SUFFERED YEARS WITH ECZEMA

"Fruit-a-lives" Cleared Her Skin
Pointe St. Pierre, P. Q.
"I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good. Then, I used one box of 'Sootha-Salva' and two boxes of 'Fruit-a-lives' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is marvellous because no other medicine did me any good until I used 'Sootha-Salva' and 'Fruit-a-lives', the wonderful medicine made from fruit."

She's going where birds sing in the morning and cool winds blow "You'd better come up yourself then—you'll appreciate it better than I do." Vi answered smiling. "May I spend two weeks vacation this August with you?" Helen asked eagerly. And of course we were overjoyed to have her. And so that was arranged, and we went on packing for our trip. "I think you should take along some of your ornaments," Helen said. "Because I've a lot of candlesticks of my own—and if your place is as plain as you say, it will be nice to have reminders of this charming apartment."
"That's a good idea," Vi said, beginning at once to gather up our little treasures. "I'm going to make my room at home as much like this place as possible. I won't feel so badly then."
So candlesticks, silk covered sofa cushions, the strip of brocade cover the mantel, the incense jar, the Buddha and the various other little artistic things I had gathered, went into a large box to be shipped on our ticket.
And finally we were ready. Violet went to the window and stared out at the sun-baked street below. It was never a pretty outlook for this neighborhood, far to one side of the city, and inconvenient, and down at its heels. Wherever the girl looked she could see nothing but box-like red brick houses, with occasional airy a mattress thrust through an open window, and in the streets, push-carts and children and babies, and mothers too languid from the hot day to work—women who sat about in the shade of doorways and nursed the babies and talked and talked.
"And you regret that," Helen said, waving a hand up the street, "that ugly smelly outlook for green fields and a woods and waterfall!"
Violet smiled a little and turned from the window.
But I knew why she was sorry to go. She was worried over Bud. For the lad had been on his good behaviour for weeks now, but he was a little impatient about it. After Helen left she talked about him a little, we were taking a Saturday afternoon train and this was done so Bud could see us off. "He has been saving me up," Vi said. "He showed me his bank book last week, and he has $50 saved from his salary. And he hasn't been gambling in stocks lately. I do hope he'll be content."

Mae Edwards and Company At Prince Edward Theatre Tonight at 8.30

The importance of atmosphere in a play is very forcibly demonstrated in the production of "The Moth", the initial offering of the Mae Edwards Players at the Prince Edward Theatre. From the moment the curtain rises on the first act of this comedy drama, the audience is impressed with the aptitude of the descriptive phrase applied to it by a New York critic upon its first presentation: "Mystery, Thrills, heart throbs; and smiles!"
"The Moth" is a companion play to "The Bat" which has had one of the most sensational runs known to Broadway, and it is claimed to be in every way its equal. Miss Edwards herself needs no recommendation of ours. Well known to theatre goers of Prince Edward Island, it need only be said that in "The Moth" she is exceptionally well cast, with a role which sets upon her own magnetic personality as though in mind as each line is left his pen. Miss Edwards is one of the most popular and best loved actresses to visit the Island and from all accounts, the present visit will do much to enhance the esteem in which she is universally held.
After an absence of one season Jack Werner Corbin again heads Miss Edwards's supporting cast. Well remembered from previous visits, Mr. Corbin has, in "The Moth" that which he himself considers one of the best roles he has ever been called upon to portray. Charlottetown tenders him a hearty welcome on his return.
The remainder of the cast, including Gertrude Riggs, also Malcolm Murray, Tom MacCormack, William Walker and others, have been picked by Manager Charles T. Smith with the paramount idea of making the Mae Edwards Players 1922-23 model, stronger and better than ever.
The Mae Edwards Novelty Orchestra, under the direction of "Bill" Otis has been rendering musical programmes of exceptional excellence, and have increased, throughout the season, the popularity which they established on their first tour.
A bill of vaudeville acts, which would furnish a big evening's amusement in themselves, is interpolated into every performance, and Manager Smith says that throughout the Province this year the public have more than borne out their contention, that the motto: "You money's worth"—and a little bit more is the motto which militates towards success in the amusement world. He claims that the Mae Edwards Players this year are offering the best evening's amusement in their history and on the basis Charlottetown theatre goers may judge for themselves as to the quality of the performances at the Prince Edward Theatre next week.

WANT LARGE FAMILIES

In France there is a good-sized fund for the purpose of encouraging large families. Upon three different occasions, rather large sums of money have been given for this purpose by M. Cognac. The principal rewards are 100 prizes of 10,000 francs each to be distributed annually to the deserving heads of families of more than five children and fifty prizes of 25,000 francs for the heads of families of at least nine children. The donor of these awards accumulated his wealth in the operation of a large department store in Paris and during his lifetime it was a constant course of concern to him to note the dwindling birth rate of his country.

WILL ANSWER ANY WOMAN WHO WRITES

Montreal Woman Finds Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Montreal, Quebec.—"I was a sufferer for three years, not able to do my housework. My husband was discouraged, for I was no better and had had the doctor all this time and nothing helped me. I was always sleepy, had no appetite and suffered with my left side. My mother in England recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it had helped my sister, so I have been taking it. I am now able to do my housework and I can not praise your medicine too highly. I have great hopes for the future. I will tell anyone who writes to me what good it has done me."—Mrs. E. Masson, St. Henry P. O., Montreal.
For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been helping women just as it helped Mrs. Masson; oftentimes after doctors and other medicines failed.
If you are suffering from disagreeable symptoms caused by some female weakness, try this splendid medicine. It is a woman's medicine for women's ailments, and can be taken in safety by any woman.
