On Williams, Legionnaire pitcher, allowed the Red Sox only two hits in an abbreviated baseball game at Summerside last night and the Vets won their fourth straight ball game, downing the League leaders 6-1 in 7 innings of play. "Boo" Morrison, pitching his first game for the Red Sox, had poor control, and three Legionnaires crossed the plate on as many wild pitches.

Braves Drop Yankees 4-3 In Exhibition

By JACK HAND
 COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., July 21—(AP)—Abner Doubleday's old home town exhibition baseball game was a close one, with the Braves dropping the Yankees 4-3 in a 10-inning exhibition game.

Rain, enemy of most of the six previous major league exhibitions played in the cozy little stadium just off Cooperstown's main street, held off all afternoon only to pour down on the fans just as Larry Brown forced Johnny Van Meters to hit a home run in the 10th.

The most important of the visitors was "Big Ed" Walsh, only new Hall of Fame member who was able to be present at the impressive ceremonies. Walsh, who pitched with the Chicago American League club of the 1904-1916 era and a 40-game winner in 1908, delivered a poem dedicated to former players who are dead at top in modern times.

The 11 older stars, chosen by a special Hall of Fame committee, were Babe Ruth, the famous pitcher of the Philadelphia A's, shortstop Joe Tinker, second baseman Johnny Evers and first baseman-manager Frank Chance.

The late Eddie Plank, one of the greatest left-handed pitchers, was the guest of honor. Plank, who won 188; Jesse Burkett, one of three men to hit 400 in three seasons; Jack Chesbro, whose 41 victories in 1904 still stands as top in modern day major league play; Joe (Iron Man) McGinnity, who won two games in the same day five

IN THIS CORNER
 Needing but one victory to clinch the second section title, Fred McInnis Legionnaires last night were prepared to rack up the victory at the expense of the Anchors when they clash with the westend crew in a postponed game of the City Baseball League. But as usual Anchors had a much different outlook on the matter.

Another needing three games to emerge section winners have a much stiffer task ahead of them than is the case with the Legionnaires but manager Fred McCabe and playing coach Charles Ryan feel that better days lie ahead for the westenders and will be out tonight to show all and sundry that this is no "day dream".

Fresh from their victory over Jogging intermediates last Sunday afternoon, intermediate Abegwits are after more mainland baseball scaps and although arrangements haven't been definitely completed, it is expected that Westville will make an appearance here next week-end.

If the plan materializes appearance of the Westville team should draw a record crowd. It has been a good many years since a Westville ball club performed here but those games are expected to be remembered by former Able players. The old Westville guard like the Abbots have laid aside playing equipment now but it will be interesting to watch the newer editions of the two centres renew the baseball rivalry that was so keenly followed in years gone by.

And while speaking about the intermediate Abbies, this seems to be some confusion existing among players named to the squad as to just what ones are expected to be remembered by former Able players. As far as this corner knows all players named were to receive chances in actual competition as well as field the best possible team when play time rolled around.

This is also the idea contained in the minds of manager McInnis and coaches when they selected the players for some reason only a few of the players have made appearances in the two games played so far. However it looks as if this misunderstanding and the matter should be straightened out to everyone's satisfaction when all players named on the squad meet at the Armory after tonight's game between Anchors and Legionnaires.

The biggest crowd in the history of the track is expected to be at the racing tomorrow afternoon when secretary Leo Praught presents a four class harness racing card that should produce another afternoon of the late driving finishes that have been witnessed ever since the Island racing circuit got underway July 1st.

Headlining the card will be the $1,200 Victoria Driving Club stake that will be raced in two divisions. Over 20 entries made it necessary to split the race in two divisions and followers of the harness horses are going to have a merry time of it attempting to pick winners from among the bunch of beatcats who will take the word.

Given fine weather the entire card should provide some of the fastest racing of the season. Improvements made to the track during the off season have made it exceptionally fast piece of racing dirt and it will be a bit surprising if several horses sport new win race records after the card has been completed.

Opening round matches leading to the McCourt challenge trophy finals will be completed at the Brighton Horshoes Club tonight and competition among the players who have yet to swing into action is expected to be very keen.

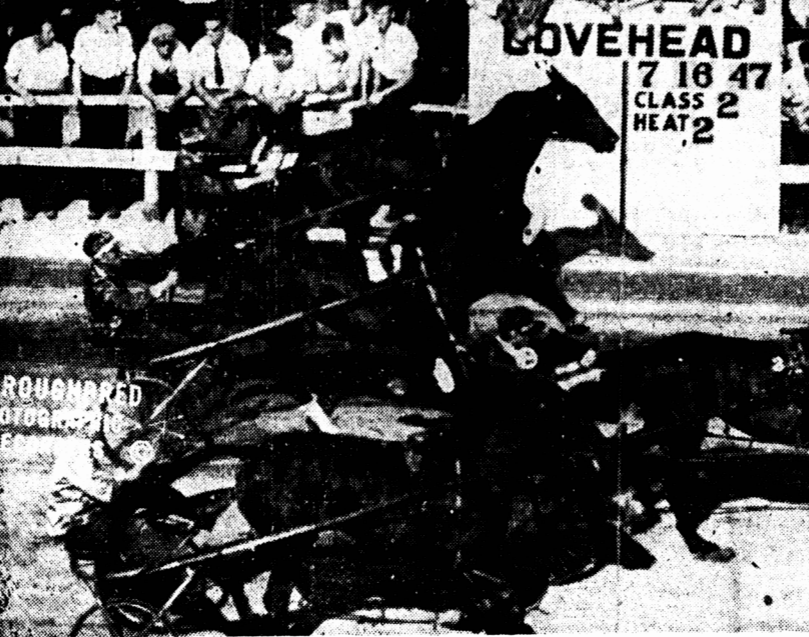

The opening matches were productive of some great horsehoe tossing with ranking players extended to the limit by the lesser lights and upsets are expected frequently before the competition concludes.

