INSTITUTE PALS—The Guardian received with thanks from the Sterling Institute, Stanley Bridge, three dollars for its Santa Pal fund. This amount was credited under the secretary's name, by mistake.

POLICE COURT—At the police court yesterday morning one vagrant was given thirty days in jail. There were two persons charged with carrying a revolver without a permit. Of these one, who was also drunk was fined $5.00 and given a suspended sentence of three months imprisonment. The other had his bail bond of $20.00 estreated. Both had their firearms confiscated. Three drunks were fined $5.00 and costs. One prohibition case was dismissed and one case of assault was disposed of by a fine of $20.00 and costs.

TEACHERS TRAINING CLASS—The Service Training School with centre at South Milton was held on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 13. There were six present. Miss Jean Rodd, presided and after the secretary gave a report of the last meeting, a collection was taken from those present to meet the current expenses. Mr. Court then conducted a very profitable lesson on the time-table. He used an imaginary time-table which covered the work taken up by eight grades. By this time table nearly one-half of the morning session was used on work with junior grades. Less undirected work in arithmetic was left to the pupils. The teachers were asked to prepare a new time-table, and as preparatory work for next meeting to read Chapter 14 of "Fundamentals and Methods." A better attendance of teachers is urged, as a large percentage of teachers who should attend do not. The next meeting is to be held on Thursday, Jan. 24.

HONOR TO ISLAND EDUCATIONALIST—Intimation has been received from Trinidad that the Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church of Trinidad has instituted a scholarship in honor of the Rev. Dr. F. J. Coffin, for many years principal of the Presbyterian College at San Fernando, Trinidad, who retired from the position last year and is now resident in Charlottetown. Rev. Dr. Coffin is a distinguished educationalist and was the leading authority in Trinidad on the subject. He did a very great deal to advance the training of teachers for elementary schools and it was principally through his efforts that a regular normal training was provided for this purpose. The present satisfactory position of education and teachers training in Trinidad is due to a very large extent to the great work done by Dr. Coffin. The scholarship will amount to £50 ($250) and the Presbytery has set aside funds as a nucleus for this purpose. The Guardian joins Dr. Coffin's many friends in congratulating him upon this well deserved honor.

Dix "Delivers" Again in "The Gay Defender"

Richard Dix knows what the public wants. He proved that again last night when his new Paramount starring picture "The Gay Defender" opened for a two day run at the Strand Theatre.

Richard Dix is also an ambitious, hard-working young man. That too was proved last night. For he is going to have to work and work hard to beat the Prince Edward's new picture. For pure entertainment it is probably the best vehicle Dix has ever had. It is easily the best screen fare to be seen here this week.

Dix has turned to early California for the setting, and to the gold rush of '49 for the time of his new picture. Those adventurous days, when desperadoes and ruffians stormed into the newly acquired U. S. territory, provide a vivid background. The star himself plays Joaquin Murrieta, son of an aristocratic Spanish family and heir to a fortune in the form of a huge rancho. His happiness as the picture opens is made complete by his newly found love for the daughter of the new U. S. Commissioner.

How the murder of the girl's father is charged to Dix, how he finds Americans plundering his gold mines, how his uncle is killed and his people oppressed, and how finally he turns to banditry to right the wrongs done him provide the outline of the stirring plot. As a night-riding, knife-throwing, whip-cracking bandit, Dix rages through the rest of the picture, as bold and spectacular an outlaw as was ever portrayed on the motion picture screen.

Thelma Todd, beautiful blonde newcomer, is the American girl, and one we feel quite worthy to represent her sisters in a setting in which she is practically the only woman. Fred Kohler "wolf of the screen" is the able villain.

Credit for the excellence of the whole picture must in large measure go to Gregory La Cava, who directed it, to Grover Jones, who wrote the original story, and to Ray Harris, Sam Mintz and Kenneth Raisbeck, the trio of scenarists who adapted it for the screen.

AT ROTARY

At the Rotary luncheon yesterday a short but suitable Christmas program was presented with James A. McMillan in the chair. The Rotary quartette sang several carols by themselves, then led the Club in singing others. H. H. Shaw gave a talk on Christmas in which he read "spirit messages" purporting to have come from great authors such as Tennyson who wrote of the time "when the battle flag would be furled in the Parliament of man, the Federation of the World. Mr. Shaw referred to the poem appearing in the Weekly Notice and written by Assistant Secretary James E. Harris and the latter was accordingly "crowned" poet laureate of the Rotary Club.

This was Stork Day at Rotary and Hal Palmer presented the emblematic silver mug to M. G. McNeeley, the happy father with instructions to hand it over to his offspring. Mr. McNeeley made a fitting acknowledgment.

President Pope extended Christmas greetings to his fellow members and stated he had sent messages to the International and District offices.

He also read greetings received from Lieutenant Governor Heartz and from International Rotary President Sutton.

A letter was read from Miss Amy Earle thanking the Rotarians for their gift of $100 towards the Dispensary.

Paring a corn is both risky and ineffective. It is much better to use Holloway's Corn Remover and eradicate them entirely.

Keaton Brings Hilarious Fun

COMEDIAN IN SERIES OF MISHAPS IN NEW FILM, "THE CAMERAMAN."

