IN AID OF NEW PARISH

Your attention please! Friday night of this week, inaugurates a series of card parties in aid of the new Reformed parish. Now what do we want? Simply your cooperation and attendance. Say, don't miss them for the world, because we intend making them the big events of Charlottetown each Friday night.

Besides, the prizes are going to be worth while, also there will be an aggregate prize awarded for the highest score after each eight card parties.

But listen, we have a new idea! We intend having each evening after the regular card party, what they call a "freeze out." What does that mean? It means that we are going to find out the best card player in Charlottetown. How are we going to do that? Come and we shall tell you: Don't miss a single card party, otherwise you are out of the race for the aggregate prize.

Our last appeal is! It is for the new church. Therefore if you attend, it means you want to do something for the new parish.

The new building is costing more than you think, so come along and bring your friends and help to pay for a brick in the new church.

The injured men returned by train last evening and are at present at Shaw's Hotel. The accident occurred, about 11 o'clock in the forenoon, about seven miles from Tormentine. Messrs. Worth and Shaw state that when they were driving along, they saw this big truck coming along at high speed over the brow of the hill and on the wrong side of the road. Mr. Worth tried to turn aside to avoid a collision, but before he could do so the big truck was upon him. His own car was badly damaged and caught fire after the collision and is a total loss. attention to safety measures. Mr. Cunningham pointed out that only 8.40 per cent of motor accidents occur at railway level crossings and these were a class of disaster which could be and should be checked. He endorsed the "stop" law put into effect by Quebec, and quoted figures which vividly explained this support. Accidents at Quebec level crossings had decreased from 26 in July and August 1928, to eleven in the same two months of this year. Casualties—deaths or injuries—had come down from 75 to 21 during the same periods.

Mr. Cunningham, referred to the "through highways" or "boulevards," which were being demanded by motorists to give an uninterrupted flow of traffic. Drivers coming in on side roads did not object to stopping before they crossed or turned on to these highways. "If this is good practice on the secondary highway or side street," said the speaker, "it is equally good at a railway level crossing where the odds are against the motorist."

"The process is so simple and so effective that it is inexcusable for any more level crossing accidents to happen. The measure demands of the motorist a definite physical act when approaching an unprotected level, crossing—viz. to stop and change gears." The time element was as nothing, the speaker pointed out, compared to the valuable lives annually sacrificed in the past.

Arthur Gaboury of Montreal, secretary-general of the Province of Quebec Safety League, adding his contribution to the discussion on Mr. Wyse's paper, said that while reference had been made to the opposition of motor organizations to the full stop rule at railway crossings, all were not so opposed, and he cited the names of two Montreal motor bodies which favored the measure which Quebec province had been first to adopt. He supplemented the statistics quoted by Mr. Cunningham by stating that in Quebec province in July of 1928 there had been fourteen crossing accidents with a death list of sixteen persons, and in the following month twelve persons had been killed in similar accidents. These figures he compared with those for July and August of this year, when under the full stop rule, the casualties had been reduced to six and four respectively. Mr. Gaboury strongly urged a united effort by Quebec's safety and automobile organizations to reduce the frightful toll of deaths by motor accidents, and so permit that good province to again take the lead in courageous measures which will advance the welfare and safety of its people.

In the discussion which followed, Col. Paul R. Hanson, President Royal Automobile Club of Canada, Montreal, stated that 90 per cent of the motorists of Quebec do not observe the stop law at crossings. The offender's license should be taken from him and his car impounded for a definite period. The speaker stated that his club, although it at first opposed this law, are now strong in support of this statute. Considerable discussion followed from the floor.

When speaking on the interesting subject, Canada, the Playground of America, Mr. Theo. D. Morgan, President, Montreal Tourist and Convention Bureau Inc., enlarged upon the scenic beauty of Canada. Good roads have resulted in an increased, and now immense, tourist traffic which is bringing a great revenue into the country—a revenue which can be used for road improvement; in fact the tourist trade is now second only to the wheat industry. Tourist traffic indirectly brings about other industrial developments as travellers often invest money in attractive enterprises in the places visited. Good roads have made accessible all the scenic beauty of our land, and in this respect Canada has equal any country

SUCCESSFUL C. W. LEAGUE MEETING AT CONVENTION SUMMERSIDE

Inspiring Sessions Held At Kinkora This Week.

