

WORTH'S LIVERY STABLES, PRINCE STREET, Charlottetown, P. E. I. First class single and double teams. Fine turnouts for weddings, and private parties. PHONE 52. H. J. WORTH, PROPRIETOR.

BOOK DEBTS FOR SALE. Written tenders for the purchase of the book debts of the late Dr. Robert Shaw, will be received up to the 7th July next, at the office of Messrs. McLeod & Bentley, Solicitors, Bank of Nova Scotia Building, Charlottetown, where a list of the book debts may be inspected by intending tenderers on application. The subscriber will not be bound to accept the highest or any tender. Dated 24th June, 1904. CARRIE M. SHAW, Administratrix of the Estate of the late Robert Bruce Shaw.

Pedlars Perfect Metal Lath. CHEAP AS WOOD. Pedlar People, Oshawa, Ont., or 767 Craig St., Montreal, P. Q. $16 mo wed fri 3 mo.

If you are not satisfied with your present position in life and are reliable write us and we will start you, local or travelling, tacking up show-cards and generally advertising our goods at $3.00 a year and expenses $2.50 a day. For particulars write. Drawer 558, London, Ont

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY. Until further notice, trains will run as follows: LEAVE ARRIVE. Truro 7.00 a. m. Windsor 9.05 a. m. Windsor 2.45 p. m. Truro 5.00 p. m. Windsor 7.40 a. m. Truro 9.55 a. m. Windsor 9.50 a. m. Truro 1.50 p. m. Windsor 5.15 p. m. Truro 7.25 p. m. Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday only. H. V. HARRIS, GENERAL MANAGER. 6 17 dw 137

MOLASSES KISSES. Chocolate Kisses and Coconut Kisses at W. A. HUTCHESONS.

MENEELY BELL COMPANY. 224 & 226 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Manufacture superior CHURCH ORGANS, SCHOOLS & G.

CIRCUS PEOPLE LIVE WELL.

They Are Provided With the Best of Everything. "How do circus men and women live while on the road?" said a circus man. "Why, they live better than ever before. We carry almost a thousand people, and I doubt if you can find one of that number who is discontented with his or her lot. Several years ago it was customary with the majority of circuses to provide inferior cars for their business staff and performers and compel the laborers to sleep under the big red wagons on the flat car. The passage of time has changed the order of things. Circus folk now travel as well as if not better than the majority of men and women who are continually moving from one portion of the United States to the other in search of pleasure. "Our business staff and performers live in spacious Pullman cars. The beds are soft and roomy, and the bedding is always fresh and clean. The circus has twelve Pullmans of this kind, and on each one is a porter whose duty it is to polish the shoes of all the occupants each night, look after the laundry and make the beds and sweep and dust the cars. These cars are vestibuled, and at the head of the train is an extra long dining car, where the majority of the people are fed. This diner is looked after by a competent steward, with a staff of good cooks and waiters, and breakfast and dinner are served there each day. The performers take their luncheon on the circus grounds immediately after parade. "The laborers, including the drivers, canvas men, hostlers, property handlers and animal men, are served with three meals on the grounds. The food provided is of the best, and there is always plenty of it. Every laborer has a bed. The drivers and hostlers have swinging bunks in the cars directly above their horses, the animal men are accommodated in cozy little staterooms fitted up in the big elephant cars, while the property handlers and canvas men sleep in coaches that greatly resemble tourist cars. Every one has good quarters and splendid food, and in consequence it is seldom that a complaint is heard."—Kansas City Journal.

The Only Thing They Ever Did. John Bright's powers of sarcasm were almost unrivaled. Some of his sharpest utterances have been against members of the nobility. When boasts had been made of the antiquity of a prominent family, that their ancestors came over with the Conqueror, his reply was prompt, "I never heard that they did anything else."

Wanted Every Detail. Pauline, aged six, was listening to the story of the marriage at Cana and the miracle of the water and the wine. After her mother had finished her recital the little girl inquired: "Mother, what did you say was the name of the gentleman what gave the party?"

