EXPERIMENTAL FUR FARM FOR QUEBEC.—Through the generosity of the Quebec Government, the fur farmers of the Province of Quebec are to have an experimental fur farm. The government had been working for some time with this end in view. About two years ago the Deputy Minister of Colonization, Game and Fisheries, Mr. L. A. Richard, came to Summerside to look over the Dominion Experimental Fur Farm and reported to his government the result of his interview with Dr. G. Ennis Smith and the layout of the farm. They later sent down from Laval University two veterinary surgeons, Dr. Rajotte and Dr. Brassard, who were at the experimental station here for twelve months to gather data for the start of a similar station in Quebec. These gentlemen will be on the staff of the management of the Quebec farm. The Quebec Government have felt the necessity of this farm to encourage the farmers to go in for the raising of fur bearing animals, especially the silver fox. It is felt that it will keep the young people on the farms and as Quebec is for the most part an agricultural province, a profitable side line such as this would materially supplement the farmers' income. The sum of $100,000 has been granted for this purpose and from time to time additional sums will be donated. As time goes on it is the intention of the Government to add to the farm a zoological gardens. The fur farm will not be confined to the keeping of silver foxes but the raising of other fur bearing animals such as otter, mink, beaver, raccoon and others. The Department believes that the raising of fur bearing animals in captivity has become a stable business and intends to do its utmost to encourage the people of Quebec to go extensively into the business. They believe that it will relieve in a great measure the unemployment situation; also that it will bring the farmers great returns in the winter. The commission appointed to look after the laying out of the ranch and its construction, are composed of the following gentlemen: Mr. Charles Fremont, director of the C. N. S. F. T. A., and owner of a ranch of 800 silver foxes; Mr. L. A. Richard, Deputy Minister of Colonization, Game and Fisheries; Mr. E. Rockette, President of the Provincial Fox Association of Quebec. The two veterinary surgeons mentioned above and a practical fur farmer, Mr. John Beetz, who is well known as one of the first to breed the silver fox in captivity. He will be the manager of the new farm. He is now engaged in instructing the farmers into the breeding of fur bearing animals. The ground has been chosen for the farm within easy distance of Quebec City and although having the advantage of electric light and running water has all the natural environment necessary for fur bearing animals, with natural woods, water fall, lakes, etc. Mr. Alden, who planned the National Battlefields Park in Quebec, has charge of the layout and has a comprehensive plan which may take years to complete, but is so planned that each additional piece of work will make a harmonious whole when completed. Work will be commenced in September and will give work to many unemployed. The farm will be carried on with the approval of the Canadian National Fox Breeders' Association, who will co-operate with the commission in every way possible. Members of the Quebec Association will donate animals to help stock the farm.—S.

MOSCOW LETTER

(By Eugene Lyons, United Press Staff Correspondent) MOSCOW, Aug. 12.—The major efforts of the Soviet government just now are directed toward the harvest, which now is in full swing in Crimea, Northern Caucasus, the southern Ukrainian steppes and the Lower Volga region. While there are numerous complaints about the lack of machinery and shortage of labor power in some places, the tone of the press is generally optimistic. Reports from all parts of the country indicate crops of better than average size and quality. Here there is nothing humdrum about harvesting. It proceeds amidst the shouting of the press with all the drama of a military campaign. The "second socialist harvest," as it is called, must prove to the world the advantages of collectivized farming, leaders insist. The first socialist harvest, in the Communist language, was last year, when collective farming for the first time assumed a dominant role in the national agriculture.

Collective Farms

This year more than two-thirds of the total planted area in the country belongs to the State and collective farms. The government must maneuver all its available machinery to help harvest this area. Industry failed to provide agriculture with thousands of machines which had been scheduled for production. This means that the existing harvesting machinery must carry an additional load. The harvest begins early in the south and progresses northward—in the Moscow region and parts of Siberia, for instance, it will not begin until late August. The available machinery will therefore move northward likewise, being transferred to a new area as soon as its work is done in one place. Tens of thousands of young Communists, office workers, students and others, organized as "shock brigades," are pouring into the farming districts to help with harvesting where there is a shortage of hands. "The basic task of this year's campaign," one of the Moscow newspapers explains editorially, "is to harvest the crop to the last stalk and with the highest quality. Not a single kilogram of bread must rot in the fields or be spoiled as to quality because of late harvest or bad work. To produce as much marketable bread as possible is one of the main elements of our socialist construction." The progress of harvesting is reported in the press in big headlines, like real battles. The completion of the job on a large State, or collective farm, is described as a "victory" and failure as a "defeat." Every trick of mass psychology is used to impress the nation with the critical importance of a large crop of high quality. Piece-Work System On the collectives the piece-work system is being extended to stimulate activity and prizes are provided for individuals and groups who distinguish themselves. The following news item, published under a large headline on the front pages, is typical of the spirit in which the harvest is conducted. "Saratov.—In the Nijnichirk district the Lenin Commune was the first to end its corn harvest on an area of 930 hectares. The commune carried through the whole work in five days instead of six as planned. The shock troops exceeded their quotas in the harvest, the horse and ox brigades doing six or seven hectares in one shift instead of the normal five." Where the results are not so good the press gives the facts even more prominence with a view to "mobilizing social opinion" on the subject. Doctor: "Are you still taking the morning cold pill?" Patient: "No, I gave it up to save time." Doctor: "Why, it only takes a minute or two." Patient: "I know, but I spent three-quarters of an hour in bed hesitating."

