WORTH WHILE TIP.

How to Aid Boy in Choosing a Profession.

The bent of a boy's mind with reference to what he would like to do when he grows to manhood can best be determined by the process of elimination. Little boys nearly always hope to be soldiers, sailors, policemen, conductors or motormen. Uniforms, brass buttons and firearms attract them. They like to think of being heroic figures, and even motormen are heroes in the eyes of little children.

Later on in life the boy dreams of being a man of power. Money appeals to him more and more. This is the time to begin the process of elimination. Put down on paper a list of fifty or more occupations covering the widest possible field and arranged alphabetically. Under A, for instance, would be placed actor, animal trainer, foundry hatcher and baker, and C would carry chemist, carpenter, carriage maker, etc.

Take one character of occupation from the list under A and provide the boy with prime material about it—first the actor. Under that head would come the study required, the opportunity for employment, the hours of labor, the necessity for traveling, the earning capacity of the average player, etc. Go over it all with the boy. Let him weigh these things in the business that are pleasing against those that are not. Give him three days to think it over. At the end of that time the boy will be prepared to say finally that it is an occupation which doesn't appeal to him or that he might like it.

Don't force him to eliminate. Before the end of the list is reached and serious thought has been given to all the occupations he will have satisfied himself that four out of every five appeal to him not at all. They may be stricken from the list.

The occupations remaining should then be taken up as a new list and considered again even more seriously. If ten remain a week's time could well be given to the consideration of each one. Further eliminations would result. Finally only two or three would remain. Out of this number a youth will make a selection to his liking.

WHAT VOTE IS IGNORANT?

The Answer Seems to Depend Upon the Point of View.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw is constantly called upon in public to answer the argument against the "ignorant vote," projected by people who are afraid of it. Dr. Shaw is not afraid of it and takes frequent occasion to show why, and also to show how relative a term ignorance is, how much a matter of the point of view.

"If you want to see real intelligence," she says, "go down on the east side in New York, as I go, and allow yourself to be questioned. Once, when I had answered questions until late in the evening, a young Russian girl came to me and said: 'I believe everything you say. Of course, we who have suffered and have been driven from our country and who have a constant fight to live know the conditions and what we need. But how about those ignorant women in Fifth avenue around the park, who have never done any of these things? They will not understand.'

"After that I went into a meeting in a Fifth avenue home, where I saw women of position and wealth, women such as I had never before seen at a suffrage meeting. At the close of the meeting one of them came to me and said: 'Of course, suffrage is all right for women such as are here. I believe everything you say. But how about the ignorant women on the east side?'"

WAS TROUBLED WITH Headache AND Constipation.

After Suffering For Two Years
Was Cured By
BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Headache of whatever nature is nearly always symptomatic of other diseased conditions, rather than a disease itself, but in most cases a disordered stomach, constipation, or bad circulation is the chief source of the difficulty. Burdock Blood Bitters removes the cause of the trouble through its cleansing, strengthening and tonic action on the stomach, liver, bowels and blood. Mr. Wm. Redmond, Cardigan Bridge, P.E.I., writes:—"I have been troubled with headache and constipation for about two years. After trying every doctor I knew, a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I found myself, after using one bottle, getting much better, and after using three bottles I was completely cured."

"After then I was on a visit, and found my cousin very sick, and the doctor told her there was something wrong with her head. I told her to use Burdock Blood Bitters and she was cured in a short time. I can safely recommend it to all."
