, "The Crucifixion and Ascension," on Sunday evening at eight fifteen. The Church was filled to capacity and was aglow with spring flowers. The Cantata was thoroughly enjoyed by the many music lovers present. The parts were well taken and Mr. Long's work with the choir is deeply appreciated by his people. Miss Margaret Coffin favored the congregation with the beautiful number, "O Lord Most Holy, be here the Cantata. The following is the program: Crucifixion and Ascension, by Fred W. Feace, Opening Chorus, God so loved the world, No. 2. Chorus: God sent me His son into the world to condemn the world. No. 3 (The unjust condemnation). Tenor Recitative and Chorus. No. 4. Mrs. E. W. Mills and daughter, Mrs. Harry Lane, Montague, over the week-end.

New Glasgow And Vicinity

Misses Ruth Stevenson and Rhoda Brown, Charlottetown are spending the Easter holidays at their respective homes here.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Joseph Stewart, Bay View, who lost his home by fire on Monday evening of last week. The fire was discovered at midnight when Mr. Stewart and his son were awakened by the strong smell of smoke. It is thought that the fire started from a defective fuse. Some furniture was saved, but a great many things were burned. Mr. Stewart valued very highly. The following Friday evening the retail grocery store of Mr. Lemuel Wyand, Cavendish, was also burned to the ground. Mr. Wyand had not been in the store since Wednesday and intended closing down the business

"GIVE A PERSON A GOOD REPUTATION"

SAYS DALE CARNEGIE

Author of the famous book: "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

"Shakespeare said: 'Assume a virtue if you have it not.' And I might add: Assume the other person has the virtues you would like him—or her—to possess."

"In other words, act as though you knew that particular trait were one of his outstanding characteristics"

"A friend of mine who had hired a new servant girl learned afterwards from her former employer that she was honest and a good cook but had never kept the house clean."

"When the girl reported for work, did my friend let her know that she had any doubts about her cleanliness? Of course not."

"Instead, she said: 'Nellie, one of the things I like best about you is that you are so neat and tidy in your personal appearance. I know you will keep my house spic-and-span all the time.'"

"And Nellie did. No girl could have done it better. She had been given a reputation to live up to."

The Ladies of the New Glasgow United Church Missionary Society held their Easter Service on Sunday evening. A large number attended and the following program was carried out, presided over by Miss Ella Semple, and Mrs. William B. Bulman as Organist, Doxology, Hymn, Look Ye Saints the Sight is Glorious. Scripture reading by Mrs. R. H. Blinn. Reading, Mrs. (Rev.) W.J. McLeod, The "Pageant" The Story of Christ, from the Manger to the Grave. Those taking part were Misses Margaret Howatt, Jennie Smith, Margaret Stevenson, Lynette Brown, Vivian Howatt, Mildred Brown and Misses Harold Howatt and Irwin Andrews. Duet by Mrs. Edwin Stevenson and Mrs. George Dickenson. Solo by Miss Elaine Parkman. Duet by Clara and Douglas Bryant. Solo, Miss Joyce Ferguson. Duet, Mrs. W. B. Bulman and Margaret Stevenson. The other Hymns were in keeping with the occasion. A silver collection was taken and the money goes for Missionary purposes.—G.

The Easter Sunday Services were fittingly observed in the Churches here. In the morning Mr. Quigley of the Christian Church and Mr. Tilley of the United Church delivered beautiful Easter Messages. Mr. Quigley paid a fitting tribute to the late Mrs. Wellington Houston who had passed away at an early hour that morning. Mrs. Houston was a life long member of the Church and attended regularly when her health permitted. The Guardian extends deepest sympathy to the bereaved family in the loss of a kind and loving Mother.
