A correspondent from Mount Tryon writes:—Harvesting in this section is now almost completed, and the sound of the gasoline engine may be plainly heard thrashing out the golden grain.—J. Alfred Wood is spending a well-earned vacation with his family in Boston, Mass., being the guest of his brother Joseph Wood. Henry Quigley leaves in a few days for the domains of "Uncle Sam" where he has secured a position.—A report is current that liquor is being sold in the vicinity of Mt. Tryon. It is hoped that in the near future sufficient evidence may be obtained, and the guilty parties brought to justice. New rails have recently been placed on the bridge below Thomas McEwen's and William Delaney's, which, no doubt, will be much appreciated by the travelling public. The work was done by the noted contractor James McLeod.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 20th, the home of Hugh J. and Mrs. Bernard, 419 Salem St., Medford, Mass., was the scene of a very pleasant occasion, it being in the nature of a surprise party, to Mr. Bernard's sister, Mrs. John Profit of Spring Valley, P. E. I., who had been visiting in Somersworth, N. H., and Boston for the past four weeks. The party was a complete surprise to Mrs. Profit who had been taken away on a sight seeing trip by her brother William and on returning at about 8.30 p.m., found the house filled with friends and relatives. After greetings by all present the company was called to order by Fred Dunbar who in a few well chosen remarks of welcome to Mrs. Profit, presented her on behalf of the friends with an elegant solid gold watch and pin. The watch was suitably inscribed with Mrs. Profit's monogram and the date of Sept. 20th, 1910. After the presentation to which she responded very feelingly, voicing her appreciation for the manner in which she had been treated during her stay, the party had a very enjoyable time with games, songs and music, during which a very fine lunch was served by Mrs. Bernard assisted by several of the young ladies present. The party broke up at 1.30 a.m. wishing Mrs. Profit a very pleasant journey on her return home. The following is a list of those present: George and Mrs. Molloy, Fred and Mrs. Dunbar, James and Mrs. Cousins, Hugh J. and Mrs. Cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Milton, Charles and Mrs. Molloy, Miss Bessie Condon, Miss Margaret Condon, Miss Anna Hazelwood, Miss Clara B. There was a large attendance in the Police Court Room on Saturday morning when Stipendiary Magistrate McDonald delivered judgment in the Charlottetown Club prohibition case or, properly speaking, the case of Robert Jenkins vs Peter J. Doyle, steward of that institution. His Honor decided that the alleged sale could not be termed violations of the act and in his judgment, which was detailed and comprehensive, held that the evidence in favor of the bona fide nature of the club was overwhelming. In reviewing the evidence as to the bona fide nature of the Club, His Honor stated that it was shown to be a common practice to obtain liquor from the steward for consumption at home and elsewhere the members paying by checks or wine cards which were equivalent to money. The first point to consider is whether the Club was formed for the evasion of the Prohibition Act. It was shown by the evidence that it was formed to promote social intercourse and material improvement, provide recreation and introduce and entertain strangers. The members were elected by ballot, the President, Vice-President and Secretary, being elected annually. The executive purchased all the supplies for the use of the Club. The furniture and equipment were of the best quality. The list of members included Lieutenant Governors, Members of Parliament and others. A number of members are total abstainers. His Honor recognized that the Club performs an important function in social life, but one feature that detracted from the influence is the consumption of liquor off the premises. Such a practice has been condemned by English Judges in giving judgment in similar cases, but when he considered the overwhelming weight of evidence in favor of the bona fide nature of the Club he must come to the conclusion that this was a bona fide institution not formed to evade the Prohibition Law. His Honor then dealt at some length with the second question, was the supplying of liquor by Doyle a violation of the Prohibition Act? This point had been ably argued before him by the counsel on both sides and numerous authorities had been cited, the defendant contending that this supplying of liquor was not a sale according to the Prohibition Act but the arrangement or distribution of common property. His Honor then considered the principles of law in the cases cited, which he said were clear and authoritative. He referred to the English Licensing Act of 1872, comparing section 3 of that act with section 3 of the Island Prohibition Act, both dealing with sale of liquor. Finding the ordinary common law definition of sale, and considering both statutes he decided that the act of the steward could not be held as a sale. His Honor then quoted from an elaborate judgment given by one of his predecessors in office, Hon F. L. Hazard, in regard to a similar case tried under the Canada Temperance Act in which he held that the Club was a bona fide institution, and there was no sale in violation of the C. T. Act in 1894. Summing up His Honor decided that there had been no attempt to evade the law the transactions had been carried on under the impression that no law had been broken. His decision was that there was no sale of intoxicating liquors and no violation of the Prohibition Act.

