THE CROW IN RELATION TO WATERFOWL

The U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey has been reluctant to accept the statements of untrained out-of-doors men that crows are responsible for the duck shortage...

Strange indeed are the findings set forth in this letter. Only nine months before, April, 1932, sportsmen and their representatives had testified at the hearing of the Senate Committee on the Conservation of Wild Life Resources that drainage and drought were chiefly responsible for the duck shortage...

Stranger still is the fact that the crow does damage; upon this all agree. There is considerable disagreement as to the amount of damage done. Such statements as "the crow destroys more ducks than the combined hunters of Canada and the United States"...

FIRES CAUSE LOSS - The house and barns of Mrs. Albert Oakes, Westmoreland, were destroyed by fire early Thursday morning. Loss was estimated at $2000 only partially covered by insurance. The fire was believed to have originated around the kitchen stove. Occupants of the house were awakened by the cracking of flames at midnight. Fire spread rapidly and near-by barns containing the year's crop were soon enveloped in flames. Friday morning a barn owned by Mr. John O. Boulter, Rose Valley, was burned. The fire, which had made considerable headway, was discovered when Mr. Boulter awoke at 5 o'clock. Origin of the fire was unknown but the belief was held that tramps sleeping in the barn might have been responsible. Loss was placed at approximately $400, partially covered by insurance.

MR. JOHN N. LARGE

The death occurred at the P. E. Island Hospital early Saturday morning of Mr. John N. Large, 37 year old son of Mrs. and the late Albert N. Large after a short illness.

Not enjoying the best of health during the past summer, he continued his duties at the Livery Stable, and gas station of Large Bros. until about two weeks ago when he entered the hospital for treatment to which he failed to respond. Of a most friendly and genial disposition, the late Mr. Large enjoyed a large circle of friends, not only in this city, but throughout the entire province, all of whom will learn with regret of his passing in the prime of life.

He was a capable and efficient member of the local fire department for a number of years, being attached to the hook and ladder Co. To the sorrowing widow, his mother and two young children the Guardian extends sincere sympathy. The funeral will be held this Monday afternoon from his late residence, 243 Pownal Street.

MR. FREDERICK POWER

The following tribute from the associates in the C. N. R. offices has been received by the family of the late Frederick Power:

Many times when it falls our lot to chronicle the demise of a friend "gone ahead" we are naturally most desirous to embellish the good qualities and try in so far as possible to rhapsodize over the good alone and depart from the actual truth.

In the case of our friend Fred Power such eulogations are not necessary as he was a man himself of fine and sterling qualities. Born at Tracadie in 1877, he worked with his parents on the home farm until October, 1899 when he joined the railway as a trainman and worked as such until December, 1900, when, while switching at North Wilshire he had the misfortune of slipping under the train and injuring his right leg which was so badly crushed it had to be amputated above the knee.

He was then off duty until May, 1902, when he returned to the railway in the position of clerk of the road and bridge and building departments, which position, in spite of his physical handicap, he performed with diligence and efficiency, until November 1936, when on account of a severe cold he was confined to his home for two months, then removed to hospital for a slight operation.

He returned to his home in February, 1937, but did not seem to rally and though he attempted to return to his duties for a few weeks was forced to return to hospital, where after a lingering illness and though at times rallying, finally passed along to his eternal reward on Sept. 21, 1937.

His loss is keenly felt by all who knew and came in contact with him daily. As a fellow employee he was ever kind and helpful; always glad to lend a hand to assist and cheer all with whom he came in contact.

A father and husband both loyal and loving, his loss, irreparable as it is to us left behind only the portion of mortals, who are journeying along the highway of this life towards the Father's Home, and his best legacy after all is the memory of the sympathetic work and kindly words that have helped cheer and brighten the way of others, as marked by Fred Power's attitude at all times and despite his great physical handicap was ever kindly and cheerful.

