SCHMELING CHANGES PLANS FOR RETURN

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(A.P.)—Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, today cabled from Germany to his manager Joe Jacobs that he had changed his plans and would not return to the fistie wars until after the Christmas holidays. Schmeling now plans to come to New York in January to fulfill an engagement for the Milk Fund, which aided in the promotion of his three championship fights against either Tommy Loughran or King Levinaky. The bout originally was scheduled for December.

RIFLE MATCH

The Annual team shoot for the McKinnon and Guardian Cups will take place at Kensington Rifle Range tomorrow (Saturday, beginning at 1.30 P. M. sharp. Teams of 5 men each representing military units or rifle associations will compete for the McKinnon Cup, and teams of 3 men each representing military units or rifle associations will shoot for the Guardian Cup. It looks as if the big contenders for the above trophies will be the military teams, the Highlanders, Lighthorse and Signals having very strong teams, although with Summerside, York, Covehead and Pownall Rifle Associations all active, it may be a different story altogether. The Ranges will be the 200, 500, and 600 yards.

Terry Explains Giants' Success

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—For a young man going on 36 who has the reputation of fighting for what he wants—and getting it—Memphis Bill Terry has done pretty well for himself. On top of leading the New York Giants to a pennant and world championship with one of the greatest marches in baseball history, Terry marched out of club headquarters today with a new five-year contract as player-manager.

In the same offices where barely six months ago Memphis Bill tilted his big cigar and suggested the Giants might finish as high as third place, with some luck, he signed a document that makes him commander-in-chief on the field from 1934 to 1938 inclusive and assures him an annual salary reliably reported at $40,000.

Thus he becomes not only the "man of the year" in baseball but the highest salaried player or manager in the National League. Back of Terry's remarkable success of 1933 is the story of something new in the ancient game of baseball—the "huddle system." "There were no secrets on my ball team this year," says Terry. "I told the players early in the season that when they saw me go over for a talk with the pitcher, I wanted them all in on it. We found it worked so well that we got more and more into the habit of talking things over and working them out, during the games, especially when a critical situation developed. In that way, everybody had an interest in fulfilling his job to the utmost.

"You can call it the huddle system. That's all right with me. The main thing is that it developed confidence and a feeling of co-operation among all hands when we got into the tight spots. We simply played the percentage and used common sense.

"You ask me for the three outstanding turning points of the series. That 11th inning double play in the fourth game. The others were my stab of Gossin's hard drive, choking off a threat by the Senators in the eighth inning of the first game and Gus Mancuso's successful execution of the squeeze play in the sixth inning rally we staged for six runs in the second game. Boy I don't mind telling you I got a real thrill out of them."

Terry does not contemplate any major changes in the Giants for 1934 when he starts his new long term in office but he said he will not hesitate to rebuild at any time and in any position, when it seems necessary.

C.A.H.A. LAYS DOWN RULES FOR TRYOUTS

Canadian Amateur Union Sets Forth Regulations For "Simon pures" Who Have Received Pro. Offers.

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—For the guidance of many amateur hockey players who have or will be offered contracts with professional teams the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association tonight issued a list of conditions under which the amateur may do so and, in the event of his non-success, still retain his amateur standing.

The conditions are: "He must have a written invitation from a professional team. "Before he tries out or practices with the professional team he must obtain sanction to do so from the branch of the C. A. H. A. in which he resides. The Branch in question will then file this sanction in writing with the registration committee of the C. A. H. A. Upon the sanction being passed by the committee the player may then try out or practice, providing no contract has been signed and no money taken outside of legitimate traveling and living expenses.

"Notwithstanding the above provision, a player granted the above privilege must not under any circumstances take part in a professional game.

"If a player does not conform with these regulations in trying out with a professional team, he is automatically suspended."

NEW CONTRACT FOR CRONIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The youngest pennant-winning manager ever to appear in the major leagues, Joseph Edward Cronin, today scribbled his name across a contract to pilot Washington Senators through three more flag chases at an annual figure believed to be about $25,000.

Cronin almost had a race with the hour glass to get his first three year contract signed before stepping into his twenty-seventh year. He will have his birthday party Thursday while en route home to San Francisco. Both "Old Fox" Clark Griffith and his kid pilot were reticent when newspapermen sought to get definite salary figures from them. The president of the Washington ball club said, however, that Cronin's pay envelope will bulge less than that of Manager Bill Terry of New York Giants, who yesterday signed for a salary reputed to be as high as $40,000.

The best authenticated reports have been that Cronin signed for about $17,500 last October before leading the Senators to their first American League pennant since 1925, only to be turned back decisively by Terry's Giants in the World Series. On the basis of this, and the smiling words of Cronin, his new contract was "satisfactory" and called for "a considerable increase over my salary for this year" the club house boys figured the new agreement would be for better than $20,000 but not more than $25,000.
