British Film "Man Who Knew Too Much" At The Prince Edward
"The Man Who Knew Too Much" the British production current at the Prince Edward Theatre, moves toward its melodramatic climax with a mounting excitement that reaches an almost hysterical intensity before the villains are caught and the sympathetic characters restored to peace and security.
The Lawrences are vacationing in the Alps. A friend is mysteriously shot. Before dying he directs Lawrence to a secret paper in his room. Because the latter finds the cryptic and mysterious message, his daughter is kidnapped and he and his wife are warned to say nothing to the police at the risk of their daughter's life.
Back in London Lawrence uncovers a clue that leads him to the Wapping district, but he is caught by the kidnappers and held prisoner. Mrs. Lawrence, however, at the scene of the attempted assassination

EDDY-JENKINS NUPTIALS
A quiet wedding took place in the North River Baptist Parsonage on Thursday, Oct. 24, 1935, when Thelma Blanche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jenkins, Charlottetown, became the wife of Robert Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Eddy of Bathurst, N.B. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Wakeling.

TRUE WORKERS J. O. L. MEET
On the evening of Oct. 10th the members of the True Workers, J. O. L. were entertained by their Guardian, Mrs. Mary MacLean at her home on King Square. After the happy occasion was enjoyed a delicious hot dinner, the guardian on behalf of the members, presented the Worthy Chairman, Miss Mary B. MacDougall, (who recently transferred to the Prince Edward Hotel, No. 266) with a small gift. She was also presented with an L. O. B. A. pin by the Provincial Juvenile Director, Mrs. F. W. Shaw in memory of the pleasant hours spent together during the past year. A splendid regular meeting then followed.

JUNIOR RED CROSS—The regular meeting of the "Young Canadians" of the Junior Red Cross was held on Friday afternoon, October 18th, with the President, Lila Thompson, in the chair. After reading the minutes of the previous meeting, roll call was taken and each member giving her name, age, weight, and height. It was moved and seconded that roll call or next meeting be answered by each member naming a favorite health rule. The conveners of the different committees gave their reports and showed that the daily work was being carried on in a satisfactory manner. A candy guessing contest was won by Gerth Stewart. The following programme was then carried out: Recitation, Elma Webster; Recitation, Kathleen Roberts; Reading, Dorothy MacCallum, Song, School; Reading, Lila Thompson; Recitation, Gerth Stewart; Remarks, Traveler. The meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

POST-NUPTIAL SHOWER—A Miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wesley Paynter, French River, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 9th, when a large number of friends and relatives assembled to present the bride and groom with gifts. Thelma Paynter. The living room was beautifully decorated for the occasion in pink and white by friends of the bride. The arch, which was made up of Autumn leaves, blended with the bride's dress of flame colored velvet. She was ushered to the room by Miss Carmin Stewart while Mrs. Leslie Campbell played the bridal chorus. The gifts were opened by Misses Helen MacLeod, Murie

Roman Hyacinths Best Indoors
THEY BLOOM TWO OR THREE WEEKS EARLIER. GROW IN LIGHT RICH SOIL OR IN WATER GLASS.
The easiest grown of all the hyacinths for indoor use is the type known as the Roman hyacinth. The spikes are smaller, looser and more graceful than the common hyacinth and each bulb produces two or three of them. They also come into bloom in the house from two to three weeks earlier than the giant types. It is now time to get hyacinths going for living room and sun parlor decorations during the winter months as well as to get beds of these handsome and fragrant blooms planted outdoors.
For indoor growing a light rich soil produces the finest blooms. They are also grown in specially designed glasses in water. The procedure is the same whether grown in water or soil. Plant the bulbs with the nose just out of the ground in soil, or set the bulbs in the glass with the base just touching the water. Rainwater or distilled water is best for the purpose, with a lump of charcoal in the glass. Set away in a cool dark place until roots are formed and the blunt nosed spike pushes out of the bulb. Formation of roots is easily noticed in the glass. In potted bulbs the growth does not start until the roots are developed. Allow the growth to be at least an inch before bringing out to the light.
Hyacinths are coming back to garden use and deservedly, as they are among the finest of spring bulbs, both for the stately formality of their heavy spikes and for the delicious perfume that permeates the whole garden during their season. They require well drained soil to do their best and should be set 6 inches apart and 6 inches deep.
Beds or groups of a single color are most effective and there is a wide variety for selection. They are sold in unnamed bedding types according to color.

