NEWFOUNDLAND'S VIEWPOINT

growing up within her borders, and must no doubt considerably increase. Give Newfoundland the means of entering into trade relations and trade would soon spring up. (Applause.) Under the proposed Confederation of the town of St. John's would then become the easternmost part of the great union, and by making it a point of call for the magnificent steamers of which Canada was so justly proud, it would be placed within six days of the Mother Country. A close connection with that country was what he believed all the colonies desired, and speaking for his own province of Newfoundland he would say he hoped the day was not far distant when she would have forced upon her any other allegiance than that which she now rejoiced to acknowledge, however remote the contingency of change in this respect might be. (Cheers.) When such issues were involved it would be unwise and shortsighted if the weight were not given to it by the men charged with the grave task of laying the foundation of a new empire. (Applause.) He would say but one word more for he felt he had already trespassed too long upon his hearers' patience. (No, no.) It was that the question of Confederation had never been in the colony, he represented, much discussed in the press, and his fellow-laborer were here simply expressing their own opinions on the subject, but he would not hesitate to say that he would think it a grave error if the people failed to enter into what had been the unanimous feeling of the Conference charged with so high a mission of grandeur, whose future it was impossible for the wildest imagination to overestimate. (Cheers.)

So much for Mr. Shea in 1864. Some of his speech has been quoted correctly, but as regards the major part of it, if he were now living he would not see such progress in Newfoundland as he foresaw, whereas the strides made by Canada would be to him incomprehensible.

INSIDIOUS EYE STRAIN

We use this adjective advisedly.

Sufferers from Eyestrain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect.

The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy.

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eye strain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.

HAVE YOUR EYES EXAMINED

G. F. Hutcheson
Optometrist

It Pays To Get The Facts

A large proportion of all the nerve energy generated in a normal body is expended in the act of seeing. Defective eyes are often found to be defective so that although vision is still good, they are consuming twice or three times their allotted portion of nerve force, thus robbing other vital organs of their motive power.

The result is serious physical disorders—often in remote parts of the body. Two out of every ten people are in this fix, yet the real cause of their trouble is often not even suspected until a thorough examination discloses the facts.

If there is any reason whatever to suspect eye strain, the common sense thing to do is to have a thorough examination and

GET THE FACTS ABOUT YOUR EYES.

BIG LEAGUES

With the race gradually coming to a close in the American and National League baseball circuits much conjecture and many opinions and guesses are registered by fans all over the baseball world relative to the respective standing of the teams at the heel of the hunt.

The New York Yankees are safe for the flag in the American League being nearly twenty games out in front of Philadelphia the second place team. Interest lacking in the American League race however, is eclipsed by the sensational struggle between Pittsburgh, New York, St. Louis and Chicago in the National League. Not more than two games separating either team in their race for the pennant. Speaking of pennants it may be interesting to know that fourteen different men have piloted pennant winners in the American League since its organization in 1900 to the end of the 1926 season, inclusive. Of the 14, Connie Mack is the pace setter, having been manager of flag winners on six occasions; Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, is in second place with four and as mentioned above, its a safe bet he will chalk up his fifth victory this season. Third place belongs to Hugh Jennings, Jimmy Collins, Bill Carrigan and Stanley Harris are tied for fourth place with two pennants each.

One Year Winners

Since year pennant winners of the circuit are Charley Comiskey, Clark Griffith, Fielder Jones, Jake Stahl, Clarence Roland, Bill Gleason, Ed. Barrow and Tris Speaker. Huggins and Jennings are the only managers who piloted pennant winners three years in succession. Jennings did it with the Detroit Tigers in 1907, 1908, 1909, while Huggins led the Yankees to victory in the seasons of 1921, 1922 and 1923. It would seem that Huggins is well on his way for a second cluster of three for the Yanks look like certain winners this fall and the club has sufficient youthful performers to give it better than an even chance to repeat in 1928.

Mack won four of his flags in clusters of two, in 1910 and 1911, 1913 and 1914. The others came singly in 1902 and 1905. Jimmy Collins won two in succession with the old Boston Red Sox in 1903 and 1904, while Bill Carrigan more than ten years later did the same with the Red Sox in 1915 and 1916. Stanley Harris was boss of the Senators when they annexed flags in 1924 and 1925.

The Chicago team won two pennants in succession in 1900 and 1901, but different managers handled the affairs of the Club in the two seasons. When Charley Comiskey transferred his team from St. Paul to Chicago in 1900, he managed the club himself, but the next season turned the reins of government over to Clark Griffith.