Name Famous in Denmark. The Copenhagen correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt sent his paper an interesting article on the "name famine" in Denmark. In no nation, he says, is the choice of the family name so limited. It very often happens that four persons unknown to each other sit down to a game of whist and later present themselves respectively as Hanssen. He proves this statement by quoting Dr. Krak, the compiler and publisher of the Copenhagen Wegweiser, the largest Danish street directory. According to Dr. Krak, out of a population of 500,000 in the Danish capital 42 per cent end their names with "sen." Some 50,000 are named Hanssen, which is used by the largest number of persons.

Obituary of Napoleon. When the great Napoleon died there were doubtless among the readers of the London Globe many persons who would have liked to read a full account of his life, but, if so, they were disappointed, for the Globe in its issue of July 4, 1821, contained only the following brief notice: "Death of Bonaparte. We announce the death of Bonaparte. The official announcement was received this morning at the admiralty. His death took place on June 5. His health had been declining for a long time, and the cause of death was a cancer in the stomach. He was born in 1769. The cost of his maintenance at St. Helena was each year between £200,000 and £300,000."

Lamb's Taste in Books. In this catalogue of books which are no books—biblia-abiblia—I reckon court calendars, directories, pocketbooks (the literary excepted), draught boards bound and lettered on the back, scientific treatises, almanacs, statutes at large, the works of Hume, Gibbon, Robertson, Beattie, Soame Jenyns and generally all those volumes "which no gentleman's library should be without," the histories of Flavius Josephus (that learned Jew) and Paley's "Moral Philosophy." With these exceptions I can read almost anything. I bless my stars for a taste so catholic, so unexciting.

Drinking. "Drink to me only with thine eyes," he sang beneath her casement. "I wonder if I need my glasses?" pondered the maiden as she attired herself to go down.

The Intelligent Male. "The sense of dumb creatures is wonderful," said the old man. "Why, what's happened now?" "John got home from college yesterday, and the old mule knoved him time he went to swearin'."—Atlanta Constitution.

A Duke's Cat Idea. The Duke of Bedford has caused a good deal of amusement to the inhabitants of Woburn by his latest investment, a sort of miniature, armored train, consisting of a truck, painted brown like the Duke's livery, and drawn by a small steam-motor. Both the motor and the truck are protected by high sides, so that the Duke can go safely into the enclosure where he keeps the wilder animals of his wonderful Zoo at Woburn. Some of these beasts are inclined to be restive at times, and the Duke had a narrow escape of being damaged by a large specimen of deer which turned ferocious one day while the Duke and a somewhat stout friend were in the enclosure, inspecting various new-comers. The enclosure are fenced round with very high palings, and the Duke, who is active and slim, was soon on the outside, but his friend had more difficulty, and only escaped by a very narrow squeak. Hence the new importation. And now the Duke and his friends can steam round the park in safety.—From M. A. P.

MEN GROWING TALLER.

Our Ancestors of Medieval Times Fought Compared With Us—Average Height in Many Places. A walk through the Tower of London will convince any person that the armor-clad knights of medieval days were puny men compared with the athletes of to-day. The experiment of getting into suits of old armor in country houses has often proved that the "legs" are far too short for the average man of the present generation. A well known anthropologist at the British Museum says that undoubtedly the British race is taller than it was several hundred years ago. "I think, however, that the medieval man was deeper-chested and broader in the shoulders," he said. "The old armor, if a man of good average height could squeeze into it to-day, would be found loose-fitting in the shoulders and at the chest. "The tallest men in the world came from Galloway and Perthshire, and Yorkshire's average is a fine one. Even that of Southwest England and South Wales—5 feet 6 inches—is far higher than that of many of the Continental nations. "The tallest men after the men of Galloway, who have an average of nearly six feet, are the Fulahs of the French Sudan, and the Patagonians are believed to hold a very good average. "In London the average is as low as in South Wales, and the little man frequently asks why he should have to pay the same price for a suit of clothes as a country-bred giant! "This question was answered by a West End tailor. "What we make by the little man we lose on the big man," he said; "for we pay our men extra when they are working on a giant's suit. "We have been compelled on one or two occasions, however, to charge more when a man is exceptionally tall or stout. One of our customers, who is over six feet high, and is forty-four inches round the waist, takes five and a half double width for a lounge suit. We ask another guinea, and he pays it readily."—London Express.