Here's a cute story that took place at home plate: The Yankees were playing the Red Sox in a night game in Boston earlier this month. Frank Shea broke a sharp curve across the outside corner of the plate to a right hand hitter—Bobby Doerr. I think his name was Umpire Hal Weaver called it a strike. The batter looked at him in surprise and asked, "Where was that pitch?"

"Why, right over the outside corner," Weaver answered. Doerr looked down at the plate and then up at the ump and said, "You know, I don't see any corner on the plate where that ball crossed."

Weaver peered down at the plate for a long second, then looked up

Double Win Gives Dodgers Four Game Lead In National

(By The Canadian Press)
 Coming from behind in each game, Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday won both ends of a double-header from Cincinnati Reds 7-4 and 4-3 to increase their National League lead over the runner-up New York Giants to four full games.

The Dodgers knocked out Bukky Walters, Reds starting pitcher, in the sixth with a two-run error which tied the score and continued the assault against Harry Gumbert in the seventh, scoring three more times for the winning margin.

Bruce Edwards, who drove in four Brooklyn runs in the first game, won the second with a ninth inning single which scored Carl Purillo from second. Trailing 3-1, the Dodgers had pulled up into a tie on homers by Purillo and Dixie Walker.

Joe Hatten went all the way for his ninth victory, and first against any club other than Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies. Little Vic Lombard, third of four Brooklyn pitchers, was the first game tryer for Young's deep smash to right centre field, and is expected to be out for three days. He suffered no dislocation as was at first feared.

The Dodgers' victory was a home run for the team, which had lost two games in the first three days. He suffered no dislocation as was at first feared.

Claim Locke Is Best Competitive Player In Game

By ALAN RANDAL
 MONTREAL, July 21—(CP)—The sport talk in this town today is about the prowess of Bobby Locke in winning the Canadian open golf championship which, considering this is the Monday in midweek, after the crowning seems fairly natural.

But the conversation even goes so far as to suggest the South African's links habit may turn back the clock in golfing attire—a return-to-the-plus-fours era, as it were.

Our guess is that it won't. We can only remember one man who looked his best in plus fours. There will probably be some Canadians who remember him too and can supply his first name.

His name was Tooley, and he was to be seen on Fleet Street in London any day of the week, always headed in the same direction which was the erstwhile Barclay's Bank where Ben Johnson is alleged to have penned some of his dictionary between drinks. Tooley, so the Fleet Street legend went, had been some great shakes as a golfer in his day. But by the time the Canadians got there for the second world war that day was long since gone and Tooley operated a golf school that nobody ever saw anybody else enter.

And the reason Tooley looked his best in his brown tweed plus fours was entirely due to the British Board of Trade and clothes rationing—he didn't have anything else.

But back to Mr. Locke: The South African would probably be a champion if he played in a two-button cutaway or the new-fangled parol hat for men which is the feature of a Montreal sports-wear shop window these days.

But speaking of attire, Ben (Montreal Star) O'Neira, has this to say: "Locke came through magnificently on all counts. He played in a plus four, and they say that his example is already causing other golfers to think of going back to the old style.

Sport Echoes from Prince County

At last a home run has been hit in the Summerside Baseball League! The batter who gave the pill the round-trip ride, though a good hitter, hasn't been considered as Babe Ruthian caliber to date. The home run itself was a sort of poor relation to many of the home runs you read about, but nevertheless it was well tagged and Gord MacKay who hit it was fast enough on the paths to make it an easy three-base and maybe a close distance at the plate, even if the ball hadn't been lost in the long grass at the edge of the field.

We think it would be fairly hard for a man who was not exceptionally fast on the paths to hit a home run on the field would be to drive it over a low fence back of right centre field, which would mean quite a lousy wallop at that.

Trouble and dissatisfaction have arisen about the calling of a game on account of darkness just as we predicted it would. Friday night's game was called at the end of the eighth with the score 5 to 4 and the team on the short end of that score felt that the game could have gone on for another inning. Although we could understand the losing team's being a bit peeved, we rather agreed that the umpire's decision was right in this case. It may have been bright enough to matter the extra inning, but it would almost certainly have been too dark to play before six men were put out even if they were retired in order.

Still there is little doubt that games have been continued before this summer when it was too dark to play the game properly. It is very difficult for an umpire to judge just at what moment it is too dark for further play. There are situations when no matter what decision he makes he will please one or other of the teams. And quite often an umpire lets the game go on longer after it is bright enough to play for the sake of bringing the game down to even innings.

But if a man strikes out because it is too dark to see the ball that is a different matter. Not getting a square deal. On the other hand if a short stop makes an error on a ground ball because it is too dark to see it, that's different. Umpires are not being treated fairly. Whether an umpire calls the game or lets it continue there is liable to be an injustice done. It is a pretty difficult situation whichever way you look at it.

We have been informed that there is such a gadget as a photo-grapher's light meter which measures the amount of light left in the atmosphere at any given time. If this is so why couldn't these things be used by umpires of two light games so that they might call the game when the amount of light reached a certain intensity and nobody would be able to dispute their action?

Don Eault of Halifax defeated Laird Watt of Montreal in the singles 6-4, 6-2 and Buid and Watt defeated Bill Pettie and Ivan Pettie of Charlottetown in the doubles, 6-4, 6-8.

A golf tournament is about to be started at the Summerside golf club. Drawings have already been made and the matches are due to commence right away.