Every city in the league has won at least one pennant with the exception of St. Louis and it doesn't look as if the Mound City team had any immediate chances to break the hoodoo. Boston and Philadelphia are tied for first place with six flags; Chicago is third with five, New York fourth with four, and Detroit fifth with three. Washington ranks sixth with a pair of buntings and Cleveland pulls up in the rear with one gonfalon.

Four managers have won championships for Boston in Collins, Stahl, Carrigan and Barrow, while Mack has won all six for the Quaker City. But Chicago holds the record for pennants won by the Windy City no manager has been able to win more than one. It was Jones in 1906, Rowland in 1907 and Bill Gleason in 1919.

The writer will try to sum up the National League in a future article.

In Memoriam

MRS. DANIEL MacNEILL

There passed away at Little Sands on Saturday evening, Aug. 27th after a few years of very poor health, Flora Munn, beloved wife of Mr. Daniel MacNeill. Born in Wood Islands 76 years ago, but her entire married life of nearly forty years was spent in Little Sands.

She was a quiet, kind and inoffensive woman and one who enjoyed a large circle of friends. Besides her sorrowing husband, who is now left alone she leaves to mourn two brothers and four sisters, Magnus Munn, Stoughton, Mass.; Malcolm Munn Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Annie MacMellan and Mrs. Maggie MacMillan, both of Wood Islands; Mrs. Hamilton in the United States and Miss Sophia Munn in Little Sands. Her funeral on Monday afternoon was very largely attended. The service at the house and grave was taken by her pastor Rev. M. D. MacDonald, who spoke a most comforting message to the bereaved. She was laid to rest in the Little Sands Cemetery.

MRS. FRED HOLL

Many friends in this city were greatly surprised to learn of the death at Alberton Friday of Mrs. Holl, beloved wife of Mr. Fred Holl, Accountant with the P. E. Island Egg and Poultry Association, who passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. Wilfred Tanton.

The late Mrs. Holl was a lady of a kindly and lovable disposition, was a faithful and consistent member of St. Paul's Church, and although not in robust health for some months, still hope was entertained for her recovery.

On the advice of her physician she went to Alberton about two weeks ago, her relatives and immediate friends thinking the change would improve her condition, but she gradually sank until her spirit passed to Him who gave it Friday.

The late Mrs. Holl was a daughter of the late Dr. Frank and Mrs. Cox she leaves to mourn besides a sorrowing husband, two sons, Ted of the Bank of Commerce and "Bus" aged about five years.

Five sisters are also left to mourn, four of whom reside in Winnipeg and Mrs. George Lane of Halifax; also two brothers, Percy, in Boston and Reginald of the Maritime Light and Power Co., of this city.

MARY COLETTA LARKIN

A great sufferer's trials came to an end on Saturday night, Aug. 27th, at St. Peter's, when Mary Coletta, youngest daughter of the late David Larkin and Bridget Farmer, passed away at the home of her aunt at the early age of 21 years.

Deceased was of a kind and lovable disposition, and readily endeavored herself to any who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. After graduating from Business College she proceeded to Boston where she was engaged in office work. Last spring she not being feeling as well as usual, was induced to come down east with her aunt, Mrs. John Larkin, who was returning here from Boston, hoping that her native air might revive her falling vitality, for a few weeks she seemed somewhat improved, but it was only temporarily, as she very soon became almost bedfast.

She was removed to the City Hospital, Charlottetown, where an examination gave little hope for her recovery as Tubercular Tenitis had settled on her weak condition fatally. All that loving friends and medical attention could now do was to relieve the intensity of the pain that had become unbearable, and for the last two weeks she was under the constant attention of Miss Mary Larkin, R. N., whose patient attention did much to comfort and prepare her for the end. Rev. Father Callaghan was in almost daily attendance and administered the last consoling rites of Mother Church.

That the symptoms of the entire community with her during her illness, and with her only surviving brother, was evidenced by the unusually large cortege that followed her remains to their last resting place on Monday morning. ### COW ATE FIVE GESE

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—The little village of Staffelein, near Bremen, has a carnivorous cow among its herds, according to the Weser Zeitung. This unusual cow discovered a crate of geese standing before the barn, ready for shipment. She promptly dropped the hay she was chewing, edged her way up to the crate, and leisurely munched five geese before the farmer discovered what was happening.
