

Business Men's Backache.

When a man gets interested in his business he's apt to forget about himself.

When backache comes—when he feels depressed and out of sorts, he contents himself with the plea that he's worked too hard—he'll ease up some of these days.

But he doesn't let up—backache gets worse and worse—kidneys can't stand the strain put upon them—they need help—must have it if serious kidney trouble is to be averted.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

have helped hundreds of business men to do their work and keep their health

—eased their aching back, and restored the natural blood filtering functions of their kidneys. Read the evidence:

"I have had kidney and urinary trouble for some time past, with distressing pain in the small of my back, and indeed felt very miserable. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from Mason's drug store, and they cured me completely. I recommend them heartily as a splendid remedy for kidney or urinary difficulties, and as a cure for pain in the back they are certainly infallible." Mr. Charles W. Strong, Collector of Customs, Summerside, is one of the few living in this province to-day who took a part in the celebration of the late Queen Victoria's coronation in the year 1838. At that time Mr. Strong was in Newark, Nottinghamshire, Eng., where his father the late Rev. J. B. Strong then resided. He remembers well this grand occasion which was one of great rejoicing and was observed with unusual éclat. It was a general holiday and the streets and buildings were decorated on a large scale. Among other note-worthy incidents he recalls to mind one street in particular on which were built two immense and elaborately arranged arches at either end of the "gate," and running parallel with the street on each side tables were erected heavily laden with the choicest roast meats, puddings and other delicacies, free for everybody. Church bells chimed the National Anthem and shouts of God Save The Queen were heard on every hand. Mr. Strong attended service in one of the churches where prayers were offered, national hymns sung and a great pipe organ pealed forth echoing strains. The late Rev. J. B. Strong was born in Bingham and was a missionary to Canada, first coming to this country in the year 1812 together with a large number of others sailing in about seventy or eighty ships, conveyed by H. M. S. Bellerophon—the ship in which Napoleon was taken to St. Helena. His children were all born in the Maritime Provinces, Mr. Chas. Strong being born in St. John N. B. It was during a sojourn of the family in the old country that the coronation took place. They all returned to this country and the reverend gentleman's last days were spent in Summerside, where he is still remembered by our older citizens. In paying a tribute to her late Majesty Mr. C. W. Strong at the public memorial meeting on Friday last made reference to the great strides in commercial life and prosperity during her long and glorious reign, and in mentioning the first railway in the world, which was built just before her coronation, between Liverpool and Manchester, he expressed his having had the pleasure of a ride over it a few months after its construction. Mr. Strong, though not having yet lived much over the allotted span, was the oldest man on the platform on Friday and his address was listened to with much interest. He has ever been a great admirer of our late beloved Sovereign and in eulogizing her beautiful life he dwelt chiefly upon her broad and sympathetic love for her subjects in all parts of the Empire.

If your stomach is weak it should have help. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength to the stomach and cures dyspepsia do indigestion.

Mr. Barlow in his Whistling Solo delighted the audience with his clear, distinct, musical notes and the audience would not be satisfied without hearing him again.

Miss Flo McKenzie's rendition of the Highlanders at Dargai was an admirable elocutionary effort. The drill by the Boy's Highland Brigade under command of Major Stewart was performed in a manner that would have done credit to veterans. The effect of their picturesque uniform was charming, while the dance by the Lassies was exquisite. Particular mention must be made of the dancing of little Beatrice Paton also of Ellie Gilles. Much credit is due to Miss Helen McDonald who arranged the dances and trained the dancers. The oration by Rev. T. E. Fullerton was a masterly effort, and evinced a sympathetic appreciation of the work of Burns, which is being better appreciated as the man and his circumstances are better understood, the dominant note of the work of Burns being a loving sympathy with his fellow-men. He sang of liberty, nature, and humanity, and to his strong love for, and advocacy of liberty, we may be indebted for some of the privileges we at present enjoy.

The accompanists were Mr. Earle, Mr. Watts, Mr. Blanchard and Miss Vinnicombe.

