BRITAIN RENEWS PROTESTS TO REBEL JUNTA

TRANS - ATLANTIC TRIAL FLIGHTS PLANNED

COMMERCIAL SERVICE SEEN THIS SUMMER

Britain, United States, Ireland And Canada To Co-operate On Project.

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) WASHINGTON, April 7.—The United States completed arrangements today with three English speaking nations for commercial air service across the Atlantic Ocean.

J. Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of the Commerce Department, said agreements had been reached with Canada, Ireland and Great Britain under which giant flying boats will speed passengers and mail between New York and London, with stop-overs in Canada and Ireland.

Johnson said experimental flights probably will be started "in a very short time" by British Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways.

Mail carrying may begin this summer, with passengers accepted later.

To Grant Mail Contracts Johnson said the post-office department may advertise soon for bids on transatlantic mail shipments. Under the law, a maximum of $2 a mile for 800 pounds of mail can be paid, with allowances for excess poundage.

The British Government also is expected to grant mail contracts. Johnson said that the two air companies "have been ready since last June to begin experimental flights." These have been delayed pending outcome of the negotiations between the Governments.

Premier's Anti-killer Home

Within the innocent appearing walls of the new Tokio home, above, of Japan's Premier Senjuro Hayashi, are bomb-proof rooms, subterranean passages, secret exits, mysterious doors and disappearing floors which will protect him from assassination during tense political periods. The $28,000 residence is honeycombed with mystery and not even his wife will know where the premier sleeps. Below may be seen Hayashi at the front door of his home, with his wife sitting to bid him goodbye. Notice his stockinged feet. The former official residence of the premier saw two assassinations, many attempts at violence. Hayashi preferred a new residence, had this refuge built. It is called the "house of secrets." The premier took up residence in the house alone at first, forbidding his family to join him until he was certain it was safe.

MAJESTIC IS DRAFTED FOR NAVAL SERVICE

Renamed H. M. S. Caledonia As Training Ship For British Youths.

BY EDWIN JOHNSON Canadian Press Staff Writer LONDON, April 7.—Once proud queen of the ocean steamship lanes, the old White Star liner "Majestic" has escaped the shipyard wrecker and henceforth will serve as an auxiliary unit of His Majesty's Navy.

A floating palace of her day, the Majestic was withdrawn from regular trans-Atlantic service some time ago and consigned to the scrap heap. This plan was halted, however, and the ship drafted for special service.

The liner was completely overhauled, altered and re-fitted and will launch upon its new career re-named "H.M.S. Caledonia," and serve as a training establishment for boy-seamen and artificer apprentices.

The Caledonia has been converted to house 2,000 north country boys until the big shore training school at Rosyth is ready. This will take three years to build and as a boy's training only lasts a year, the ship will be the gateway into the navy for about 6,000 youngsters before 1940.

Almost the only parts of the ship that have not been altered are the engine room and the Pompano pool. The former social hall and French restaurant on "A" deck have been turned into a vast gymnasium and recreation room. Cabins on "B" and "C" decks have been reconstructed into big classrooms while cabins on "D" and "E" decks have been torn down to make way for sleeping hammocks.

If a cadet falls ill, there is the largest sick bay in any ship in the world. It is equipped to take care of 240 patients simultaneously and nearby are dental parlors with the most modern equipment.

For the instruction of the boys, guns have been mounted aft on what used to be the third class promenade deck. The mast has been fitted for instruction in climbing and the wireless cabin enlarged, for up to 200 boys will be attending signalling classes daily.

It is expected the first batch of boys will join the Caledonia about the end of April.

NO BONUS FOR WAR VETERANS

Pensions Minister Announces No Change Contemplated.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, April 7.—Canada's annual expenditure on behalf of war veterans amounting to about $60,000,000 and which has cost over $1,000,000 since the war, will not be increased by payment of relief to non-pensionable unemployed ex-soldiers.

Hon. C. G. Power, Minister of Pensions and National Health, himself a veteran and one-time pensioner, answered with a categorical "no" a recommendation for supplementary payments to unemployed veterans made in a report of the War Veterans' Assistance Commission, when his estimates were before the House today.

