

Robinson To Take On 21-Year-old In Third Defence Of Title

By Jerry Liska
CHICAGO, June 14 (CP)—Lean, taut Bernard Docusen of New Orleans will try to put youth back in the boxing championship picture Thursday night when he meets champion Sugar Ray Robinson for the welterweight title at Comiskey Park.

The 21-year-old Docusen, who popped out of nowhere into welter contention, is really a fistic bafe-in-the-woods in this day of mature, if not aged fighters.

Joe Louis, Tony Zale, Jersey Joe Walcott and Gus Lesnevich, are marching down the glory road and they'll never see 30 again. Robinson, at 27, is six years older than Docusen.

Docusen (pronounced "Dooku-zen") isn't apologizing for his tender years. He's been boxing since he was 16, when he won the National A.A.U. bantam title, and he's the father of two children.

Docusen's record of 48 wins in 50 professional fights is packed with triumphs over a lot of guys named Joe. But he's never been knocked down.

His victims include Lulu Costantino, Phil Terranova, Jorge Morelia, Norman Rubio, and Joey Barnum.

There's hardly any comparison between the knock-out-studded record of Robinson, beaten only once in 88 fights, and Docusen's skein of decisions interrupted by only 11 knockouts.

But the National Boxing Association rates Docusen the top welterweight behind Robinson.

FOR A MILE TRACK

Sir—For the past twenty five years or more the racing public enjoyed well managed and conducted harness racing meets on Prince Edward Island. In Charlottetown during the past few years and particularly the last two years on one of the finest race tracks in Canada, and with the present management with their continued improvements very shortly it will be the best track in Canada.

On Saturday night, June 19th, they start the night racing program for 1948 with six events, for which they have given very liberal purses, with a nominal entrance fee, no deductions from money winners, and the entrance fee returned to non money winners.

The program consists of a feature event, a 218 pace, of two dashes, one dash of nine sixteenths of a mile and the other at a mile and one sixteenth. Both are workable as the start of both dashes will be on the home stretch on the widest part of the track and where those in attendance can see the start and finish of each dash.

The rest of the card consists of five dashes of seven eighths of a mile, and in the opinion of most horsemen this is very ill advised. First of all, we are racing on a half mile track, which is only intended for mile or half mile heats. I take it, to race seven eighths of a mile, the start would be made from the eighth pole, which is on the first turn just as you go into the back stretch, then twice around the track to the finish line in front of the judges stand.

Under the new rules of the U. S. T. Association, under which we race, on a track forty feet wide you can only score four horses abreast, which allows each horse and bike ten feet. In the conditions for night racing only eight horses are allowed to start (and rightly so) in each dash. On a track sixty feet wide this means that two horses have to start in the second tier, and this is the luck of the draw for positions, every starter hopes to draw the pole, or at least a place in the front tier.

In the event of starting these dashes at seven eighths of a mile and starting at the eighth pole, which is the most logical, (using the starting gate), I believe the first turn at the eighth pole is forty seven feet wide, which will allow four horses to score in the first tier, and four in the second tier, if there are eight starters. The horse at the pole will have a big advantage over all the horses to the right of him, as they have to score faster and go farther, and anyone knowing anything about race horses knows that when a horse leaves the starting wire at the start of a race, when he comes to the turn the tendency is to go to the pole, in fact he is taught that. Now what is going to be the result of scoring on the turn with two tiers of horses, behind a new starting gate, with an inexperienced driver operating the machine, and an inexperienced starter, (facts are facts). Accidents galore, and perhaps loss of life, and when the management advertise that they do not assume any liability or responsibility for accidents, it is not fair to the horse owner, to be asked or requested to race under such conditions to please the whims of some official who in all probability will be looking at the races from a grandstand seat.

The management may say, the horses are not in condition to race mile heats, this early in the season. Personally due to the foresight of the management in having the track in such fine shape so early in the season, I think most of the horses are ready to go. As a matter of fact the dash of one mile and a sixteenth knocks the "not ready" argument endways.

My suggestion is that until we have a mile track let us race (as in the past) mile heats and let the public see the start and finish right in front of the stand.

I feel very keenly about accidents on the first turn, as it was on this turn, through no fault of his own, that the late Wm. McVay, driving a horse for me, was killed, by a horse crowding him on the first turn. Don't let us have it happen again.

Appreciating all that the management of the Exhibition Association have done and are doing for the horsemen and racing public, and with what I hope is constructive criticism, and with success for 1948.

I am, Sir, etc.
J. F. HOOPER,
President P.E.I. Harness Racing Club.

Connie Mack Fires Pitcher Nelson Potter, Releases Bill Dietrich

PITTSBURGH, June 14—(AP)—Connie Mack exploded one of his loudest verbal blasts in 82 years of baseball trials and tribulations today after cutting loose two veteran pitchers.

The 85-year-old owner-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics fired Nelson Potter, 36-year-old relief hurler. And he gave Bill Dietrich, dean of American League pitchers at 38, his unconditional release subject to waiver by other American League clubs.

Potter got the pink slip after losing yesterday's first game to St. Louis Browns. Dietrich was released at his own request.

Quite frankly, Connie said he'd made "mistake" on both men. While he was at it, the head man of the Athletics listed another "mistake"—selling pitcher Russ Christopher.