A Curious Custom. A contemporary, says The Daily Graphic, states that a curious custom, dating from the beginning of the last century, is observed at the St. John's Vestry at Exeter. In the year 1810 a snuff box was presented to the parishioners by the then rector, the Rev. J. Hill, who expressed a wish that the box should be handed round at the annual vestry meeting. Consequently, on the opening of the meeting the box is, in accordance with the usual custom, handed around among those present.

Retravelling Assaults. New Zealand is bothered by the latter hat question. Miss McDermott tried to settle it recently in a practical manner. She was seated in a theater of the town of Oamaru, and in front of her was Mrs. Brady, wearing voluminous headgear. As Mrs. Brady refused to remove the obstructive hat, Miss McDermott borrowed a gentleman's walking stick and tilted it out of her line of vision. But Mrs. Brady was not prepared to wear her hat at a rakish angle all the evening, and so she put it straight again. Every time she did so Miss McDermott repeated the performance with the walking stick. The magistrates decided that Miss McDermott had committed "a series of minor but aggravating assaults" and fined her £2.50, plus £14 costs. The money was promptly subscribed by the citizens as a protest against large hats in theaters.

Mastication. The primary object of mastication is to break up the food so as to facilitate the swallowing of it and, still more important, to insure its intimate admixture with the digestive juices, not only through the mouth, but throughout the entire digestive tract. Mastication has, however, other important and far reaching effects. Thus it promotes the flow of saliva and, when properly performed, secures a due insalivation of the food; it increases the quantity of alkaline saliva passing into the stomach; it stimulates the heart and circulation; and it finally influences the nutrition of the jaws and their appendages by stipulating the local blood and lymph circulation.

A Literary Sensation. Quite a "literary sensation" has been caused in England by the publication, privately, and in a limited edition, of some letters to the daughters of Mr. Gladstone, written between 1878 and 1887, by John Ruskin. According to The London Academy an article by Ruskin in a Review led to an invitation to visit Hawarden, which Ruskin was more than half inclined not to accept. But a warm personal attachment thereafter existed between the two great men, though Ruskin did not hesitate to criticize Gladstone's policy when ever he saw fit. These letters, which are prefaced by an introduction by George Wyndham, the Secretary of State for Ireland, are said to possess all the charming frankness which characterize their writer's public utterances. They touch lightly on many topics, personal, literary, and political. Here is one characteristic excerpt: "The death of Carlyle is no sorrow to me. It is, I believe, not an end, but a beginning to his real life. Nay, perhaps, also of mine. My remorse, every day he lived, for having not enough loved him in the days gone by, is not greater now, but less, in the hope that he knows what I am feeling about him at this—and all other—moments."

Small Farms in Norway. Norwegian farmers are wise, and are eager to possess farms at the earliest opportunity, instead of working for other people. There are about 120,000 farmers in Norway, and 109,000 of them own farms.

Picturesque Dutch Boats. Along the quay in the busy harbor of Rotterdam the quaint Dutch boats are crowded, creaking rhythmically with the rise and fall of the water, side by side, stern to rudder post, jostling one another in a great confusion of picturesque lines and gay carvings. At all the little cabin windows are clean lace curtains, and on the deck brass and copper pots are drying in the sun. Hanging from spars and ropes the family wash flutters its many hues against the windy sky. Chubby, red cheeked children climb in and out of the cabin doors or press their round noses against the tiny window panes. The women gossip in the sun or clatter around in pursuit of their household duties, while the men lounge about, their hands in the pockets of their baggy breeches, and through clouds of tobacco smoke survey this scene of domestic housekeeping with phlegmatic content.—Edward Penfield in Scribner's.