A boat race that he ruins by falling into the water; a tong war that he ruins by falling into the machine gun bullets, and countless yards of film that he ruins by taking more than one picture on, are among the bits of damage by which Buster Keaton makes a series of hilarious comedy events in "The Cameraman" his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature now being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

Although for laughing purposes only, the frozen-faced comedian has injected a very pretty love story in the midst of a huge collection of laughs, and the result is one of the most interesting plays he has given the Keaton fans in years.

Keaton plays an apprentice newsreel cameraman—a young boy trying to get along in the business in New York. It opens with his getting trampled over by a parade for his pains, and from then on he manages to blunder into every possible form of mishap, accident, and trouble imaginable—and a director like Edward Sedgwick who handled the megaphone on the picture, has plenty of imagination to figure out new troubles for a comedian with.

Buster gets almost drowned in a swimming pool, then gets in trouble at the Newport boat races; his adventure with the Chinese highbinders is excruciating and the traffic jam in the rain is one of the funniest scenes Keaton has ever staged.

Marceline Day makes a very charming heroine as Buster's sweetheart and Harold Goodwin, though a good looking chap usually identified with college roles, becomes a very "heavy" villain indeed when he appears to stand between the two lovers.

Sydney Bracy plays the newsreel editor and Harry Gribbon has a comical role as the hard-faced policeman who starts to trundle Buster off to the hoosegow, when Providence in the way of a "crazy-housewagon" intervenes.

Providence always intervenes—sometimes with a trained monkey, and howls are loud and continuous as the audience watches.

SUNNY SKIES WHEN WINTER COMES

When winter comes our thoughts turn to the time when fields were green and gentle zephyrs blew across the meadows, when all Nature was smiling, and the great outdoors invited us.

Those who wish to migrate with the birds to the sunny lands of the Pacific Coast, and so escape the rigorous and more invigorating winter season will find Canadian National service available to transport them on winged wheels of steel to the winter resorts of British Columbia or California. The Canadian National Railways operate through standard all-steel trains with radio equipped library observation cars, to the Pacific Coast and to California, via Chicago.

Application to any Canadian National Railways Agent, or to F.W Robertson, General Passenger Agent, Moncton, N. B., will bring you beautifully illustrated booklets describing the winter resorts of British Columbia and California, with information as to fares, etc. Write today and have your trip planned in the easiest and most enjoyable way. 9940-12-24-2i

Church Services

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

All the services at Trinity United Church on Sunday were appropriate to the Christmas season. Rev. Dr. Ramsay's sermon in the morning was on the Nativity. We should approach this celebration with holy wonder and joy. The Nativity means that God came, finally and completely, into human life, human history and human society. From this event God is to be recognized as in intimate touch with human life. Christmas is a day for the children but not for them alone. It is a day when mothers can rejoice, a day of home celebration, a day when all humanity can take fresh courage and attempt further progress.

In the infancy narratives three classes of men are represented—the toilers, the thinkers and the seekers, or the workers, the worshippers and the waiters.

There were toilers, the shepherds in the fields of Bethlehem. It was an age when all workers, whether slaves or freemen, were poor, ignorant and hopeless. Jesus comes first to the toilers. The hope of their elevation lies in the message of Christ's coming.

The three wise men represent the thinkers. The greatest thinkers are in the Christian Church. More and more the philosophers are recognizing that wide and loving personality must be the essence of things.

Simeon and Anna were of a great age; like humanity at large, they have long been sighing and waiting for light and liberty. The poor African woman, on hearing the Gospel story, said "I always thought there must be a God like that."

In the evening Rev. H. Johnson delivered a short but thought-challenging discourse on the wonder of the Nativity, from the text "His name shall be called wonderful."

At the morning service the following Christmas carols were rendered by the choir:

Ring Out Ye Bells, Wallis.

Once in Bethlehem of Judah, Nevin.

Jesus in the Manger, Manney.

See, Amid the Winter's Snow, Goss.

In the evening a fine rendition of Bishop Wilson's Cantata "The First Christmas" was given, as follows:

The people that Walked in Darkness—Mr. A. R. Gillis and The Choir.

Bethlehem— Solo— Miss Ethel Heaney.

My Soul Doth Magnify the Lord—Choir.

And it Came to Pass—Mr. A. R. Gillis and The Choir.

The Shepherds' Vision—Mrs. Roy Cudmore and The Choir.

The Angels' Song— Mr. George Johnson and The Choir.

The Star and the Song—Duet—Mrs. W. E. Fletcher and Miss L. McKenzie.

No Room in the Inn—Mrs. A. R. Gillis and the Harmony Male Eight.

O Babe in Bethlehem Manger—Choir.

A Christmas Lullaby — Solo — Mr. P. W. Small.

The Heart of God—Mr. H. McPherson and The Choir.

Blessed be the Lord—Choir.

The following organ selections from Handel's "Messiah" were rendered by the organist Prof. Fletcher: Postlude, morning, "The Glory of the Lord"; offertory, evening, "He shall Feed His Flock"; postlude, evening, "For Unto Us."

During the opening exercises of the Sunday School, Rev. Dr. Ramsay gave an address on the spirit of Christmas and Miss Mildred Cox sang a solo.

::A Foe to Asthma, Give Asthma half a chance and it gains ground rapidly. But give it repeated treatment of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy and it will fall back even faster. There is no half way measure about this remedy. It goes right to work and drives asthma out. It reaches the inmost breathing passages and leaves no place for the trouble to lurk. Have it by you for ready use.

The Markets

(Canadian Press)
