DUNNING SEES

(Continued from page 1) ment read. "During the year which is now closing the Canadian economy suffered from the impact of three powerful factors: (1) The sharp recession in the United States, which reduced substantially the sale of imported Canadian products to that market but which also affected other world markets and thus indirectly caused a further contraction in our sales of exports...

(Continued from page 1) burdens of this long and arduous journey are reduced to a minimum. Mr. Mackenzie King said. Members of the Government and the committees arranging the tour have been deluged with requests for special appearances of Their Majesties at functions throughout Canada. The Prime Minister asked the people to realize that in a tour of slightly more than three weeks it could not be expected they would be able to meet such requests. The two main objectives, the Prime Minister said, would be to permit as many people as possible especially children, to see the King and Queen and to permit Their Majesties to see as much of Canada as time permits. The itinerary, sent Their Majesties some weeks ago, for approval is expected momentarily from London. It will be made public as soon as received.

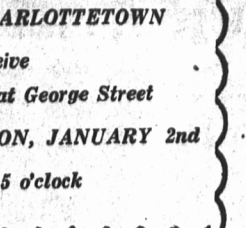

Germany Declares U.S. Bars Improved Relations

BERLIN, Dec. 30 - (AP) - Germany, through her official press agency, bluntly informed the United States tonight there was no hope for improving German-American relations as long as the State Department defends Harold Ickes, author of an article for Voelkischer Beobachter, central official organ of Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Nazi party. The article asked "does the United States want to risk provoking a conflict with the German people?" It charged President Roosevelt with forgetting that he assured Hitler before the Munich Accord that hundreds of millions in the world would recognize it as a great historical stride if he were to settle the Sudeten issue without resort to arms.

Syrian Demand For Independence Troubles French

PARIS, Dec. 30 - (AP) - Reports of a Syrian demand for immediate independence from France confronted the government today as it sought to put up a strong front to deal with the empire aspirations. The Independent Nationalist party of Syria was said to have sent a demand to the Nationalist Premier Djemil Mardam, calling for immediate release of the eastern Mediterranean states from France's League of Nations mandate. Other reports told of widespread discontent threatening to break into open trouble.

LIQUOR CONDITIONS

Sir: - I have pondered and pondered over this question and cannot seem to get any clearer. Why do we have so many liquor dives and bootleggers on P. E. I. What is the matter with our present Government that they do not have Prohibition enforced? Take Summerside, for instance, one of the prettiest and most up to date places for the size of it in the Maritime Provinces, I could go so far and say, in the whole of Canada, it is overrun with speakeasies. It is a scandalous thing to think that the people of Summerside will uphold and allow such carrying on. What is the matter with their Police Force and their Mayor? What is the matter with their Town? Why don't they make a move and clean the Town up from this unholy traffic? It is too bad that there were not some more Waterworths in Summerside!

NEWSY NOTES

London to Edinburgh fast or slow, but however fast we go we cannot at the same instant be at Doncaster and Newcastle. But there is no time limit to a dream; the mind which goes a long way to prove the theory of a mind free to break the limits the body imposes. None of these stories are quite so authenticated or quite so fully detailed as the "Whynard ghost story" which happened at Halifax (Canada) on October 15, 1786. Wynard and Sherbrooke, junior officers in the 33rd Foot, then quartered in Canada, were alone in a room in the evening of October 15th, when a tall, pale, young man about twenty walked through it. Both saw the figure in the doorway and recognized it and knew it for his brother. They followed after it, but it had vanished. This incident was recounted in the officers' mess, and all the regiment touched to having heard of it before the next ship arrived from England. When that ship came it brought a letter to Sherbrooke asking him to break his friend Wynard's news of his brother's death, which had happened the exact hour the figure had appeared to them. "Wynard's brother somehow sent himself to Canada, ... when his mind left his body in death. Perhaps we can control it the same way when the mind leaves the body in sleep." That has been attempted, too, with a certain measure of success. Last year an Austrian professor carried out some experiments to make people dream about definite past happenings - to make their minds travel back in time, as Mr. Dumme would say, "by awakening certain associations at the moment of falling asleep." The he did chief with gramophone records; for instance he played the waltz-tune to which they danced when he first met his wife; and he dreamed of that wife. He scented his handkerchief with the scent of a flower that grew in a certain garden; and he fell asleep and dreamed of the garden and
