

Would This Thrill You?

If it wouldn't, nothing else could. For, to see this little slip of a girl brave death as Jean Paige does in this sensational chapter photoplay when she jumps from a horse to the step of a speeding freight car, is to see one of the most daring feats ever attempted by a woman. It will be one of the big spots in your fifteen weeks of pleasure when you see—

GROSS NEGLIGENCE OF POULTRY.—A great deal of live poultry is still coming in from various parts of the Province to Charlottetown. Attention has been directed to the fact that a number of crates of fowls which came in from the western part of the province were for some reason not accepted by the buying establishment here and were left outside at the railway depot. The Guardian was informed that these fowls were left there for two days with no one to look after them or give them anything to eat, and were still there last night. Fortunately the weather is mild or the birds would probably perish. The question is, whose duty is it to look after these birds, and what is going to be done with them?

DIED IN THIS CITY.—The death occurred in this city Monday of Miss Annie McConnell aged 74 of Georgetown. Deceased was a sister of Mr. William McConnell of that place. The deceased was a native of Kirkenbright, Scotland and came to reside with her brother in Georgetown about thirty years ago. She was of a cheerful disposition, and endeared herself to all her acquaintances. The remains will be taken to Georgetown for burial.

DR. HEARTZ INJURED.—The numerous friends on this island of Rev. Dr. Hartz will be sorry to learn that, while going to the post office at his home town, Amherst, he caught his foot in a projecting hydrant and was thrown to the ground, fracturing his left shoulder blade. Although this happened but three weeks or so ago he is able to be about. The shock was serious and his medical adviser insists that he must not attempt any public service during the winter.

A Cross-Arm Brace--- And Your Telephone!

"WELL," you may say, "What is a cross-arm brace?" "What has it to do with me? What do I care if—"

A cross-arm brace is an uninteresting-looking piece of iron. One end is fastened to the telephone pole, the other end to the cross-arm to hold it securely at right angles to the pole.

At least two are used on every pole, and they have increased in price 249 p. c. since 1913.

A small item. But only one of scores of the vital parts of a telephone system the costs of which have advanced in a like manner.

Here are a few other items:

This is but another reason why telephone rates must be increased.
