TO RESIDE IN OLEARY—Mrs. Thomas Woodbridge whose husband died recently at Linwood, Mass., arrived in Oleary this week with her two children and will take up her residence there. She was accompanied home by her brother, Mr. Harold Jolly who went to Linwood to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law.—S

SPRING HOUSE CLEANING—Get your moth bags, cedar flakes, moth spray, etc., at Gourlies Drug Store. L-1537-4-8-21.

K. OF C. STILL LEADING—at the Capitol Building Alloys, Summerside, on Wednesday evening the Dominion won the second game of a two game series for the finals 6 pins; but owing to the high score of the K. of C. at the beginning of the series this team is still leading by 136 pins Henry Bernard who has arrived with a score of 320 and a Callaghan high three with 688. The final game is scheduled for this evening and promises to be a keen and interesting one.—S

PREPARING FOR LOBSTER REASON—The fishermen of Prince County are making preparations for the herring and lobster season. Everywhere along the shore one sees nets out and men busy with traps and other gear. Just as soon as the ice leaves the Strait herring fishing will commence. At Summerside ice still blocks the harbour although the channel is marked by a thin line of water and travel even on the upper part of the bay is unimpeded.—S

WINS AWARD—Congratulations are being extended to Mrs. B. Champion of Oleary on the success of her daughter, Miss Helen Champion, B. A., who has just been awarded the British Federation of University Women's Scholarship at Crosby Hall valued at $500. Miss Champion took her B. A. degree at the London University and is at present taking a doctor of Philosophy course at an O. D. E. scholarship, which was extended for a second year. Miss Champion is well known as a writer and is writing a book on "The Island" at the present time.—S

CARRIED FLOUR HOME—A striking example of stamina and determination to win through in the face of seemingly insurmountable obstacles was portrayed in the village of Albany one evening last week, when Mr. Theo. Curtis carried a 25 lb. bag of flour on his back from W. E. Buchanan's store to his home, two miles distant. This is rendered the more remarkable by the fact that Mr. Curtis never once stopped or faltered, despite the fact that he was hampered considerably by the condition of the roads and was guided only by the rays of a flashlight. About a dozen witnesses Mr. Curtis' performance, some of them being somewhat chagrined by his success, having put up the money to buy the flour. Mr. Curtis worked the next day and turned up in the evening none the worse for his experience and ready to enjoy to the full the discomfiture of the boys who were 42.25 poorer while he was 42.25 richer by a bag of flour.

Summerside C. W. L. Unit Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Summerside sub-division of Catholic Women's League was held on April 6th, with the president, Miss Margaret Wedge in the chair. A resume of the year's work was given, in the reports of the various committees and special mention should be given to the work of the Social Service Committee, under the convener-ship of Mrs. Carl Delaney, for their untiring efforts in connection with taking care of our needy children, in supplying them with clothing and milk.

The retiring president thanked the officers and members for their co-operation during the year. The following officers were appointed for the incoming year:

President, Mrs. Parnell McMahon, 1st Vice President, Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, 2nd Vice President, Mrs. E. P. Foley, 3rd Vice President, Mrs. D. F. McNeill.

Recording Secretary, Mrs. Joseph Callaghan, Corresponding Secretary, Miss Ida Dawson.

Treasurer, Miss Margaret Arsenault.

At a special meeting held after the regular meeting the following were appointed:

Councilors—Mrs. Carl Delaney, Mrs. Abel Arsenault, Mrs. W.B. McNeill, Mrs. Joseph Hickey.

Committee Convenors: membership, Mrs. W. J. Sullivan; magazine, Mrs. Foley; education, Mrs. D. F. McNeill; study club, Miss Margaret Arsenault; press, Miss Dina Gaudet; citizenship, Mrs. Joseph Callaghan; citizenship, Mrs. Joseph Callaghan; programs, Mrs. Abel Arsenault.

