HIS LIFE RUINED BY DYSPESIA

Until He Tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES" The Wonderful Fruit Medicine

MR. FRANK HALL Wyevale, Ontario.

"For some two years, I was a sufferer from Chronic Constipation and Dyspepsia.

I tried every remedy I heard of without any success, until the wife of a local merchant recommended 'Fruit-a-tives'.

I procured a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' and began the treatment, and my condition commenced to improve immediately.

The Dyspepsia ceased to be the burden of my life as it had been, and I was freed of Constipation.

I feel that I owe a great debt to 'Fruit-a-tives' for the benefit I derived from them."

FRANK HALL.

NOT MUCH MAGIC.

The fair amateur palmist looked at the left hand of the sweet young girl long and earnestly.

Breathlessly she waited for the palmist's next words.

"Ah! I see by your hand that you are engaged to be married," said the palmist.

"How wonderful!" exclaimed the bride-to-be.

"And," continued the reader of the future and past, in a more cutting tone, "I see that you are engaged to Mr. Loony."

"Oh, it's perfectly extraordinary!" burst out the blushing girl.

"How could you know that?"

"By experience," was the reply.

"But surely the lines in my hand repelled the prophetic one, with withering scorn. You are wearing the engagement ring I returned to him three weeks ago!"

CAUSE FOR WORRY.

Asked Tom—Jones is a great man to worry over nothing, isn't he?

Answered Bill—Yes, if he took an ocean voyage he would worry for fear the sea would dry up and leave him stranded in the mud.

FEEDING GEESSE

Oats are a better grain than corn for carrying geese through the winter. Corn should be used sparingly as geese fatten easily and if the birds are overfat the eggs will show a low percentage of fertility.

Geese are much like cows in needing plenty of fodder. The clover chaff gathered from around the managers is relished by geese. They will eat silage and gather considerable food from corn fodder. In fact, any green food that is suitable for dairy cows helps out in winter ration of the flock.

A flock of geese can stand much cold and they will often range on stormy days when it would be unsafe to allow the hens out. But at night a dry roosting place is needed that is free from draughts.

It pays to cull the geese in the fall and keep only the best for breeding stock. The money from geese sales comes from raising a large number while the grass is plentiful and then cashing in on the bulk of the flock before winter increases the work of caring for them. A small flock of breeders will annually produce a large flock of market geese if they are so managed that the eggs are strongly fertile and plenty of setting hens are available for brooding the first eggs.

In the winter the eggs will be healthier if they are held in moderate heat and not overfed. They cannot be neglected one day and then stuffed the next day if the best results are expected. Examine the birds every few weeks and note the condition of the body. Because of the heavy plumage it is sometimes difficult to tell the condition without handling.

AUTHORITIES

Little Nellie told little Anita what she terms only a fib.

Anita—A fib is the same as a story and a story is the same as a lie.

Nellie—No, it is not.

Anita—Yes, it is, because my father said so, and my father is a professor at the University.

Nellie—I don't care if he is. My father is an editor and he knows more about lying than your father.—Exchange.

WATCH YOURSELF GO BY.

Just stand aside and watch yourself go by; Think of yourself as "he" instead of "I"; Watch closely as in other men you note

The big-headed trousers and seedy coat; Pick flaws, find fault, forget the man in you, And strive to make your estimate ring true; Confront yourself and look you in the eye;

Just stand aside and watch yourself go by. Interpret all your motives just as though you looked on one whose aims you do not know;

You'll understand contempt, surge and surge, when you see your work, O commonest of men. Despite your cowardice, condemn what'er

You note of falseness anywhere; Defend not one defect that shames your clothes. Just stand aside and watch yourself go by.

An then with eyes unsealed to what you loathe— To sing's that with sweet charity

Back to your self-walled tenement you'll go. With tolerance for all who dwell below.

The faults of others then will dawn and shrink. Love's chain grows stronger by

When you with "he," as substitute for "I."

Have stood aside and watched yourself go by.

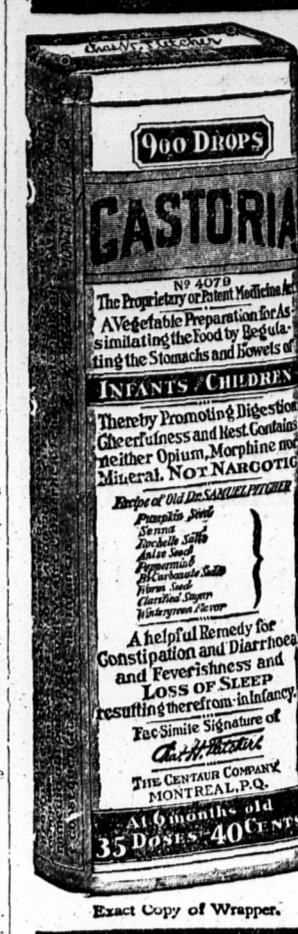

Dogs Bound to Trapeze.

Various actors who gave testimony, not content with vividly describing the cruelties which occurred in the theatre, told of chances of trainers and furtive glimpses caught of little dogs bound to a trapeze, being inspired in the art artists testified to having witnessed small terriers flogged with canes by actresses, lions jagged with tridents, and various punishments inflicted on elephants and monkeys.

Early in the inquiry the animal trainers scored a point when a "vanishing canary" act was rehearsed in the committee-room of the House of Commons. In the presence of the members of the Investigating Committee the canary made a walk on a wire by flinging it into the air. He denied that the velocity at which the bird traveled injured his heart. At the end of the flight the canary chirped as if nothing had happened.

The performer said he had done the trick for thirty years, and although he had ten had trouble with the S. P. C. A. he had never used more than three canaries. Other animal trainers made their pets perform for the members. One of the most entertaining acts witnessed by the committee was that of a well-known dog (who is said to have the most realistic drunkard gait in the world. The owner said that dogs were naturally imitative, and that he had never resorted to compulsion in teaching his pet to stagger.
