CHARLOTTETOWN AND QUEEN'S COUNTY

It pays to buy in this Province.

Mrs. H. R. Ramsay, city, left yesterday morning for Ottawa.

Mrs. R. C. Nash of New Glasgow, N. S., is spending the holidays in this city.

L. E. Prowse, city, left yesterday morning on a visit to his daughter in Ottawa.

Miss Angelina Callaghan, teacher, Morell Rear, is in the city the guest of Charles and Mrs. Doyle.

Miss Francis Steele, student at Mount Allison, and well known here, is spending Xmas at her home in Shediac.

Among the shipments by express on the western train yesterday afternoon were two young foxes consigned to Archibald Matthews, O'Leary.

The city market was very poorly attended yesterday and prices remained unchanged as will be seen in the itemized list elsewhere.

Mr. Fash, manager of the Royal Bank, recently opened at Tignish, and who spent Christmas in this city the guest of his brother, Rev. Z. L. Fash, has returned.

Parents should see that their children get interested in the word contest now on at the People's Theatre, its not so very hard, and the prizes are well worth getting.

Many friends will regret to learn that Jack Fleisher, one of the boys of the H. M. C. S. Niobe, who are spending the holidays in this city, is ill of scarlet fever.

Harry Smith, city, who arrived home a few days ago from McGill College, left yesterday morning to join the McGill Hockey team on a trip to Boston and New York, where two games will be played at the former city and one game in New York. The McGill boys are making the trip in response to invitations sent out by both cities. Some twelve or fourteen men will be taken on the trip and it is expected that they will be able to put up a very creditable showing. Smith will play on the wings.

The Guardian regrets to announce the death of Mrs. James Mills, which occurred at her home at Little River, on the 1st of November. The deceased lady was Elizabeth Jenkins, daughter of the late Henry Jenkins, of Mt. Albion, in this Province, and the wife of Deacon James Mills. She was 58 years old and had, for a number of years, been in poor health. Besides her husband, two sons (Joseph in Scotia Humbolt County, California and William at home) and one daughter (Mrs. H. W. Burke of Bay Fortune), are left to mourn. The deceased lady was an active member of the Annandale Baptist Church of which her husband is a deacon and in all church work she took a deep and active interest. She was naturally gentle and patient and years of pain and suffering made those beautiful traits of her character still more perceptible. She was buried in the old Annandale Cemetery beside her daughter, Hannah, who predeceased her some years. The funeral, which was largely attended, was in charge of her pastor, Rev. A. H. Wood. Four brothers, William at Cherry Valley, George at Mount Herbert, Boswell and Robert at Mount Albion, and three sisters, Abigail, wife of Herbert Carver, Mount Albion, Emma, wife of Henry Smallwood, Mount Herbert, and Mary, wife of the late William Dingwell of Little Pond, survive her. The December number of the University Magazine contains many articles of absorbing and timely interest. What Shall We Do About the Navy, is discussed by Prof. Stephen Leacock, who lays down the policy that when Britain is at war Canada is at war; that the supreme command and control of all the naval forces of the Empire lies with the Admiralty; as soon as, and as far as it is possible, ships will be built in Canada; meanwhile at any time now or later for greater efficiency of sea power, an emergency vote may be made to the Admiralty for any purpose which they think necessary. The American attitude toward the Canadian rejection of reciprocity is discussed upon by Edward Stanwood. The attitude as he sees it is in no wise resentful. Dr. Andrew Macphail in an illuminating article on the September election tells why the Liberals Failed. It is good reading for men of both parties. Other articles in the order named are, A Tragedy of the Census by J.E.B. McCready; The Sacrifice (poetry), by Alfred Gordon; Will the Doughboy Survive? by John A. Cormie; Juvenile Delinquents, by W. Trant; Blue Rooms, by Marjory McMurphy; A Traveller's Notes in Greece, by Maurice Hutton; The First Snow (poetry), by B. A. Macnab, and four or five literary articles of superior merit by other writers of note.

All large Canadian Cities have had the pleasure of seeing the "Deedrick Skule" presented. Charlottetown will have this privilege, Friday, Jan. 5. Capt. John L. Read, C. G. S. Earl Grey city, returned yesterday afternoon on the Northumberland after spending Christmas at his home in Pictou.

Prof. Alexander McPhail of Queens University, Ontario, he was in the city yesterday and will be on hand for nomination today. It is understood that he will not be opposed by any Liberal candidate.

A Prince Edward Island Indian, Mitchell by name, was in town on Friday with about 20 pearls, taken from Island oysters which he was offering for sale at $5 and $10. He did not dispose of many here and went to Halifax to sell the remainder. Some of the pearls were of good size and very pretty.—Pictou Advocate.

The Fredericton, N. B., Herald says:—"It is understood that Willard Kitchen, the prominent contractor and capitalist of this city, will remove to the Canadian west early in the new year with the intention of locating there if conditions are favorable. The news of Mr. Kitchen's removal will be received with regret by all residents of Fredericton, as he has always been closely connected with the public institutions of the city and has always been a public spirited citizen. Mr. Kitchen has been a member of the Fredericton Board of School Trustees for some years, and has also been prominent on the board of trustees of Victoria Public Hospital. He has also been a prominent member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church." (Mr. Kitchen was the contractor for the Belfast and Murray Harbor and Montague Railways.)

Among the passengers to the city on the Northumberland last evening was Daniel Skinner, Georgetown, who had accompanied the remains of the late Mrs. (Capt.) Dicks, of St. Peter's Canal, C. B., to Pictou where they were met by the husband of the deceased, James Skinner, Georgetown, who crossed with his brother, went to St. Peter's with the deceased husband, who met the remains in Pictou. An impressive funeral service was conducted at Georgetown by Rev. Mr. Toombs, after which a large number of citizens followed the remains to the station. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. John Smith, T. E. Morrissey, J. D. Stewart, E. Doyle, R. R. McLean and A. E. Jenkins. The remains were accompanied by Daniel Skinner and will be met by Capt. Dicks at Pictou. Seldom does death occur under such sad circumstances as in the case of the late Mrs. Dicks. She was just in her 23rd year, the only daughter of a widowed mother, and had been married only about three weeks. Apparently she had been in the bloom of health, even on the night previous to her death when her husband left home to set sail for Glace Bay. The deceased was a woman of splendid character and disposition and during her short stay of two weeks in her new home had endeared herself to those who knew her. To the bereaved mother, husband and three brothers, the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community is extended. Mrs. Dicks died on Friday morning last and not on Tuesday as intimated in yesterday's issue.
