With hearty good wishes to all for a "Merrie Christmas" we want to make some suggestions for you whereby you can help the "merry" part of it along. "Nothing gets so close to any one's heart as a Christmas Gift suitably chosen. Silks and diamonds would be out of place, unless the general surroundings were in accordance; and while we feel sure that we can cater for the silks that go with the diamonds, we are just as well able to supply the lower priced goods as well. Elsewhere in this issue will be found the expensively priced goods in some lines. We will try and tell you in plain figures and words of other prices and other lines, and if we don't mention anything you want exactly, come and ask us for it—it's here, if it's in the line of up-to-date dry goods of any description.