Conditions in Africa Theme of Address
The following is a summary of the address delivered by Rev. Fr. Cotton, C.R., in St. Peter's Cathedral Hall on Tuesday evening.
Commenting first on the situation in Africa as a whole he said the great question was what is Europe going to do with Africa, which already has a population as large as North America. We are witnessing today a strong incursion into Ethiopia, an incursion which needs both re-training and guiding.
In South Africa, a nation of 2,000,000 whites has imposed itself and its governments on 8,000,000 Africans. The difference between this colonization and that of North America is that the African very emphatically does not "die out" before the European. In South Africa today the move for the disfranchisement of the African is almost completed. The old British Cape Colony gave franchise to natives who could pass certain tests. But the Dutch policy has always been that dictated by the fear of being "swamped" by the African vote. And this has prevailed—unless some turn of events arising out of the present Ethiopian crisis should lead to reconsideration. This deprivation of a share in the political development of their country is a heavy cross for the many educated young Africans who are graduating from our universities and higher schools. Fr. Cotton said that at the school of the Mission where he has been working in Johannesburg, thirteen candidates passed an examination, equivalent to the entrance to our Prince of Wales College, last Christmas.
The hope of the Africans must be in education and economic development, in the wisdom of which many instances can be drawn from their old tribal histories—and above all in the spread of Christianity. Thus they can absorb the benefits which European civilization brings and in due time claim full equality of citizenship so that truly united nations, combining both the European and African racial elements, will—somehow arise.
He described the breakdown of the segregation policy which was much advocated in the past. In Johannesburg the municipality has recently bought land and is building houses on a scheme intended eventually to house 80,000 natives.
He described the general plan of finance and work in the Johannesburg Diocese and showed what has been done with contributions towards the work of the Community of the Resurrection. This is an order of clergy under religious rule and supplements and reinforces the work of the Diocese especially on the missionary side. There are about fifty European parishes which are too much occupied with self-support to do very much for missions to the Africans. But several instances of generous gifts were quoted.
Fr. Cotton was emphatic in claiming that the native in South Africa is making good, and showed this from what has been achieved by native clergy and teachers, by native doctors and nurses, as well as in sport and on the stage. Movements in connection with the Scouts' and Guides' organizations are vigorous. In particular, he showed how the gold mining industry depends on the labour of some 300,000 young Africans and spoke of how in times of danger, explosions, and falls of rock, the native miner shows the coolness and courage and instant readiness to go to the rescue of entombed comrades, whether white or coloured—which is the glory of mining annals in every country.
He spoke of the African reception of our religious teaching and of the remarkable change over from Polygamy to Monogamy that has been welcomed by a large proportion of South African natives.

PERSONALS
Mr. E. M. McLeod of Halifax is registered at the Canadian National Hotel.
Mr. and Mrs. Murdock Ross, Charlottetown, who recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, returned last night from a six weeks visit to Vancouver, B.C. While there they were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. E. A. Helm and Mr. Helm.

Monthly Meeting Of Canadian Legion Held
The regular monthly meeting of the Charlottetown Branch of the Canadian Legion took place on Wednesday evening and was largely attended. Comrade President John Hillier presided.
After the reading of the minutes and admission of new members, the meeting settled down to a discussion of the problems of returned men. Criticism was voiced regarding the small quota of returned men who received work on the rifle range recently. It was pointed out that apparently some men who were not returned soldiers, but claimed to be such, secured work under a false pretence. Some men even went so far as to wear a returned man's service button when not entitled to it, and thus committing an offence. The Executive Committee was requested to keep a watch on the reported changes being made by the local Government in so far as they affect returned men.
A resolution from the Provincial Command referring to the retention of women in the more highly paid positions and the possibility of placing a proportion of unemployed returned men on small holdings of land in the country brought forth a good discussion, after which the whole matter was referred to a committee for study and a report at the next meeting.
The meeting was closed with the National Anthem, after which a meeting of the Executive Committee took place for the discussion of important items.

STARTING THE DAY RIGHT
It is an old conviction that most humans aren't fit to speak to until they've had whatever it is they like the best for an eye-opener, and some expert with time on her hands might figure out the relative amiability and energy in contrasting menus, and give a rating to coffee, tea, chocolate or milk, and decide whether bacon, eggs, ham, lamb chops, oatmeal or fish balls should be the rest of the meal.
We might all end on a diet of nuts and fruits by this means, it is true, but diet fads exist for punishment and they shift about like the sands of the seashore.
Here is muffin recipe even the grumpiest breakfast-eater will enjoy:
FLUFFY MUFFINS
1. cup pastry flour

4 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Sift these ingredients together and add:
1 Cup Graham flour
1/2 cup dates, cut fine
1 egg and 1 cup cream, stirred together
Stir together as rapidly as possible, pour into buttered pans, and bake at 425 F. 1 1/2 golden brown—about 20 minutes.
A favorite omelette recipe follows, though why it should be named "Bachelor Omelette" is one of the mysteries. The recipe itself however, is no mystery and here it is:
BACHELOR OMELETTE
Work to a cream, a teaspoonful of milk and a teaspoonful of flour

Beat the yolks of three eggs until foamy and then add to the milk and flour combination beating thoroughly.
Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff and cut lightly into the other mixture.
Turn the result into a small frying pan which has three tablespoonfuls of butter melted in it. When the mixture begins to set, sprinkle finely chopped ham and parsley over it. Set it in the oven, pan and all for three minutes. Then fold it over, slip it on to a hot platter, and garnish it with slices of broiled ham and sprigs of parsley.
Probably the bachelor part comes in with all this flour and setting in the oven and adding broiled ham on the side. For they are all unusual rules in making an omelette, and bachelors frequently have unusual housekeeping ideas.
