CANADIANS AT TOBRUK

Dominion Personnell Including Charlottetown Boys Aid In Defending Desert Outpost

(By Richard D. McMillan) TOBRUK, June 30.—(B.U.P.)—Canada is on the front line of the war in the Western Desert. Canadian anti-aircraft gunners are "counte-battins" German Stuka dive-bombers and Canadian Navy officers are patrolling the sea on the fringe of the desert battlefield.

It was a kind of Dominion party into which I came after running the blockade into Tobruk. I heard of the exploits of a Canadian sub-lieutenant, Bob MacMillan, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., master of a little trawler which shot down five dive-bombers attacking the fortress and a fellow Canadian, Lieut. Jack M. Davies, of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, who lives at 224 Prince's Street, Saint John, N.B., drew a picture of the part Canadians were playing in the siege. Davies was one of the first members of the naval garrison I met on arrival in Tobruk.

Sea View And Vicinity

Although June is over there has been very few real summer days. The drowning of the planes overhead have been much in evidence during the past week reminding one that the preparations for war are daily increasing.

The majority of the farmers have at last finished planting their potatoes and the remainder of their crop after being so long delayed owing to the frequent rains which made the seeding and planting of roots so slow and tedious.

The lobster fishermen have been busy during the past days landing their traps thus bringing to a close a most successful season in spite of several storms which did considerable damage to their fishing gear.

The many friends of Mr. Duncan Sudsbury are sorry to learn of his illness at his home in Sea View.

A host of friends were shocked when the news came of the passing of Mrs. Bruce Crozier at the Provincial Sanatorium, Charlottetown, after being a patient there cauldron. In subsequent attacks including one at another Italian ship, B-b's Ack-Ack fire accounted for four more JU 87's, which is a fair share of the total of 50 enemy planes accounted for by Tobruk's air defences.

"The Germans and Italians have lost probably 150 planes since the series of attacks began."

Lieut. Davies said another Canadian officer operating at Tobruk until recently, Lieut. Max Retan, took part in the Battle of Cete, and another, Lieut. Wilfred Duffy, of Charlottetown, was helping in the defence of Malta.

Canadians with whom I spoke at Tobruk agreed that it was "certainly a break for us to get into this show."

The German radio has claimed that the British imperials here are in the siege. She has from Nazi long-range guns occasionally fall on the town, which has been badly shattered by the bombers, but the garrison goes about as usual day by day, strengthening its defences and getting ready for the next attack.

The Canadian told me that they had plenty of Italian guns and plenty of anti-aircraft guns of our own calibre, and every second man has a machine-gun.

As I returned to the harbor, the Canadian was edged out towards sea to carry on the task of breaking the enemy's feeble attempt to blockade Tobruk.

for only three weeks. The deceased had been in failing health for some time and acting on medical advice became a patient at the sanatorium where it was hoped that the change and treatment would prove beneficial but in spite of all she was called on Wednesday, June 15th to receive the last rites in the church. Amid all her days of weakness she was never known to complain and was always patient and submissive to the will of the Heavenly Father.

A mother has gone from the home and her little family will no longer have a mother's love and care. The funeral, held from her late residence on Saturday afternoon was largely attended by friends who came from all parts of the county to express their sympathy to the bereaved family. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Crow's at the home and grave. In his address he gave many comforting thoughts and full of hope in the Life Beyond. Favorite hymns of the deceased were sung. Mr. Charles Woodside sang Shadows, in a feeling manner. Mrs. George Proffit and Mr. Charles Woodside sang Face to Face. At the close of the service the remains were borne to the cemetery at Malpeque where interment was made. The pall-bearers were Edwin Mount, Lloyd Adams, James W. Campbell, F. H. Simmon, John Bearsto and Daniel Champion. There were many beautiful floral tributes from sympathizing friends. There are left to mourn her passing the loss of a loving wife and mother from the home her sorrowing husband and six little ones also an aged father to all of whom kind sympathy is extended in their great sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cole, Clifton, spent Sunday with friends in Sea View.