Frost Selvedge Fox Fabric

The new improved product of the world's pioneers in chain link fox wire, introduced in response to the requests of hundreds of fox ranchers across Canada. Frost Fox Fabric is now furnished with an exclusive selvedge which creates a new high standard of stability and long life, promotes greater ease of handling and prevents all entangling when rolled or unrolled. Much money has been spent in perfecting this new selvedge yet Frost Fox Fabric has not been increased by one cent in price. Here is an improved fox fabric that means more real economy in service and long life than ever before possible. Made in the unbreakable, highly flexible chain link mesh—heavily galvanized after weaving and permanently rust-resisting—it remains escape proof for years, eliminates repair costs and represents the best investment in protection you can make.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. MICHAEL PIGEON There passed peacefully away on Aug. 10th at 74 Highland Avenue, Mrs. Michael Pigeon in the 73rd year of her age.

A few years previous to her death she was stricken with paralysis, of which she never fully recovered. Of a sunny and cheerful disposition, she made many friends, which will mourn her loss. She was an active worker in church affairs. During her illness, she was attended by her pastor, Rev. E. Murphy, and had the consolation to have him at her bedside in her last moments.

During her last illness, she was nursed by Miss Foley, whose loving care and tender nursing was to no avail. Divine Providence willed otherwise.

The many floral and spiritual tributes testify to her popularity. She leaves a husband and family.—R. I. P.

CAIRN NOW STANDS ON OLD FORT SITE. FORT STEELE, B. C. Aug. 12. (By the Canadian Press)—In the rising mountains of south east British Columbia—almost due south of Calgary—a rugged stone cairn marks the site of the first North west mounted police fort in British Columbia. Bronze-tableted and surrounded by an iron fence, the cairn was unveiled August 1, by Lady Steele. Inscription on the tablet reads: "The first North west Mounted Police fort in British Columbia was built in 1887 by Superintendent Sam Steele (afterwards Major General Sir Samuel Benfield Steele, K. C., M. G. C. B., M. V. O.) with Inspectors Z. T. Wood, C. P. A. Huot, Surgeon F. H. Powell and the men of 'D' division. The presence of this famous force acting under the able and tactful command of Steele secured peace and order in the country at a critical time." LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Aug. 12.—(By the Canadian Press)—More than $57,000,000 has been expended and more than 1,000,000 feet of borings done in Alberta in the search for oil and gas during the last 30 years according to a recapitulation made by J. I. Carmichael, Lethbridge engineer. In all, some 407 wells have been drilled, not including the Ribstone field, for which details were not available. Of the drilling done, according to the Carmichael estimate, 160 wells in Turner Valley have drilled 650,000 cubic feet—more than half the province's total footage, 1,187,787 lineal feet. Outside the actual producers, it is reported, there are eight which showed signs of oil, and there are eight known as gas structures in the province. SEARCH FOR OIL. D. J. McPhail, recently achieved the honorable record of leading all British Columbia in senior and junior matriculation examinations. Malcolm, 18, led the senior matric students with an average of 89.4 per cent, while his brother, Donald, 16, took the junior laurels with an average of 88.2 per cent. FARMERS SEEK BONUS ON FALL PLOWING. WEYBURN, Sask., Aug. 12. (By the Canadian Press)—Bonus of $2 per acre on fall ploughing done in connection with plans for the 1932 crop is sought in petitions being signed in the drought areas of south Saskatchewan. Those supporting the signature campaign believe that such a system of distributing direct relief would work out helpfully and satisfactorily. Premier J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan, is stated to have expressed his approval of the proposal in principle and to have referred the suggestion to Premier R. P. Bennett at Ottawa. During a big football match one of the spectators persisted in making uncomplimentary remarks in a rather loud voice about the referee. At last the referee could stand it no longer, so he went up to the fellow and said: "My man, I've been watching you carefully for at least twenty minutes— Interrupting him, the spectator retorted: "I'm not surprised. I could see you were not watching the play."
