PRINCE GEORGE EXHIBITION OPENED YESTERDAY

Ideal Weather and Most Creditable Showing in all Departments. Horse Races Today.

Ideal weather favored the Prince County Exhibition which opened in Summerside yesterday. The attendance was fairly large for an opening day and the number and quality of the exhibits was very creditable.

The exhibition was formally opened by Hon. W. M. Lea, Commissioner of Agriculture, in the absence of His Honor, the Lieutenant Governor. Mr. Lea spoke in very complimentary terms of the stock and the various exhibits, complimenting the farmers of Prince County on their excellent showing.

Mr. Creel McArthur, M. L. A., President of the Exhibition Association also gave an address. He was followed by His Worship Mayor Campbell, Hon. A. E. Arsenault and Rev. Dr. Gauthier all of whom spoke eulogistically of the exhibits and exhibitors.

The principal exhibitors were Messrs. D. M. Profit of Margate, Messrs. J. M. Laird & Son, Kelvin Road and Messrs. W. M. Moase & Son, New Annan. There was a fairly good competition in the well bred swine class, exhibited for the most part by Messrs. Frank Colbeck, Arthur McEwen and Richard Clark, of Summerside, and Mr. H. R. Moose of Kensington. In the poultry exhibit several of the birds were extra fine specimens of the best kinds.

The show of fruits, flowers, and fancy articles in the Exhibition Building is particularly noticeable. Larger and finer apples we have never seen anywhere this year, and the quality of the plums and other fruit on exhibition is fine. The same remark may be made concerning the roots and vegetables. The potatoes, turnips and other roots shown compare most favorably with those of the Provincial Exhibition, and the grain on exhibition is good to see.

But interest centers in the show of cattle and horses. Inside Messrs. Laird and Son of Kelvin Road show their splendid herds of shorthorns. Individual animals of this great breed as shown by Mr. Alfred Small of Summerside and Mr. John R. Stavert of Kelvin Road. Messrs. Glyn and Son of Margate are here again with a large and beautiful herd of pure bred Jerseys. Messrs. Profit and Son of Freejohn show a herd of Holsteins as also Messrs. Calbeck and Wood of Tryon and Mr. Fred Mutart of Summerside. Messrs. Moase Bros., of Kensington show Holsteins and Ayrshires, and Messrs. Cairns Bros. of Freetown, show a fine herd of Ayrshires. Messrs. John Lewis and Colby Lewis of Freetown and Mr. Arthur McMurdo of Summerside make a creditable exhibit of Ayrshires.

Among the horses on exhibition we note a nice driver shown by Mr. Alfred Small, a fine draft mare and foal with a two-year-old draft gelding also attract attention. A splendidly matched team of draft horses are shown by Mr. John Baker of Summerside. Mr. Richard Clark of Summerside shows a young draft stallion and also a draft mare and foal, all animals of merit.

It is expected that today will see a much larger attendance as much interest is being taken in the races which take place this afternoon.

THE P. W. COLLEGE IMPASSE AND CAUSES LEADING TO IT

Principal Robertson Gives Detailed Statement of Attempted Negotiations with the Government on Behalf of Staff, the Government's Reiterated Promises and what Came of Them. The Professors' Statement.

Speech the same two members of the staff with a third, Mr. Smith, called on the Premier and several other members of the Executive and Legislature in the Premier's office. Again the teachers stated their case and urged its justice. They were assured that something was even then being done, that though perhaps it was not all that the teachers were asking, it would, nevertheless, when known be regarded as fair. The reason for not making details known then, was that the government did not wish these increases to appear in the estimates about to be made public. The delegation left with the impression that something had been done.

At the close of the session and again several times during the summer Dr. Robertson interviewed the Premier to learn the decision of the government that he might communicate to the expectant teachers. Each time he was put off with the reply that he must have patience, that the matter was a large one and required the consideration of the Executive. One meeting purporting to be called for the special purpose of considering the case of the teachers was wholly given to an outsider, who happened to be in town that evening. Another meeting called for the same purpose towards the end of July was adjourned because after an hour's debate no one knew what the teachers wanted. (Schedules had been presented on two previous occasions.) For the adjourned meeting the schedule as recently printed in the Patriot was prepared.