Messrs. Charles and William Sudsbury, spent Sunday with their brother Duncan who was so seriously ill and passed away in the quiet hours of Sunday evening, June 29th at the age of 83 years. The deceased contracted flu in early spring and never fully recovered and later serious complications developed and in spite of medical skill and tender care was added to the Home in the Great Beyond from whence no traveller returns. The deceased was of a quiet disposition an obliging friend and neighbor and will be greatly missed by many friends as well as in the home. There are left to mourn his passing his sorrowing widow, two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Campbell, Park Corner, and Miss Marion at home, one son and two brothers William and Charles of Kensington and a sister Mrs. Inglis also of Kensington. The sympathy of many friends is extended to all in their bereavement.

Darnley School closing was held on Thursday afternoon in the schoolroom. There was a good number of visitors present who greatly enjoyed the program provided by the pupils. Grade 1. "CHURCH GATHERING—Mrs. Walter Beer entertained the Ladies Aid of Saint Andrews Presbyterian Church, Montague on Tuesday evening at her home in Rosemeath. A very pleasant evening was spent. Miss Ings, Public Health Nurse gave a talk which was much enjoyed before Miss Ings became Public Health Nurse in this Province, she worked among the Indians and she gave a very vivid picture of work among them. She also stressed the need of help and understanding among our own people here. During the evening plans were made for an ice cream and strawberry festival which will be held sometime in July. Dainty refreshments were served and a pleasant evening came to a close.

"THE SCHOOL CONCERT and dancing of Montague memorial school took place in the I.O.D.E. Hall on Friday evening. A very creditable showing was made by the pupils of the different grades and the entertainment presented was excellent and much credit is due both teachers and pupils and also the committee who helped with the programme. The stage was very artistic with the forest of green trees and birds perched here and there it was most realistic. The following is the programme: Play "Snow White and Rose Red," Scotch Song and dance, Song by Grades III and IX "Our Teacher Said to Welcome You," Going to the Sea Shore, Vaudeville, Arlene Yeo, Tramp Little Maids at Sea. Presentation of Prizes, Remarks by the Principal, M. Lorn Stewart. Patriotic Play "The wooing of Miss Canada. The King."

"Tupper Hayward of the Search Light Battery, was a week-end visitor to his home in Montague, he is a son of Rev. S. E. and Mrs. Hayward.

"Mr. Earle MacKenzie of the S. S. Montcalm, spent a few days at his home in Montague.

"Mr. Lowell Poole of the S. S. Montcalm spent a few days with his family in Montague.

much needed vacation. All wish them many pleasant days.

Mr. Jerry Adams spent a few days recently in Charlottetown attending the session of the Supreme Court, of which he is one of the jury at this time.

Many friends are indeed sorry to learn that Mr. Claude Adams was obliged to enter Prince County Hospital for an operation and sincerely trust he will make a speedy and complete recovery.

Mrs. William Adams has returned home after spending a few days pleasantly with friends in French River.

Dr. Sutherland who had been spending a few weeks holiday in Sea View the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Sutherland left recently for his home in Vancouver, B. C. He was accompanied by his son Wilfred who graduated from McGill University as a M. D. this closing session. He plans to return to Montreal General Hospital as an interne there for some time.

Compulsory Military Training Program

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—The 21-year-old class of single men is expected to provide sufficient men so that few 22-year-olds will be called to start compulsory military training in Canada during July, it was said here tonight.

But the government has made provision for adequate reserves for future call-ups by notifying, through a proclamation, all single men of 21, 22, 23 and 24 years inclusive, that they are subject to the reserve army call.

In August it is expected the number of men called above the age of 21 will be greater and it will increase as time goes on.

The proclamation calling up men of 21, 22 and 24 years for four months compulsory military training was issued last night. Those 21-year-olds who already have served one month in a military camp under the old 30-day training system will be required to serve three months more.

