IN MEMORY OF POE

LONDON, March 3—A brilliant company gathered at a banquet at the invitation of the Authors' club, to celebrate the centenary of the birth of Edgar Allan Poe. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle presided, and was supported by Ambassador Reid and Mrs. Humphrey Ward, many leading British authors and a number of American residents of London. Among the guests was Captain Poe the oldest surviving member of the Poe family. The speeches, which were delivered by Ambassador Reid, Sir Conan Doyle, Captain Poe, Charles Garvice, the novelist, and Francis Henry Gribble, the artist, were interpersed with recitations of Poe's poems.

Sir Conan Doyle, after referring to the tragedy of Poe's life, paid a glowing tribute to Poe's work, saying:— "It is the irony of fate that he, as he he said he should, died in poverty, for if every man who wrote a story which was indirectly inspired by Poe were to pay tithe towards a monument, it would be such as would dwarf the Pyramids." The speaker generally credited the inspiration for his own detective stories to Poe.

Ambassador Reid was the principal speaker. He said the lateness of the celebration was quite in keeping with Poe's career. "Everything came to him too late, in life as in death, and especially in his own country," said the ambassador. "Even when good fortune seemed ready to press itself upon him more than once during his life, his temperamental waywardness, heedlessness and irresponsibility kept him from appreciating the opportunity until it was too late.

"Now, long after his unhappy death and long after the English and French literary tribunals have accepted him as one of the immortals, his countrymen yet wait even beyond the century to place him with their literary figures, some surely far smaller, in the hall of fame. Yet with all abatement, Poe's place is surely in the front rank if not at the head of the world's short story writers."

Among the patrons of the celebration, besides Ambassador Reid, were J. Ridgeley Carter, secretary of the U. S. embassy; Rear-Admiral Stockton, U. S. N.; Prof. George Grafton Wilson, of Brown University, who was a delegate to the recent international naval conference, the Duchess of Marlborough, the Marchioness of of Dufferin, Cora, Countness of Strafford; Mrs. Cornwallis-West, Lord Fairfax, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, and Justin McCarthy.

MARCONIGRAMS ON BOARD TRAIN

Wireless stations have been erected at Cleveland, Toledo and Chicago, efforts will be made to keep wireless communication throughout the journey.

Instead of a tower, two wires are stretched along the tops of the baggage cars at a height of 18 inches by which arrangements it is expected that a message can be sent about 30 miles.

GIVES LIFE TO INDIANS

ST. JOHN, March 3—Rev. A. Lecorre, O. M. I. who for 39 years has been doing missionary work among the Esquimaux and Indians of northern Canada, returned to civilization about three weeks ago, and will remain in the east until he is able to collect sufficient funds to establish a Catholic seminary in the heart of the northern Canadian forests. Although 57 years old, he is still a strong, robust man, despite his two score years' battle with the northern wilds.

...The Rev. Dr. McPhail of Mount Stewart will exchange pulpits with Rev. Mr. Sinclair of Montague next Sabbath, March 7th.

RADIUM SURPASSED BY THO-RAD-X

CHICAGO, March 3—Tho-rad-X held a reception today in the office of Drs. E. Stillman Bailey and F. H. Blackmar. Tho-rad-X is a saffron kind of rock which is destined to attract the attention of physicians in all parts of the civilized world.

It isn't much to look at, this coaed yellow substance, seemingly half rock and half sand, but through it the medical world may be revolutionised for, by its use, combined with other chemicals, Dr. Bailey and Dr. Blackmar have perfected a substitute for radium that is fully as effective, far more adapted to practical purposes and costs so little that it will be within the reach of every man.

Dr. Bailey is still in the South, where he made his discovery known. Physicians crowded the offices all day.

It is called Tho-rad-X by Dr. Bailey and his colleague, and although Dr. Blackmar declined to tell what it is made of, he admitted that pitchblende and the yellow substance which is now on exhibition at his office played an important part in the manufacture. The yellowish rock, which has made the manufacture of Tho-rad-X possible is said by Dr. Blackmar to be mined.

"We are just beginning," remarked the physician. "A little later we may have something to tell thae will cause surprise, but just now we prefer to wait.

"This yellow rock, of which there is a large abundance, makes the manufacture of the new substance Tho-rad-X on the market at a reasonable figure.

"Tests have shown it to be the equal of radium in all respects, and it is absolutely safe. Its action may not be as rapid as radium, but it is just as sure and does not burn."

A marked feature of the new discovery is that pads filled with Thorad-X are to be manufactured, and may be worn by persons suffering from cancer, locomotor ataxia, rheumatism and neurotic troubles. So intense is the action of the Tho-rad-X rays that a preparation may be applied over a heavy bandage and yet the patient will feel its full strength.

THREE TAFT GIRLS TO SHINE AT THE CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, March 3—During the next four years three young women of the Taft family will take prominent parts in the social life at Washington, and especially in all the functions at the White House. They are cousins—Miss Helen Taft, daughter of President-elect Wm. H. Taft, Miss Louise Taft, daughter of Chas. P. Taft, of Cincinnati, and Miss Louise Taft, daughter of Henry W. Taft, of New York.

Miss Helen Taft will be the most important figure in the trio, because of the position her father will occupy and she will become known as the White House belle. During the school year Washington will see very little of her, for she will continue her studies at Bryn Mawr, near Philadelphia.

She is a modest girl with attractive features and an unusual fund of sound common sense.

Her cousin Louise, daughter of Chas. P. Laft, is a pretty young woman. She is rather slender, possesses an olive complexion, has masse of black hair and her eyes are dark. This young woman has a most graceful carriage and a sprighty temperamene. She is already known to Washington, having spent considerable time in the capital.

Miss Louise Taft, daughter of Henry W. Taft, has only recently returned from Europe, where she spent a year travelling. Her taste in matters of dress is said to be excellent.

All three of the Taft cousins will participate in the inaugural ball.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BENEVOLENT IRISH SOCIETY

The Benevolent Irish Society, one of the oldest in this province, established in 1825, held its 84th annual meeting in the League of the Cross Hall Wednesday evening. Quite a large number of members was present. The President, Peter McCourt, occupied the chair. The different reports were submitted and unanimously adopted. The results show that the Society has made rapid strides along the lines of advancement during the past year. The membership roll was greatly increased, and notwithstanding the large amounts expended from time to time for worthy purposes, there still remains a good surplus on hand, leaving the Grand Old Society in a good financial condition. The following are the officers elected for the ensuing year:—

President—Peter McCourt, re-elected.

1st Vice President—Thomas E. Flynn.

MAURETANIA LIKELY TO MAKE NEW TRIP

NEW YORK, March 2—From cable advices received here tonight from Fastnet, giving the positions of the turbine Cunarder Mauretania at 7 o'clock tonight as 358 miles west of Queenstown, it is apparent that unless some accident causes the slackening of that vessel's average speed, she will establish a new record for the eastward voyage between this port and Queenstown. Up to Saturday at noon the Mauretania had covered 1,249 knots at an average of 25.21 knots per hour. If this average is maintained, she should reach Queenstown at about 8.30 a. m. Tuesday, an hour and a half ahead of her best time for the trip, completing the crossing in four days and nineteen hours.