TUESDAY.

A very pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Bessie Palmer on Monday evening, Sept. 26th, at the home of George and Mrs. Terris, on the Mountain Road, by her many friends before her return to P. On Sunday last the velocity of the wind was 24 miles an hour, being a very heavy gale. At Malpeque a few fishing boats went ashore. At Murray Harbor the schooner Francis P. Cook owned by R. Calhoun, and the Charley S. owned by Samuel Penny were driven on the flats. The latter was floated yesterday and it was expected that the other would also be got off without much difficulty. At Miscouche Shoals a small schooner loaded with fish went ashore, but was floated off without much difficulty.

At Mt Thom Pictou County, on Saturday there was a reunion of seven brothers of the Davies family, including the agent proprietor of the Plaza and Cliff hotels. The septette was made up of J. J. Davies, Charlottetown, Edward Davies, farmer of Mt Thom, William A. Davies, of Moncton, Superintendent of Water Service, of the I. R. C. A. C. Davies of Boston, wholesale clothier, D. Davies, farmer of Mt Thom, on the homestead, E. C. Davies, of Central, Washington, Vice-President of the Eastern Railway and Lumber Company. The other two members of the family, not present at the reunion were Mrs. Alexander Campbell, of Rosthern, Sask., the only sister, and R. H. Davies, of St. Barbara, Cal., who was Superintendent of construction of the Western Union Telegraph Company, of Chicago, for twenty-eight and a half years, but who was obliged to retire from active work owing to paralysis. It has been 38 years since the brothers were all together. A. C. Davies spent this summer at the Cliff with his family, but it has been nine years since D. F. was on the Island. Being coming to Charlottetown, A. C. visited his sister in Rothen. At Boston he was joined by D. F. and the two came to Moncton, where they met William A. all three coming to Charlottetown. The eight brothers are all splendid specimens of physical manhood, averaging 200 lbs in weight, and the majority standing six feet or over. Those who went abroad left at an early age, and all have prospered in themselves worthy and successful members of the community in which they have cast their lot. Sunday they all attended the old church at Mt Thom, and they will remain at the old home for several days before separating again. Death has yet not broken their ranks and judging from their robust appearance is not likely to for years to come.

WHAT CAN DO FOR MY SKIN-TORTURED BABY? Is the Despairing Cry of Thousands of Mothers. A Scotchwoman Tells How Her Child was Cured. "What can I do for my skin-tortured baby?" How many worried, worn-out mothers, whose children are suffering with eczema, itching, burning, disfiguring humors, have asked themselves this question. Through neglect or improper treatment, some minor eruption has developed into a distressing and ugly affliction. Simple treatment fails and stronger ones are tried, sometimes so harsh that the suffering is increased rather than allayed. Even professional advice is proven useless, and the fear is ever-present, turning the child's nature into a nightmare of physical and mental misery. Such mothers, who have witnessed their children's suffering and who have undergone the long, dreary, and distracting anxiety which they alone can realize, will be glad to know that a letter from Inverurie, Scotland, will read it with keenest interest. "I use Cuticura Soap steadily for my baby's skin. She had the eczema when she was three months old. She was in an awful mess for over her body. We never thought she would get over it. We sat with her night and day for about a month, expecting every minute to see her die. The doctor gave me an ointment to rub her with but it did her no good. My mother was home from America and she told me to try Cuticura Ointment and she told me to use Cuticura Soap. There was a great difference when she used Cuticura. It seemed to soothe her and she slept. I used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and she was quite better. I used Cuticura Soap and it is the fattest baby now. She is a miracle, the doctor declares. I am glad to tell anybody about it. And that the success of the Cuticura Remedies is not confined to the treatment of eczema, is amply proven by Mrs. M. A. Scherwin, 674 Springwells Ave., Detroit, Mich., who writes: "When my little Vivian was about six months old, her papa had a boil on his forehead. At that time the child was covered with hives, and I suppose it was because it her own head became infected for it broke out in boils one after another. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her of them entirely. We do not think any one can praise Cuticura Remedies too highly. That mothers may test the efficacy and economy of the Cuticura Remedies for themselves, the Patent Drug and Chem. Corp., 121 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass., will send them on application a generous trial box of Cuticura Ointment, sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of eczema, rashes, itching and scalings of the skin and scalp. Under the influence of Cuticura, Ointment, the itching and burning stop, the child falls into a refreshing sleep, the mother rests, and for the first time in many weeks, peace falls on a distracted household. The Cuticura Remedies are sold by druggists everywhere."