Mrs. Farrell in Distress. Mrs. Charles Stewart Farrell has appeared in the London Bankruptcy Court with evidence that she is not only penniless, but in practical destitution. The family to which she belongs are well-to-do, and Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, who is her brother, is more than that. If she had not deserted her husband, been divorced, and then married Mr. Farrell, she might have retained a good place, but it is rather absurd to blame the Irish Nationalists, as is done, since it was "Kitty's" charms that through his infatuation brought about the ruin of Farrell when he was in the heights of his power as the Irish leader.

Twenty Odd Fishes. The Fishmongers' Livery Company of London owns a remarkable painting by Spiridion Roma, which contains portraits of twenty wholesome sea and river fishes, most of which are almost unknown by the general public—viz., weaver, dabs, green gribbles, or humpers, colehals, willis, smerdabs, juff, carp, homelings, lumps, allis, coney fish, bass, popes, Argaws, pouting, grigs, shad and bleaks.

LANCANG, July 2.—During a recent typhoon in the sea of Japan, 27 barges belonging to the Nippon Yusen Kaisha of Tokio, lost 300,000 pounds of flour intended for the Japanese armies.

RAN INTO OPEN SWITCH. ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 2.—A special to the Globe-Democrat from Litchfield, Illinois says that the Chicago Limited on the Wabash ran into an open switch and was derailed there this afternoon and that 18 to 20 persons were killed and from 30 to 40 were injured. The train is reported burned.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY. The uniform success of this remedy has made it the most popular preparation in use for bowel complaints. It is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by all druggists.

FARMER HANGED HIMSELF. MONTREAL, July 2.—A farmer named Joseph LaFortune, 72 years of age, living with his nephew at St. Paul De Jollette, put an end to his life this morning by hanging. LaFortune had gone to milk cows and when the nephew went to call his uncle to breakfast he found him hanging to a beam quite dead.

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED. [From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.] In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one, fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by all druggists.

The Countess of Warwick. The Countess of Warwick, who recently gave birth to a daughter at Warwick House, London, is one of the best-known figures in society. Her ladyship is distinguished for her practical philanthropy, which has taken forms that, though novel, have been abundantly justified by results. Her hotel at Reading for the training of the daughters of professional men in horticulture, dairy, bee and poultry keeping, has been a conspicuous success. At the Earl's Essex estate the Countess established a science and technical school for boys and girls, whilst she presides over the mediocret school and institutions of various educational kinds. At Warwick she established a home for 18 crippled children, admitted free for an unlimited length of time, whilst both at Warwick Castle and at Easton Lodge she has a complete organization for the welfare of the poor and the nursing of the sick. She is an expert horsewoman; she hunts with both the Warwickshire and the Essex hounds; she is an omnivorous reader; and she makes an effort, notwithstanding the time she devotes to outdoor pursuits, to read every new book of importance. Lady Warwick has contributed largely to periodical literature, but as a writer her name will go down to posterity as the author of "Warwick Castle and its Earls," a book well conceived, admirably written and of some historical value. At the beginning of the year her daughter, Lady Marjorie Greville, married Viscount Helmsley, grandson and heir of the Earl of Faversham.

English Ignorance of Indians. An Indian who has just returned from England expresses surprise at the ignorance he found there. He went to London to take part in a wild western melodrama. He ran across a newspaper man in Philadelphia, and the latter says it was amusing to hear him describe the ignorance regarding his race that exists abroad. "An Englishman," he said, "thinks that a red man can run from 200 to 225 miles a day without effort. He thinks an Apache can overtake a deer. In fact, I read in London a short story describing how in a fifteen mile run an Apache caught a deer, choked it to death and ate its heart raw. The English believe that an Indian is so generous he would give away the clothes on his back. I was accosted by hosts of beggars in London, and they couldn't understand why I didn't hand out a half crown to each of them. They also think an Indian will endure the severest pain without flinching, out of pride. A young English girl stuck a pin in my leg at a restaurant one night and was surprised when I said 'Ouch' and swore."