His memory shall be cherished by us all who knew him as a friend and brother tried and true. Requiescat in Pace.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The Rev. S. C. Cooper preached the morning sermon on "The Good Shepherd" having for the text John 10: 14-15. The Love of God for his Son was referred to as parallel to that of the Shepherd for the sheep and this love was reciprocal. Jesus spoke in signs and metaphors to the people and these are understood by the heart rather than the intellect. The sacrifice of Christ was a necessary sacrifice for man. Man has made many sacrifices which are not necessary such as those of the Great War which one of our great leaders who has just gone from us has said should have been averted. Many others who are not mere pacifists have reiterated this. Christ's sacrifice did not please God because it was a bloody one or because of his agony. God is not a bloody God. He pleased God to accept this sacrifice because of its spirit of consecration and because it took perfection to satisfy a perfect God.

Burden Bearing was the subject of the evening sermon, the text being Gal. 6:2. Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ. Burdens said the minister are not transferable for a minister man shall bear his own burden. Sometimes we endeavour to hide ourselves behind others or behind organizations but we have to live our own lives before God. We often seek to shift our responsibilities to the shoulders of others. We should encourage people in life's battle to overcome. There is of course a sense in which some burdens can be borne by others. The Apostle told us to cast out burdens on the Lord. The great burden of sin has been cast upon the Lord. Christ let us step out from under its burden and penalty. Miss Nan MacKay rendered beautifully Teach Me To Pray as a solo at the morning service.

ST. DUNSTAN'S BASILICA

Masses were largely attended as usual at St. Dunstan's Basilica yesterday. Solemn Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Dr. Ellsworth of St. Dunstan's University, assisted by the Rev. George McCormack as deacon and the Rev. Louis Dougan as sub-deacon. In the evening at 7 o'clock Holy Hour was conducted by the Rev. Father McCormack.

ST. JAMES CHURCH

Declaring that the troubled condition of the world today should act as an incentive to the spreading of the Christian religion rather than a check upon it the Rev. Dr. R. Moorhead Legate preached an interesting and enlightening sermon on the missionary side of the church, at the morning service at St. James Presbyterian Church yesterday. The Minister took as his text Acts 1:8, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me unto the uttermost part of the earth." These final words of Jesus Christ were still as much a command and challenge to us today as they were when personally delivered before some 120 of His followers, said the Minister. Quoting from statistics the Rev. Dr. Legate showed the progress and effort made to christianize the peoples of the world, and said that the matter of time, space, race and place had no bearing or relation towards the goal set by the Saviour.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

Rev. C. C. MacIntosh, D. D., of St. James Church, Antigonish, N. S., was preacher during special anniversary services at Trinity United Church yesterday. The first minister was appointed to what is now Trinity Church 130 years ago. Rev. Hugh Miller, M. A., B. D., conducted the services. Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, co-pastor, occupied Dr. MacIntosh's pulpit yesterday in Antigonish.

At the morning service Dr. MacIntosh took as his text Heb. 11:40 "God having provided something better for us, that they without us should not be made perfect." At the evening service Dr. MacIntosh gave an inspiring sermon on "Life dimensions." There were three sides to a man's life, or character, the speaker said. First was man's duty towards himself; second to his fellow men; and third his duty to God. He dealt with each phase separately pointing out

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

At the morning service the Rev. H. L. Denton B. D. delivered thought provoking sermon on "The Joy of Salvation." In Psalm 9:14 are found the words "I will rejoice in thy salvation," the words of one who has found in God, sustaining, enrichment of mind and soul, guidance and power. There is joy in salvation, twofold joy in the conception of being saved from something and to something. In salvation there is the passive joy of submission and surrender, the active rejoicing of service through consecration. God's salvation works changes in the heart and life of man. It is a necessity. And in the full acceptance of all its implications there lies the solution of the troubles of the world and that solution can be found nowhere else. Miss Vera H. Malcolm Campbell, Mus. Bac. sang "His salvation is high them that fear him." (Sterndale Bennett).
