WASTING USE OF UNTILLABLE LAND

MOST FARMERS HAVE LAND WHICH COULD BE USED FOR SHEEP RAISING. Fifty-seven per cent of the 400 farms visited in 1915 by the Commission of Conservation in the four counties of Carleton, Dundas, Northumberland and Waterloo possess unutilized land other than that in woods. The average amount per farm of unutilized land of those having such as high in one country, as 53 per cent of the lowest average in any country was 15 acres. The average was 14 per cent of all the farms visited kept sheep. In one county four farmers among the 100 visited were keeping sheep, averaging four to each of the four farms. In this particular county, on 72 of the 100 farms visited, there were over 100 acres of unutilized land and only sheep, when there might well have been an 18 sheep on each farm. No class of stock is so well able as sheep to turn to good account unutilized and otherwise waste land. It has been well demonstrated by experiments that the keeping of a small farm flock headed by a pure bred ram is a profitable undertaking. They need very little care and yield two crops a year—lambs and wool. Expensive buildings are not necessary, as sheep require only to be kept dry and protected from stormy weather, with a little extra care at lambing time.

Fewer bad weeds would be found on Canadian farms if more sheep were kept, as sheep will eat almost all classes of weeds. Every Canadian farmer is not urged to go into sheep husbandry, but much idle land could and should be utilized as sheep pasture. It will pay. Those interested should write to the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto, for bulletin No. 214, or to the Sheep Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for the splendid bulletins published on various phases of the sheep industry.
