A GREAT TRIUMPH GAINED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE.

The Doctors of Mount Clemens Institute Prove the Value of These Pills in the Case of Mr. S. Harris, Government Inspector of Elevators at Hamilton, Ont.

From the Star, Dundas, Ont.

We were much pleased to see Mr. S. Harris, the well known Government Inspector of Elevators at Hamilton, in Dundas the other day, greatly improved in health and appearance since the last time we met him. As is known to many of the Star readers, Mr. Harris was recovered from a long and severe illness, and is now quite able to attend his usual duties. From this long illness, many predicted Mr. Harris would never recover, and the fact that he is once more able to go around very nearly as spry as he used to be, is a most gratifying result. In reply to our reporter, Mr. Harris related the early stages of the attack and subsequent sufferings which he experienced, and while he did not court publicity, he would relate the circumstances of his wonderful cure. About four years ago Mr. Harris woke up one morning with a stiff neck; try as he would, he was unable to turn his head, and externally that he could not walk, he was unable to get rid of it. The stiffness moved to the spine and shoulders, and he was unable to do almost a cripple of him, and it was with extreme difficulty that he could get out of bed at all. As for walking, it was out of the question with him. The attack became so bad that he was unable to put on either his vest or hat. From time to time, he would get up, and in a few minutes, none of whom were able to give him much relief. It was almost impossible to follow his advice, and went to Mount Clemens, and was treated with all patients. Mr. Harris had to undergo a thorough examination in order to determine the nature of the malady, and after several examinations had been made as to Mr. Harris' condition, the physicians there finally decided that he was suffering from muscular rheumatism at all, but that the ailment was of the nerves, and told him that he would do him little or no good; that he should get together a few "men" and Mr. Harris placed himself in the hands of one of the physicians there, and he had to undergo a course of medicine, but did nothing for him but administer medicine in the shape of pills. Shortly after he commenced this treatment he began to improve perceptibly, and his appetite greatly improved. He began to walk around slowly at first, but soon was able to get around more than he could for a year previous. He was able to put on his coat and vest, and began to feel like his former self. His improvements were so rapid and complete not only to himself but to others, that he was pitted with all sorts of questions as to his wonderful recovery. The medical attendant was determined as to the nature of the malady which was being administered. Much to the surprise of Mr. Harris and other patients there, he was told that it was a well known Canadian remedy, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and was advised to continue to use them for a time on his return home. Mr. Harris is loud in his praise of the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and consented to make his case public in the hope that he might benefit others similarly afflicted. Mr. Harris has long been a resident of Hamilton, being a well known builder of elevators, as well as Government Inspector of the same, so that his statements are well known in the community, and he is sincere in the statements he made.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON XVII.—JUNE 23.
Review.

GOLDEN TEXT.
When thou pisseth through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee.—Isa. 43: 2.

INTRODUCTION.
The teacher will find it profitable as an introduction to this review exercise to refer again to the Preview which precedes the lesson for Sunday, April 7. The review of the lessons proper which follows is in the form of a short list of suggestive questions covering the period to which the lessons for the three months have been devoted. If time permits after the questions have been taken up and answered in the class session, the further discussion of some one or more central thoughts suggested by the questions, or probably a study of the Golden Text for the Quarter, will be found profitable.

REVIEW BY LESSONS.
What period of time do the lessons of the Quarter cover? From what event to what event in the history of the Hebrew nation? Give what you consider to be the most conspicuous character traits of each of the following persons: Jacob, Joseph, Esau, Moses, Aaron. What do you consider the most important or crucial event in the life of each of these persons? In what respects is the character of Jacob worthy of commendation in what respect not? How does the story of Joseph and his brethren reveal and emphasize the power of a guilty conscience? What benefits, if any, accrued to Israel from its experience of slavery in Egypt? In what respect was it especially advantageous to Moses, in view of the future service he was to render in leading his people out of Egypt, to have been brought up at the Egyptian court? What other special equipment had he for his great work? Under what disadvantages did he labor? What was the significance of the passover to the generation living at the time of its institution? What was its twofold significance to later generations? How are we to view the severe punishment which Jehovah inflicted upon the Egyptians prior to the escape of Israel from Egypt? Did the fact that God chose to reveal himself to the world more fully in his dealings with one chosen people, and nation lessen his interest in other nations and peoples?

THE GOLDEN TEXT.
In verse 1-12 of Psa. 105, which are to be read in connection with this Golden Text, the inspired poet is singing of the loving kindness of Jehovah, which was his favor. In the midst of the song of praise with which the psalm opens he is reminded of the manifold transgressions of Israel against Jehovah, and of his successive chastisements and repeated subsequent deliverances of his chosen people. Among the deliverances which the psalmist recalls the escape of Israel from Egypt and the passage of the people through the Red Sea is one. Of this he sings in the words, "And he saved them from the hand of him that hated them, And redeemed them from the hand of the enemy. And the waters covered their adversaries, And the waters covered their adversaries,"

There was not one of them left. Then believed they his words; They sang his praise.
The prophet, like the psalmist, lived many centuries after his wonderful deliverance. The intervening history of Israel had been rich in deliverances and greatness, many of which are included in the psalmist's enumeration. In the verses following those we have quoted, while the poet commemorates in this psalm deliverance of the past, the prophet in his part, as the mouthpiece of Jehovah, gives to Israel the assurance of a continuation of the loving kindness of Jehovah toward his people in the future. Their passing through the waters unharmed, first at the Red Sea and later at the Jordan, has long since become a typical experience illustrating God's protection; and therefore when the prophet wishes to express the greatness and consistency of Jehovah's love and care for his people he voices the divine promise of constant protection in the words of our text: "When thou pisseth through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee." The burden of the prophet's message is that God will never forsake or fail to protect his chosen people.

GIVE ME STRENGTH

This is the cry in these strenuous days, when business makes such demands upon us. Exercise and fresh air are necessary if we would be strong, but the tendency of life today is toward conveniences and modes of living that deprive us of the very means of keeping our strength and health unimpaired. We sit more, we sleep less, we eat richer and more artificial foods than formerly. The natural remedy—The practical means of withstanding these inroads upon our safety. Take the fresh air and sunshine when possible that is when going to and from work.