For this call-up the basis of determining age is July 1, 1940 as was the case when compulsory training was inaugurated last year.

Thus any man who on July 1, 1940, was 21, 22, 23, or 24 years of age and on July 1, 1940, was unmarried or a widower without a child, now can consider himself liable for a call to training from the national war services department.

Book On Canada By Lady Tweedsmuir

LONDON, July 2.—(CP)—Human courage and endurance and the geography of this vast and marvelous land are the dominating factors which have produced the Canada of today, Lady Tweedsmuir says in the preface to a book about the Dominion just published.

The 50 page book—Lady Tweedsmuir calls it an essay—which the widow of the former Governor General of Canada says she hopes will fire readers to study Canadian history in greater detail, sketches the development of Canada from its early days to the present.

"At this moment all eyes are turned upon the new world," Lady Tweedsmuir writes in her preface.

"Canadians have come once again for the third time in 40 years, to fight by our side. Surely it is a good moment to study the roots of Canada's history, roots which sprang from our soil and from the soil of France."

"I have tried to show the special charm and flavor of each of those nine provinces which go to make up the Dominion of Canada. If I have succeeded in making their varied beauty and their varied interests a little more generally known, I shall feel amply rewarded."

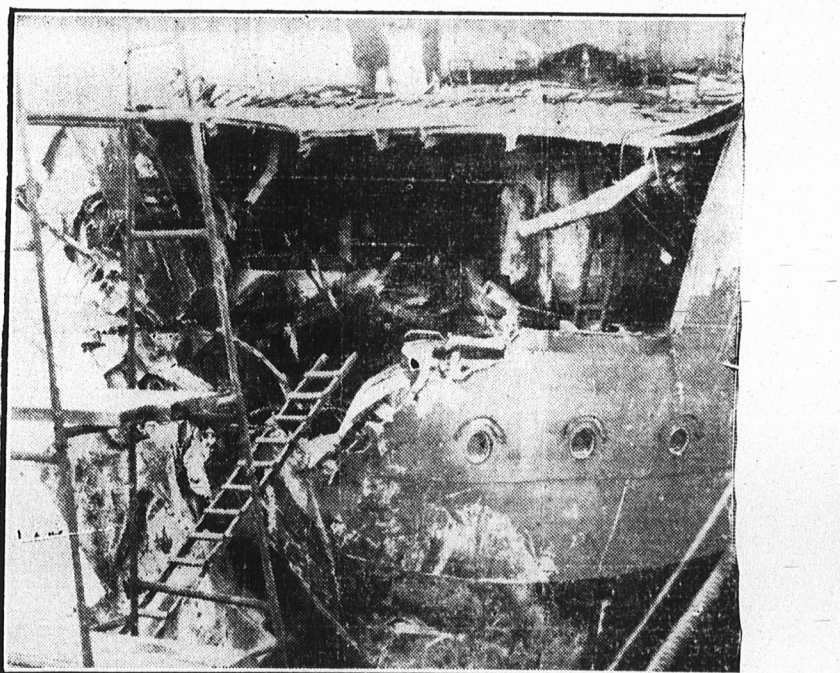

The book, simply called "Canada," is written in three chapters: "The Background of Canada," "A Bird's Eye View of the Provinces," and "The Canadian Way of Life."

Lady Tweedsmuir's intimate knowledge of the Dominion, its people, its history, its customs, its varied topography, its varied interests, is evident throughout the essay interspersed as it is with obviously personal observations.

The book is profusely illustrated with etchings, old wood cuts, and black and white and colored scenes of the Dominion, some from Lady Tweedsmuir's own collection, others loaned by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Military-Age Men Cut

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—The government ordered that no more men of military age be employed in the civil service until the war is over. An order-in-council to this effect became known today.

Brilliant seamanship was necessary to bring this Canadian destroyer into port after she had been badly damaged by a torpedo. This close-up shows the havoc caused by the explosion. The ship has since undergone repairs and is back on active service.
