

To the Footwear Merchants of Prince Edward Island

Our rubber boots and other rubber footwear, which we formerly distributed to the trade through Ames Holden McCready, Limited, are now branded:

We are not connected IN ANY WAY with our former selling agents, Ames Holden McCready, Limited, and, since the beginning of 1924, have not manufactured any rubber boots other than:

RHINO is "A NAME which is NEW for a FAME which is OLD." You are no doubt familiar with the high quality of the rubber boots made by us from 1920 to 1923. THIS QUALITY IS NOW TO BE HAD ONLY IN "RHINO" BRAND. Explain this to your customers who come into your store and want the same high-grade boots which gave them such long wear and good service in the past few years. Gordon & Co., who formerly handled Ames Holden Rubber Footwear will in future offer you:

The Daily Cross Word Puzzle

One of These Brain Testers Appears Every Morning in The Guardian

THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE GAME

There are diagrams containing black and white squares. The white squares are to be filled with letters arranged in such a manner that they spell words answering the definitions given below each puzzle. Each word should start at the square in which the number appears and extend right or down to the first black square. Every square must be filled. Hence, if there are four spaces to be filled by a word meaning "aid" it is probable that the word is "help".

Go through the puzzle and write all the horizontal words you can then try the vertical definitions. When all are correctly solved the words will cross each other and all spaces will be filled.

SCORING

The one who finishes first is credited with 300 points. The one who finishes second is credited with 250 points. The one who finishes third is credited with 200 points and so on each finisher receiving 20 points less than the one who finished immediately before him.

DEDUCTIONS FOR ERRORS IN ANSWERS

When all players are finished, the answer in succeeding issues is used to prove the accuracy of each solution. Three points are to be deducted for each error. Any words left unsolved count as errors.

THE WINNER

After the deductions for errors have been made from the total points secured for finishing quickly as described above under "Scoring," the winner is declared to be the one with the greatest number of points remaining to his credit.

THE LIMIT

It is well to set a time limit for the game, otherwise one player may hold it up indefinitely. All players who do not finish within the time limit are given 20 points less than the last one to finish.

AN ATTRACTIVE AND USEFUL FARMERS CALENDAR FOR '25

From now until Dec. 31, 1924 the Guardian will give a Calendar with each New or Renewal Subscription received.

The illustration on the front, entitled "On the Range" gives an unique picture painting of Daily Scenes in All Rural Districts. The calendar is printed in nice large type and the figures are quite visible from a distance, giving the changes of the moon and other information.

The upper part on the inside of the calendar contains an account sheet for every month of the year. The back of each sheet is devoted to the care of live stock, poultry, cultivation, and valuable information in determining weights, measures, and quantity of produce.

There is also a sheet for an inventory of farm implements, crop stock, poultry, insurance, dwelling and out buildings, also a space allotted for liabilities as well as net earnings and assets. In all making a complete account book that will be a real friend to the farmer who is looking for a simple method of keeping in touch with his farm.

Remember, there is only a limited number, so send in your New or Renewal Subscription at Once and request us to send you the Calendar.

AGE

Eyes and Ears

We so soon grow accustomed to the enjoyment of beautiful sights, such as flowers, blue sky, loved faces, lovely sounds like the song of birds, the laughter of children and the voices of the dear ones, that we forget the gateways through which those joys reach our understanding. It is impossible to picture or the appalling stillness in which the deaf pass their lives. Perhaps if we could really imagine their deprivation we would be more careful to prevent maltreatment of the eyes and ears. Sometimes serious injury is done to them in childhood through ignorance and carelessness.

The eyes of a new-born babe should be shielded from strong light, and only gradually brought to endure full daylight. The young toddler should use his eyes as little as possible by artificial light, and never directly facing the light. During convalescence from a sickness the child's eyes should be protected from strong light. This is especially necessary in measles.

Sometimes a mother of a beautiful babe is distressed to see a condition of cross-eye developing. If treated early by a skillful doctor this may very often be corrected. A child of even less than two years may be trained to wear the necessary glasses quite happily. If your child has inflamed eyes, or flows continually, or holds objects closer than fourteen inches from his face, or has frequent headaches, you should consult a good oculist immediately. Do not buy glasses for him without a definite prescription for them obtained from a competent specialist. Many a child who has failed to receive a careful medical examination on entering school has been regarded as dull and stupid for the whole school term until chance revealed that he was seeing the black board only dimly or hardly at all. In many large cities such children are immediately placed in slight conservation classes, where all known methods are employed to enable the child to continue his studies, and yet protect and strengthen this most precious of the special senses.

Protection of the eyes from infection must begin from the first moment of life, when two drops of one percent solution of nitrate of silver should be put in each eye. This is a definite preventative measure against blindness of the new-born. The child must be taught not to rub his eyes because dirty fingers may carry the germs of serious infection. The use of a common towel may be the means of infecting the child's eyes. If any marked inflammation of the eyes should develop no time should be lost in securing medical advice.

Any irritating object such as a cinder or particle of dust may be most readily removed by turning back the upper lid over a match or a knitting needle and gently removing the object from the inverted lid with a twisted corner of a clean cloth. If a foreign body should be imbedded on the lid or eyeball the child should be taken at once to the doctor.

Ears need intelligent care. All the exposed surfaces of the outer ear must be kept clean by washing with a soft cloth or absorbent cotton. Do not try to remove any yellow wax from the inner ear. Nature usually takes care of the excess wax. If not, the accumulation should be removed by a physician. Rough or unskilled efforts to remove it may result from a neglected or badly treated inflammation and you must take no chances.

If the child gets a bead or other foreign object into his ear, take him to the doctor without delay. If an insect gets into the inner ear, pour in some clean sweet oil to stop the insect moving or buzzing, then take the child to the doctor.

The gateways by which most of the beauty of life reaches our understanding demand intelligent care which will be repaid a thousandfold in the joy of living.

"SANTA CLAUS' HEADQUARTERS"

FAWCETT PIPELESS FURNACE

are considered to be equal if not better than any furnace on the market. They are made by a Maritime concern that has been a household name for the past 65 years. They embrace every good point that goes to make up a QUALITY FURNACE. Note some of the points: The large RADIATOR either toncan steel or all cast. The large heating capacity of this RADIATOR provides space for whatever heat is produced thereby getting it all through the register, (no need of extra attachments.) The extra heavy asbestos which is used between the two casings in order to retain the heat, (instead of allowing it to go into your cellar) is used in all the FAWCETT FURNACES. Note the LARGE WATER PAN in the proper place in front of the fire pot where the water is heated sufficiently to give you the proper moisture. The prices on these furnaces are as low if not lower, (taking into consideration the heating capacity) than any of the other kind.

Why send your money out of the Maritimes? Be patriotic, trade AT HOME.

Price and terms arranged to suit customers.