Mrs. Charles Stewart Farrell has appeared in the London Bankruptcy Court with evidence that she is not only penniless, but in practical destitution. The family to which she belongs are well-to-do, and Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, who is her brother, is more than that. If she had not deserted her husband, been divorced, and then married Mr. Farrell, she might have retained a good place, but it is rather absurd to blame the Irish Nationalists, as is done, since it was "Kitty's" charms that through his infatuation brought about the ruin of Farrell when he was in the heights of his power as the Irish leader.

Instant Relief. Mr. Robt. Jennings, Mensfield, Ont writes: "I have used one bottle of Dr. Low's 'Cochinche Gum for severe toothache and received instant relief. Besto's toothache is acted as a splendid temporary filling price 10c."

Earache Cured. Miss J. J. Johnson, Innisfail, Alta., says I was troubled with Earache for a long time, and nothing helped me until I used Hayward's Yellow Oil, which cured me completely.

Mrs. Farrell in Distress. Mrs. Charles Stewart Farrell has appeared in the London Bankruptcy Court with evidence that she is not only penniless, but in practical destitution. The family to which she belongs are well-to-do, and Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, who is her brother, is more than that. If she had not deserted her husband, been divorced, and then married Mr. Farrell, she might have retained a good place, but it is rather absurd to blame the Irish Nationalists, as is done, since it was "Kitty's" charms that through his infatuation brought about the ruin of Farrell when he was in the heights of his power as the Irish leader.

Does Children Good. Mrs. Joseph Langtry, Brookville, Ont writes: "I have used Dr. Low's Worm Syrup in my family, and it has always been effective, and has done the children good. I can highly recommend it."

LANCANG, July 2.—During a recent typhoon in the sea of Japan, 27 barges belonging to the Nippon Yusen Kaisha of Tokio, lost 300,000 pounds of flour intended for the Japanese armies.

RAN INTO OPEN SWITCH. ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 2.—A special to the Globe-Democrat from Litchfield, Illinois says that the Chicago Limited on the Wabash ran into an open switch and was derailed there this afternoon and that 18 to 20 persons were killed and from 30 to 40 were injured. The train is reported burned.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY. The uniform success of this remedy has made it the most popular preparation in use for bowel complaints. It is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by all druggists.

FARMER HANGED HIMSELF. MONTREAL, July 2.—A farmer named Joseph LaFortune, 72 years of age, living with his nephew at St. Paul De Jollette, put an end to his life this morning by hanging. LaFortune had gone to milk cows and when the nephew went to call his uncle to breakfast he found him hanging to a beam quite dead.

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED. [From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.] In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one, fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by all druggists.

The Countess of Warwick. The Countess of Warwick, who recently gave birth to a daughter at Warwick House, London, is one of the best-known figures in society. Her ladyship is distinguished for her practical philanthropy, which has taken forms that, though novel, have been abundantly justified by results. Her hotel at Reading for the training of the daughters of professional men in horticulture, dairy, bee and poultry keeping, has been a conspicuous success. At the Earl's Essex estate the Countess established a science and technical school for boys and girls, whilst she presides over the mediocret school and institutions of various educational kinds. At Warwick she established a home for 18 crippled children, admitted free for an unlimited length of time, whilst both at Warwick Castle and at Easton Lodge she has a complete organization for the welfare of the poor and the nursing of the sick. She is an expert horsewoman; she hunts with both the Warwickshire and the Essex hounds; she is an omnivorous reader; and she makes an effort, notwithstanding the time she devotes to outdoor pursuits, to read every new book of importance. Lady Warwick has contributed largely to periodical literature, but as a writer her name will go down to posterity as the author of "Warwick Castle and its Earls," a book well conceived, admirably written and of some historical value. At the beginning of the year her daughter, Lady Marjorie Greville, married Viscount Helmsley, grandson and heir of the Earl of Faversham.