Messrs. W. E. Tummon, M. P., for Hastings South, Ontario, and W. E. Rowe, M. P., for Dufferin-Simcoe, Ont., received a rousing reception when they addressed the people of Summerside and surrounding districts in St. Mary's Hall last night. The meeting was ably presided over by Mr. D. B. MacDonald and on the platform with the visitors were Hon. J. E. Wyatt and Mr. Shelton Sharp. The chairman expressed regret that Mr. W. G. Ernst was not able to be present and read a message from ex-Premier Stewart, who also could not be present on account of the bad roads.

The speakers covered much the same lines as they did when they addressed large meetings in Charlottetown and Alberton the two previous evenings. Mr. Tummon, in expressing his pleasure at being privileged to speak in Summerside regretted that the audience was not as large as it ought to have been, but he was not surprised when he considered the condition of the roads in the last few days. He outlined at considerable length the policy of the tariff as discussed at the other meetings. The problems of the Canadian farmer, he said, differ in the different parts of Canada and the only way to handle them is for every one to obtain a greater and more general knowledge of Canada as a whole, which would make for better progress. He did not wish to discuss personalities as he saw Mr. A. E. MacLean, M. P., for Prince County, in the audience, but he was certain that the administration of this country could be very much improved.

He spoke at some length on the importation of butter at one cent per pound as it affects the farmers of Prince County, who come into direct competition with that imported butter at such low tariff. Two thirds of the people of Canada are affected in the same way. He expressed the hope that these people would think over these things and wondered why the United States with a tariff of 12 cents a pound bought only four million pounds of butter while Canada bought 29 million pounds. A different policy is the only remedy, a true, clean policy with Canada's interests first.

Mr. Rowe was greeted with much applause when he rose to speak. He spoke chiefly on the policy of his government in developing coal in this country. If we cannot get our hard coal from our own coal fields we have the right to get it from our British cousins in Wales. The present government say they give the British preference, but in the Summerside harbor tonight is a brig with coal from the United States while the miners in Cape Breton are idle. Cold storage facilities are badly needed in this country and such facilities would open up a much better market for the perishable products of the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Rowe spoke very strongly on the migration of our boys and girls to the land to the south of us, nearly every person in the audience having some relations in the United States. This was greeted with much applause. It is our responsibility he said to see that our land is developed so that our boys and girls of the future may have a heritage worth prizing and striving for and to which we can bring back the millions of people who are across the border. If we had retained our pioneer stock we would have had today a population of seventeen million instead of nine and a half million. We must have a government that is capable of looking after the interests of Canada's own people.

Hon. J. E. Wyatt in moving a vote of thanks stated that he agreed with the speakers that the present government is not looking after the interests of the Canadian people. When the United States government found we could undersell them in potatoes and other products they immediately investigated the matter and raised their tariff so that we or section of country in the world. Judge Arsenault paid a tribute to Mrs. McPadyen, secretary of the Prince Edward Island Tourist Association for her efficiency, gentleness, and painstaking care in the execution of her duties. He extended an invitation to the delegates present to visit the Island during the tourist season. Mr. Arsenault urged uniformity in legislation throughout Canada with regard to motor traffic as absolutely essential.

Dead Man's Holiday A Striking Success

"Dead Man's Holiday" was the title of a gripping, mysterious, and powerfully dramatic comedy presented last night by the talented Chautauqua players. Funny though this play was, its plot contained the necessary pathos to make it a great dramatic success. The story, as it unfolds, shows Jimmie Tapp, a blind man as an intruder in the home of Mrs. Hunt, the body of whose husband was supposed to have been drowned in the river a year previous. Dr. Blanchet, a polished newcomer to the village, who is in love with Mrs. Hunt, unmarks Tapp and discloses him as James Hunt, or his double, for the man insists that his name is Shaw. The doctor also proves that the newcomer has stolen a large sum of money, and suspects that Hunt or Shaw is suffering from a lapse of memory. This is proven to be the case, and Hunt makes a remarkable recovery, immediately recognizing his wife and the maid, Hettie. At this point a woman arrives on the scene, claiming to be Mrs. Shaw, newly married. The circumstances of the case are explained to her, and she presses the matter no further. Blanchet finds his ideal in the supposed Mrs. Shaw, and "All's well that ends well."

Yesterday afternoon, Princess Blue Feather of the Great Astee race of Indians of New Mexico gave a very interesting lecture and sang the wonderful songs of her tribe. Her beautiful alto voice and her charm of manner and expression won the admiration of all present.
