An obliging friend reminds The Guardian that the late Sir Henri Joli was not Minister of the Interior from 1896 till 1900 as stated. He was at the head of the Inland Revenue Department first as Controller and after June 1897 as Minister. The error in statement was one of inadvertence.

The series of games of the senior football league have about come to a close. The season, has been quite in their favor, although some days the grounds were somewhat soft and slippery. The following is the result of the games and the scores at each game.

	Vics	Abbies	S. D. C.
1st	0	14
2nd	0		12
3rd	0	3	3
4th	0	5	9

It will be seen by the above schedule that the Abbies and S. D. C.'s have tied in both the games. On Saturday the result will be settled as to whether the Abbies or the Saints will claim the victory.

Today will be a partial holiday for the farmers and country people who take part in the election. There is little excitement apparent so far and everything points to a quiet election. The people seem to have lost something of the old-time election enthusiasm and consider voting a duty to be performed with a level head and with full knowledge of what they are doing. The Purify Leagues have done good work in educating the electors in the duties of citizenship and the dangers that spring from corruption. Most of the electors doubtless realize that the vote is really too precious a thing to be sold for a dirty bribe. There are also some indications of greater independence than heretofore, and not a few, it is believed, will vote for the candidates whom they think will best represent them whether Liberal or Conservative. This is, so far a step forward toward higher politics, and sounder public morality.
