THE LATEST FROM THE THEATRES
AT B. F. KEITH'S, BOSTON
For the first week in the New Year at B. F. Keith's Theatre, Boston, a surpassing array of brilliant star attractions has been engaged. Joe which, perhaps the most famous Hebrew comedian on the American stage, and without question one of the greatest delineators of the Hebrew character that ever trod the boards will appear in his latest act, A Study From Real Life. Mr. Welch does not burlesque the Hebrew, he rather depicts him just as one meets him on the street, and his impersonation is a vivid and realistic picture. Mr. Welch comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre with a brand-new fund of experiences, and all who visit Keith's next week may rest assured of a hearty laugh. Another big star of the week will be Homer Lind, former baritone of the Metropolitan and Henry W. Savage Opera Company, who will appear in a musical playlet in three scenes entitled 'The Opera Singer. This Comedy deals with life behind the scenes, and Mr. Lind appears as a broken down operatic singer who has been obliged to play the cheaper theatres to eke out precarious living. He is supported by a capable company, Ralph Smalley, Boston Symphony orchestra, will return after a long absence, and other big features will be Kluting's Animal Entertainers, a wonderful troupe of dogs, cats, rabbits and pigeons; Wood and Wide, two newcomers with something good; Caron and Herbert, comedy aerobats; Warren and Conley in a dainty vaudeville mixture; Lena Pantzer, queen of the wire, and many others.
IN MEMORIAM.
A gloom was cast over Tryon and the surrounding country on Monday, the 16th inst, when it was learned that Henry Dawson, one of the oldest, and most respected residents of that locality, had passed away, after a brief illness of one week of heart

The splendid business that this month has brought us is not a matter of luck or of printer's ink or of any element of 'cleverness.'
People are coming to Prowse's because they get SATISFACTION in Prowse's goods and Prowse's way of doing business, because they are sure of their full money's worth, and often a little over. The plain facts all evident. The people are giving up chasing the will o' the wisp of goods at half price. It is service and value that count in the long run.

failure. Although he had reached the advanced age of eighty-two years and seven months, he still retained all his faculties to a remarkable degree. He was a man noted throughout his long life for his strict honesty and integrity in all his dealings with his fellow men, and he died surrounded by his family trusting in the merits of his Redeemer.
He was married in 1856 to Elizabeth Keough and they settled on the present homestead in Tryon, which was then almost covered by primeval forest, but as the years went by he succeeded in clearing away the forest and converting the land into one of the most fertile farms in that locality, and since then by his prudent thrift and hardy toil, ably seconded by his amiable and loving wife, he succeeded in amassing a considerable portion of this world's goods.
He leaves to mourn, besides a sorrowing and heart broken widow, the following children:-Gordon W. of Cape Traverse; John A. and H. Edwin (clerk of the Legislative Assembly) of Augustine Cove; Mrs. Elizabeth Trainor of Kinkora; Mrs. Margaret A. Driscoll of Cape Traverse; Mrs. Janie Dodge and Mrs. May Sullivan of Boston, Mass, and Miss Ida at home. (Examiner and Summerside Journal please copy.)