English Ignorance of Indians. An Indian who has just returned from England expresses surprise at the ignorance he found there. He went to London to take part in a wild western melodrama. He ran across a newspaper man in Philadelphia, and the latter says it was amusing to hear him describe the ignorance regarding his race that exists abroad. "An Englishman," he said, "thinks that a red man can run from 200 to 225 miles a day without effort. He thinks an Apache can overtake a deer. In fact, I read in London a short story describing how in a fifteen mile run an Apache caught a deer, choked it to death and ate its heart raw. The English believe that an Indian is so generous he would give away the clothes on his back. I was accosted by hosts of beggars in London, and they couldn't understand why I didn't hand out a half crown to each of them. They also think an Indian will endure the severest pain without flinching, out of pride. A young English girl stuck a pin in my leg at a restaurant one night and was surprised when I said 'Ouch' and swore."

Mrs. Farrell in Distress. Mrs. Charles Stewart Farrell has appeared in the London Bankruptcy Court with evidence that she is not only penniless, but in practical destitution. The family to which she belongs are well-to-do, and Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, who is her brother, is more than that. If she had not deserted her husband, been divorced, and then married Mr. Farrell, she might have retained a good place, but it is rather absurd to blame the Irish Nationalists, as is done, since it was "Kitty's" charms that through his infatuation brought about the ruin of Farrell when he was in the heights of his power as the Irish leader.

Instant Relief. Mr. Robt. Jennings, Mensfield, Ont writes: "I have used one bottle of Dr. Low's 'Cochinche Gum for severe toothache and received instant relief. Besto's toothache is acted as a splendid temporary filling price 10c."

Earache Cured. Miss J. J. Johnson, Innisfail, Alta., says I was troubled with Earache for a long time, and nothing helped me until I used Hayward's Yellow Oil, which cured me completely.

Mrs. Farrell in Distress. Mrs. Charles Stewart Farrell has appeared in the London Bankruptcy Court with evidence that she is not only penniless, but in practical destitution. The family to which she belongs are well-to-do, and Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, who is her brother, is more than that. If she had not deserted her husband, been divorced, and then married Mr. Farrell, she might have retained a good place, but it is rather absurd to blame the Irish Nationalists, as is done, since it was "Kitty's" charms that through his infatuation brought about the ruin of Farrell when he was in the heights of his power as the Irish leader.

Does Children Good. Mrs. Joseph Langtry, Brookville, Ont writes: "I have used Dr. Low's Worm Syrup in my family, and it has always been effective, and has done the children good. I can highly recommend it."

Black Diamond Line

The S. S. Cacouna sailing from Montreal, Friday morning, July 8th, will be due at Charlottetown, Monday morning, July 11th, and sails for St. John's, Nfld., via Sydney C. B. carrying horses, cattle and sheep on deck and produce under deck at lowest possible rates. For further particulars apply to PEAKE BROS. & CO. Agents. Ch'own, July 6, d31

ELLIS

Offers You Your Money Back in Every Case

if goods he recommends are not exactly as represented. A pretty safe place to deal at. What think you?

ELLIS, THE DRUGGIST,

I buy the best Footwear gold will purchase and sell at the lowest prices in the city. Call and see. CONROY, THE SHOEMAN, Sunnyside, Ch'town. 5-2 a w f 114

WANTED!

The man who always drops his chapless watch to call at our establishment. A chain on a watch is economy. We are making a specialty of chains of various styles and prices. Call and select.

L. W. COOK, Jeweler,

Cor. Gt. George and Grafton.

A By-Law for allowing a rate of discount on the Assessments on Real Estate and Personal Property in the City of Charlottetown for general Civic purposes for the Current Year ending the thirty-first day of December, A. D., 1904.

Be it enacted by the City Council of the City of Charlottetown as follows: 1st, a discount at the rate of 2 1/2% shall be allowed all taxpayers who shall pay on or before the 25th day of July next, A. D., 1904, pay to the City Clerk, at his office the taxes severally due by them for the current year on real estate and personal property for Civic purposes. FRED. F. KELLY, Mayor. W. W. CLARKE, City Clerk. June 8, 1904.

TO RENT. A neat and comfortable cottage with a lawn, attached, furnished, for the summer months at Victoria, Crapan, piano included. Apply to R. H. Rowell, merchant, Victoria, and has done the children good. I can highly recommend it.