GEERS, THE GRAND OLD MAN OF THE HARNESS CIRCUIT.

(By Ed. Baker.)
If a vote were taken among the harness horse enthusiasts of the United States and Canada to determine the most popular driver, there is no question about the name that would receive the greatest number of votes.

Edward F. Geers, of Memphis, Tenn., is the reinsman that is held in such high regard by horsemen in general, and while there are other drivers, probably just as competent to team a close finish, and just as honest, not one can be named that is so established in the affections of racegoers as "Pop," the name that his friends familiarly call him.

There are other drivers on the big tracks that are even older than Ed. Geers, but the latter is termed the "grand old man," of the harness horse turf.

During the season just closed Geers' success has been most pronounced, regardless of the fact that he received two serious injuries, one a compound fracture of the leg, just before the racing season began, and the second one at Kalamazoo, Mich., during the meeting at that point early in the season. He was still on crutches at Kalamazoo when a trotting mare he was working "out up dido," the result which put the popular reinsman out of commission for several weeks. Fortunately for Geers, his principal patron, Frank C. Jones, the millionaire, Memphis street railway magnate, is an amateur reinsman of exceptional ability, and took his place in the sulky, driving to victory several of the horses from Geers' stable.

The largest money winner in Geers' stable during the season of 1910 is the black trotting mare Dudie Archdale, that took a record of 2.05 1/2 at Lexington. This mare is owned by Mr. Jones who bought her early in the season for the purpose of winning the $10,000 Merchants and Manufacturers' stake at Detroit. She not only did this, but also won several other stakes of the same value and many minor events, winding up the season with the magnificent sum of $29,734 to her credit.

The record of the undefeated pacing stallion, The Abbe, 2.04, during the season is ample evidence of the ability of Geers to prepare and race a horse of uncertain underpinning. The Abbe had taken a 3-year-old trotting record of 2.10 1-2, but was laid up for two years before he was given to Geers last fall, and it is no secret that the horse was lame when he was asked to step along at top speed on the pace. However, this did not deter Geers from working him, and it is now history how The Abbe went through the season without meeting defeat. He won the principal early closing events for slow class pacers and he beat the best steeds of the year. His new record 2.04 of course, is nothing to blow about in the present day of flyers, but The Abbe negotiated the final quarter in one of his races in 28 seconds, or at the rate of a mile in 1.52, from which it would appear that he has as much speed on tap as any horse that ever looked through a bridle.

It is generally regarded that any horse which can go through the Geers, course of training is fit for a strenuous campaign, but he is as it may, the veteran's success would justify his means of training.