At the same time the Minister announced the Government's intention of establishing across Canada "workshops limited," voluntary committee work that had been very successful in Montreal, to assist the young war veterans in getting re-established in gainful employment.

"These organizations would be administered by prominent citizens and would be designed to enlist the sympathy and co-operation of people generally in getting war veterans back into occupations that would enable them to provide for themselves.

Hon. H. H. Stevens (Recon. Kootenay East) said unemployed veterans were on the horns of a dilemma. When they applied for relief from municipalities they were given it grudgingly, it being stated the Dominion Government should look after them.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, April 7.—In the 18 months since the present government took office, 93 commissions, ranging in size from an inquiry into a single charge of political partisanship to the lengthy textile investigation, have been appointed, according to returns tabled in the House of Commons today by State Secretary Rinfret.

Among the commissions listed as at present existing are the textile commission, which has cost $128,799 to date of which $40,512 is counsel fees; inquiry into the penal system $20,728 to date, with no counsel fees; grain enquiry, $33,544 to date of which $16,524 is counsel fees; veterans' assistance commission, $22,519, with no counsel fees, and an inquiry into illegal lobster fishing in New Brunswick, $1,678, of which $1,110 is counsel fees.

Two inquiries into political partisanship charges, one in agriculture department and the other in mines and resources, are also under way.

Since the present government came into power in October 1935, other major commissions include the Tory Anthracite Commission, which cost $22,246, and an inquiry into the condition of Indians in the Maritimes, costing $6,550.

Seventy-five commissions have been appointed in that time to investigate charges of political partisanship, most being in Quebec in the Post Office and Transport Departments. Of 43 such charges in the post office, 30 were in Quebec, three in Ontario, three Nova Scotia, three New Brunswick, two Saskatchewan, one each in Manitoba and Alberta. Of 28 such charges in the Transport Department, 23 were in Quebec, three in Nova Scotia and two in New Brunswick.

Explanation To Aerial Attack On Warship Sought

Destroyer Garland Speeds Towards Rebel Island Of Mallorca To Present Strong Protest.

BY JOHN MARTIN Associated Press Foreign Staff LONDON, April 7.—(AP)—The destroyer Garland sped to the Spanish Insurgent island of Mallorca tonight to present an imperative demand for explanation of aerial attacks against the destroyer Gallant.

There were indications that the Government later would make strong representations to General Francisco Franco at his Salamanca headquarters, for the Gallant incident added to numerous others with insurgents at sea.

Insurgent warplanes which apparently came from Mallorca dropped 15 bombs alongside the Gallant yesterday in two attacks off the eastern coast of Spain. They were finally driven away by the destroyer's anti-aircraft fire.

MAKES NEW CHARGE The Spanish Valencia regime made a new charge that German warships were aiding Insurgent vessels off Spain and patrolling areas "where their presence is not justified" by the plan of the European neutrality patrol. (Germany in the past has denied similar charges.)

Interference with the British freighter Thorpe Hall yesterday added to official impatience. The Thorpe Hall first was molested in the Mediterranean, and again in the Bay of Biscay.

Three British destroyers conveyed her into the Spanish Government harbor of Bilbao after steaming between the Insurgent warship Almirante Cervera and the Thorpe Hall.

The Admiralty recently ordered warships in the Mediterranean to swing into action whenever molested.

The Government dispatched a new note to General Franco, reminding him that he had not yet replied to protests against bombing of the destroyers Havock and Gipsy in February.

The destroyer Garland's command and the British vice-consul at Mallorca were commissioned to represent the Government in the Mallorca discussions.

While giving widespread display to the Gallant and Thorpe Hall incidents, newspapers here refrained today from editorial comment except on the case of Arthur Koestler, London News-Chronicle correspondent reported under arrest at Insurgent Malaga.

The News-Chronicle said Koestler, who is not a British citizen, was bound hand and foot to a plank and placed in solitary confinement. A number of prominent British writers dispatched a cable to General Franco, demanding Koestler's release. The afternoon Star asked editorially "Is Franco a cad?"

The bill is designed to substitute the reduction and settlement of debts act declared ultra vires by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing on Feb. 19.