The remarks of the retiring officers showed the keen interest that has always been taken by the members in the work they have undertaken in this parish and they look forward to another year of work well done.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

"We have come to the end of another year in the activities of this sub-division, and as president I have the honor of addressing this meeting at this, the sixth annual convention." Miss Margaret Wedge said.

"On taking over office the first item to be taken care of was the annual card party and dance which was held in the Maple Leaf Gardens," the speaker continued.

"In the months of May and June we had First Communion and Confirmation and the needy Catholic children had to be taken care of and clothed properly. This meant a heavy expenditure and a lot of work on the part of our Social Service Committee, and right here I would like to thank those ladies who gave such wholehearted co-operation, not only at this time, but at any other time during the year when they were called upon.

"At the meeting of the Dental Clinic the report showed that 179 indigent children had been completely taken care of, and there were a number of others who had only had partial treatment. This is a very fine and necessary work and deserves all the help possible. The sum realized from the sponsoring of a movie picture took care of the amount promised and the balance was distributed equally between the three societies sponsoring it, to be used principally in securing milk for needy children.

"During the year two Island men were honored by the Church—Bishop Nelligan and Archbishop McNally, and suitable letters of congratulation were sent to them from our sub-division.

"Our envelope collection in the fall was not as large as in other years but considering conditions we were very well satisfied with the proceeds. Our bills for First Communion and Confirmation have been paid and the money was used as needed.

Provincial Despotism

An analysis by Mr. D. L. Mathieson of the legal arguments advanced by Premier Campbell for withholding right of appeal to dispossessed property owners.

General will hardly argue that their actions are not in accord with the principles of law and Government under which we live.

All these Courts could be swept away by legislation, but they have been established and they continue to exist because they are an essential part of our democratic system.

I suggest that the correct statement of the law is that although technically no appeal from one Court to another exists at Common Law unless definitely provided, the principle of law and the practice to provide the right of appeal wherever any substantial question of law or fact may be involved. I submit that in expropriation cases the principle of law is the same, and the practice to provide the right of appeal is the same. British jurisdiction is to confer the right of reference to a Court or Board of Arbitrators.

"Then the Attorney-General says: 'A reference to the Courts is not regarded as being the inalienable right of subjects on all questions but as a rule if a subject wishes to bring a suit against the Crown he must first get the consent of the Government. To use the common expression, the Government can't be sued without its own consent. That is the ordinary law of the land and there is nothing new about that...'

The Attorney-General is evading the question when he discusses the right of the subject to sue the Government. This is not the question here. The dispossessed landowners have merely asked that their cases be referred to a proper tribunal for an impartial hearing. However, the Government has refused not only by the Attorney-General but in several anonymous letters in the press, and I shall attempt to deal with it.

Sometimes a subject feels that he has been wronged by the Crown. For instance, the Government may refuse to pay a contractor the agreed price for repairing a Government building. In such event the contractor may apply by petition, requesting the Crown to give him permission to have his case against the Government tried by a Court. The Attorney-General considers the petition and if he comes to the conclusion that the applicant has a reasonable and probable ground of claim it is his duty, his moral duty as principal officer and upholder of the law, if not his technically legal obligation, to grant the permission. The case goes to Court and the Crown and the contractor are on equal terms. The purpose of such procedure is to avoid a multiplicity of frivolous suits against the Government. Much more could be said about this subject but after all it is beside the point. The most important statement made by the Attorney-General as divorced from his remarks about suits against the Crown is the following:

"A reference to the Courts is not regarded as being the inalienable right of subjects on all questions..."

I submit this statement does not correctly present the meaning and spirit of our law.

We live, or we used to live, under the British system of Government. It has been stated that this system recognizes two things:

1st—the sovereign power of Parliament and

2nd—the "Rule of Law."

This latter it is being assumed the Provincial Legislature has not exceeded the powers granted to it by the British North America Act.

Possibly I am discussing "what every school boy knows," but I am led to do so by noting that at least the majority of thirty old school boys have forgotten what they knew.

Our Constitution, apart from the framework set up by the British North America Act, is unwritten.
