Insidious Eye Strain

We use this adjective advisedly. Sufferers from eye strain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect. The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy.

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when eye strain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.

A COSTLY JOKE

(By British United Press). LONDON, Nov. 17.—A tradesman from Transylvania who recently went on a fortnight's visit to Budapest with his wife has had a lesson in economics, says a story appearing in the London papers.

As the pair were walking down a main street of the city the wife brought her man to a halt before a dressmaker's establishment, exclaiming: "Look at that rose-colored silk dress! Really, it is bargain, I simply must have it." "I admit that it is cheap at the price," the husband conceded, "but you have a new silk dress at home, and, besides, you will have to pay a heavy duty on it at the Roumanian frontier."

"Oh, I can manage that all right," replied the lady. "I will find it round my neck, and the sharp Customs officer will not find it." "My dear," exclaimed the husband, thoroughly alarmed, "you must not think of doing such a thing. Let us move on."

Two days later the lady had to pass the shop alone. There in the window was the silk dress in all its alluring beauty. Eve was sorely tempted, and as Adam was not there with his tiresome objections she entered the shop and bought the dress, resolving not to let her partner know until they were both safe at home.

On the journey back to Transylvania all went well at the frontier. Customs officers passed the couple's luggage without any difficulty and then a brilliant idea came to the husband. He would have a little joke at the expense of these tiresome officials, and would also let his wife see that his warning about her proposed concealment of the dress was justified.

"That woman is taking a beautiful silk dress back with her," he said jestingly to the officials. They smiled scornfully, but the husband was so pleased with his own wit that he repeated his jest, without noticing the change of expression on his wife's face.

Stung by his taunts, the Customs officials felt in honour bound to make a closer inspection. The wife was escorted to the ladies examination room.

When she reappeared, an official sternly informed her chuckling husband that he must pay $600 as a fine for attempted smuggling.

"But-but," wailed the poor man, "it was I who gave my wife away!"

"It was a carefully staged comedy to mislead the Customs authorities," snapped the official. "You will pay the fine or go to prison." It is not stated whether the husband was able to claim the "informers' fee" as a rebate out of his fine.

Shippers Urge Better Service

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 19.—Establishment of a suitable steamship service between Saint John and Cuba for conveying potatoes from the Maritime Provinces was urged at a meeting here on Saturday of New Brunswick potato shippers. A regular weekly or fortnightly service was held as desirable and support of such a service, should it be established, was agreed upon. The matter will be brought before the Boards of Trade of the Maritime Provinces and before the Maritime Board of Trade at its meeting at Halifax this week.