On August 30th the Principal, who had just returned from his summer vacation, again called on the Premier. He urged the seriousness of the situation in that the teachers would be unwilling to resume work unless assurance of a favorable reply were given. The Premier again expressed his sympathy with the teachers, and his hope that the finances of the country would warrant generous treatment of the staff. The Principal, who had been delegated to secure the government's answer and send it to the teachers, consequently felt justified in urging the return of each member of the staff.

When the teachers reassembled on September 7th, some were strongly of opinion that we should not begin work unless we had an answer from the government. The mature judgment of the Principal however, prevailed and work was begun with the understanding, nevertheless, that the Principal would go again to the Premier to learn if any answer could not possibly be obtained; if not, then to notify the Premier that the present staff would carry on only till the end of September.

Accordingly the Principal went that same morning to lay the case before Acting Superintendent Shaw who advised that they two go to the Premier's Office to urge the necessity of immediate action. They were told that the proposition was too important for the Premier alone and that Dr. Robertson and Mr. Shaw should meet that evening with the government to state the case. The Principal therefore, complied with the Premier's request but no decision was reached while he was present. A few days later the Premier told the Principal that a part of the request had been granted by the increasing of the salaries of the teachers of the Model School from $750 to $1000. This action encouraged the teachers of the College to continue their work with the expectation that at last their request would be granted. Not until the monthly checks were received on September 30th was the staff convinced that the government was determined to take no action whatever. The teachers, therefore, feeling that they had received their final answer, tendered their resignation.

REDS DIMINISHING IN GERMANY

(Special to The Guardian.)
BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The "Red" vote in Germany is much smaller than had been expected. It was shown by the election of delegates to the independent socialist convention at Halle, in Berlin, where radicals expected to make a clean sweep for delegates pledged to third international, incomplete returns showed they had but a slight lead. In other "Red" centers, notably Bremen where the 1918 revolution was bred anti-Moscow delegates were far in the lead. The victory in Berlin was regarded as hollow, since a much more decisive vote had been expected.

FURTHER INCREASES TO THE RAILWAY MEN

It also worked out so that in some instances the increase will amount to forty five per cent but in no case will it be lower than fifteen per cent. The full amount of the increase since May 1st, will be included in the first period of October payrolls.

STREETS WHICH NEED ATTENTION

LOOSE STONES ON MANY CHARLOTTETOWN STREETS ARE A NUISANCE AND A MENACE.

Charlottetown can now boast some streets which are the equal of the best to be found in America, but unfortunately the streets which have not been newly asphalted are very much neglected. A curious custom prevails in this city which has probably caused more adverse criticism and profanity than anything else in connection with the streets, and that is the habit of dumping a lot of small loose stones in some hollow section of a street and leaving them there to be scattered in all directions by the wheels of teams and automobiles and by horses' feet. Just what the grand idea is nobody seems to know unless it is a plan to cripple horses' feet, or puncture automobile and bicycle tires. At any rate the joke is now so old that it is time it was abolished, and a gang of men sent around to shovel up these stones which are a menace and a nuisance of the worst kind. If all were gathered up and utilized at the stone crusher they would add considerably to the city's requirements there as a shortage of gravel has been one of the chief complaints this season. Among the streets where this nuisance is notably in evidence is Hillsborough, near the steam laundry, which has been in this disgraceful condition for a long time. Great George Street, near Water Street; the corner of Rockford and Euston Streets; also Brighton Road, to some extent, near the bridge, Great George Street between Grafton and Euston; and Fitzroy Street, also parts of Lower Prince Street, Spring Park Road from Euston, past the tannery bridge, Bayfield Street near Elm Avenue, portions of Euston Street and Weymouth Street, lower Hillsborough Street where the manholes project high above the street level; Sydney Street between Great George and Queen; Longworth Avenue and other sections.

Now when old age is drawing near, and the shadows are descending, when he should be looking back with pleasure upon a complete and well spent life, when his great work should, even by politicians, be appreciated, he is rudely thrown aside by men, who have brought nothing but ruin and disaster upon their country.

Must we as students stand aside and do nothing in defence of our venerable friend and teacher? Must we allow him to pass out without striking a blow in his defence? Will our pleadings to the government go unanswered? Or shall we demand, as coming citizens the right to have Dr. Robertson as our instructor and principal.

One thing we can do, that is to assure the doctor, that as we go forward to meet the trials and difficulties of life, we shall meet them in a manner worthy of his students. That the impressions that he has left upon our minds shall never be erased. That we shall at all times, as he would like us, quit ourselves like men.

I am, sir, etc,
HARRY VICKERSON.