If a word of criticism might be uttered it was that the program was a little lengthy, but then it was good.

saying that the past year has for many reasons and in many ways been the most eventful and prosperous one in the history of the Society. Our meetings have been well attended, considerable technical work has been done by individual members, some original and valuable discoveries have been made, much public interest manifested in our progress, much loyal support accorded us by the public, leading us to recognize gratefully and with satisfaction that the Natural History and Antiquarian Society is regarded as one of the most honoured institutions in the Province, with a future of increased usefulness and prosperity before it.

Viewing of Victoria.

can fancy a stretch of lordly residences, five or six storeys high, every window open and packed full of people arrayed in their best; while from every window dozens of flags and handkerchiefs fluttered like forest leaves in a gale.

Westminster Abbey was reached about noon, and probably during its seven hundred years of existence, that ancient fane never enclosed at one time, so much fashion and wealth. For months carpenters were at work adjusting conditions to suit the display; above the high altar two galleries were filled with ladies of rank; their head-gear and vestments seen at long range, looked considerably like a flower garden in bloom. Then Archbishops magnificently arrayed in their official robes of bright crimson; bishops and deans habited as became their several stations; Kings, Princes, Dukes, Lords, Nobles; great officers of the army and navy in their most brilliant attire; eastern princes and potentates, their turbans ablaze with barbaric splendor; municipal dignitaries in official robes, heralds and court representatives of various ranks. All entitled to decorations had these fastened where they would do the most good, in other words, where they would attract the greatest attention. The whole display was calculated to take one's breath, and to shorten his days did he have frequently to undergo the excitement. I saw it stated that the uniforms of every civilized nation on earth were represented, except those of the American Republic and of France.

The Archbishop of Canterbury conducted the ceremonies which were mostly of a musical nature and very impressive. The whole performance lasted about forty minutes.

The procession returned in much the same order as already described, though the route was considerably changed for the benefit of sight-seers. In the evening a garden party was given at Buckingham Palace to which five thousand persons were invited; at nine the fireworks were of extreme splendor, while on hills away in the country huge bonfires illumined the sky. The London Times of the following morning had thirty of its wide columns wholly taken up with jubilee news. In the afternoon a picnic was given in Hyde Park at which 20,000 children attended.

On Jubilee morning the Queen was presented with a giant bouquet of orchids, six feet by seven and valued at 35 guineas.

ROBERT BURNS' CONCERT

The Large Audience Delighted With The Excellent Program Rendered.

A full house and a good concert last night at the Opera House. The anniversary Burns Concert was a success in every way. The audience must have been satisfactory to the management, and the most fastidious could not fail to be satisfied with the several performers. The vocalists were all in excellent voice and expectations raised by the published program were fully realized. Want of space prevents particular notice. All were good and heartily applauded. Mr. Robert Lamont was obliged to respond to a persistent encore as was also Mr. Charles and Miss Amy Earl to their duet. The instrumental numbers by Professor Vinnicombe and Watts were exquisitely rendered and truly enjoyable.

Mr. Barlow in his Whistling Solo delighted the audience with his clear, distinct, musical notes and the audience would not be satisfied without hearing him again.

Old Gold .25

Comstock .10
Primrose .15

This is a splendid list of good safe shares. I know each property and the people who form the companies well. The properties are first-class, and the people are some of the best in the community. The Rob Roy people have a deal on which involves some hundreds of thousands of dollars, and all shareholders will benefit. Shares in the company will not be withdrawn till the deal is consummated. Not here is time to let, no buy.

Old Gold and Primrose have struck ore. One paper says Old Gold can ship "vast quantities," and Primrose "can ship from the grass roots"

Comstock is on a marvellous 5 foot ledge carrying Gold, Silver, Copper and Lead. I have had assays running over $100 to the ton from this ledge. This is one of the best of the new companies.

There is no risk about this sort of Mining Investment. I have thoroughly investigated these properties and they are in my opinion, absolutely safe. If you want a good paying investment, get into this list. Write me.