"Here is my story about what happened when Potter came in yesterday after losing that game for us.

"I said: 'Were you doing your best out there?'

"I also said to him: 'I paid $20,000 for you and that was my mistake...'

Mack went on to say, "I admit I made a lot of bad talk in what I had to say to both Dietrich and Potter but damn it all we're out to win and when you don't win you don't play and you don't stay with my ball club."

It all happened after Potter released lefty Lou Brisse in the eighth inning of the first game against St. Louis with the bases loaded and one run in.

The A's led 5 to 2.

Potter walked Joe Schultz and Paul Lehner socked a single to left, the tying run scoring on the blow and the winning run coming in on an error by outfielder Ray Coleman on the same play.

Mack had his run-in with Dietrich earlier.

The bespectacled right-hander complained about his lack of pitching assignments and said that he couldn't get his regular turn. He'd prefer an unconditional release.

"You have it," retorted the A's manager.

Success of the boxing card staged at the Forum Saturday night has caused an increase in interest among local followers of the fight game, and options being freely expressed yesterday were that if Promoter Moore can come up with cards during the coming months boxing will get back on a much more solid foundation than it at present enjoys.

As is often the case in athletic events, one of the lesser lights on Saturday's card made a big impression on the fans. He was Bobby Duquette of Brockton, Mass., who whipped Lloyd Carr in three heats in a scheduled six-rounder. A lightweight and very fast, Duquette's performance on Saturday stamped him as an experienced ring general and hard hitter, and fans are already clamoring to see this same performer in action again.

The name of Kid Howard, present reigning Maritime champion in the lightweight division, has been prominently mentioned, as has also Percy Paris, another Nova Scotia lightweight. Both boys would make suitable opponents and fans would be very likely to witness one of the most sensational bouts seen here in years.

Howard's ability is well known. Hailed as the "Pocket Hercules" in Nova Scotia circles, he has whipped a great many good fighters both in and out of the Maritimes and in recent fights has been performing better than at any other time in his career. Paris, too, who was seen in action here last fall, is another two-fisted brawler who has already extended Howard in a couple of scraps.

Promoters who would gamble on matching either one of the above two wouldn't be taking too much of a chance. The fight would be almost certain to go over in a big way and judging by the big glance we had of Duquette in action Saturday night we are already of the opinion that Duquette would be able to provide an interesting evening for either one of them.

Ace McCloskey, who won over Letourneau was also a much improved fighter on Saturday night. In fact he gave the best performance he has in several outings and anyone who was of the opinion that McCloskey lacked boxing skill must have received a big surprise when they saw him box superbly in guarding the bad cut he received over his left eye.

As usual the cry of foul was heard when the Ace connected with that vicious left hook to the stomach in the sixth round, but as the majority of the fans at ringside will tell you, the blow was perfect.

held this year, as had been done in the past, set dates for the year's racing; and, secondly, that last year two races were held on the same date.

Now I will tell you who paid the big purses raced for at Riverside last July, 1947. Of the two thousand dollars, one thousand of it came out of the pockets of the owners of race horses, and the other thousand came from the track receipts. So you see by that when you race for big purses and pay large entrance fees you are racing for your own money.

In closing I may say that at any time a number of horse owners wish to race for their own money, I will gladly give them Riverside track for the day, free of charge, to enjoy a friendly meet.

Southpaws Have Tough Time In Majors This Year

By Joe Reichler
NEW YORK, June 14—(AP)—Despite the presence of such fine left-handers as Hal Newhouser, Warren Spahn, Harry Brecheen, Joe Page and rookies Gene Bearden and Curt Simmons, the southpaw contingent in the majors is having a rough time of it this year.

With all teams idle today the records show that the 41 left-handers who have figured in decisions have 100 victories against 117 defeats for a 46.1 per cent. The National League left-handers have won almost as many as they've lost, 61 to 66.

The American League southpaws are far behind with only 39 triumphs against 49 defeats, including games of Sunday.

Only two teams in the American League, Cleveland and Detroit, show a better than 50 per cent on the southpaw side. That is because of Bearden of the Indians and Newhouser of the Tigers.

No other American League left-hander has a winning percentage with the exception of Detroit's Stubby Overmire and Cleveland's Bill Kennedy with one each.

LONDON, June 14—(AP)—Gordon Richards, Britain's champion jockey, said today he would not ride at the four-day Royal Ascot meeting starting Tuesday. Richards fell at the Brighton races last week, suffering two fractured ribs.

ly legal. Strictly a body puncher, McCloskey has come in for a lot of undeserved criticism about low punching in recent performances here but we reiterate our previous statement when we say he is not a dirty fighter, and this writer has yet to see him throw a deliberate low punch at any opponent he has faced.

He has lost on fouls on a couple of occasions but they weren't deliberate actions by any manner of thinking and neither were the blows delivered as a means of avoiding further punishment. McCloskey can take his punishment just as gamely as any of them. He has proven his courage on many occasions and he proved that again Saturday when he suffered the eye injury, an injury that might have prevented a less courageous fighter from continuing.

S'ide Kinsmen Shut Out Red Sox 4 To 0

Allan Stewart, 17-year-old hurler of the Kinsmen Juniors, completed twenty-three innings without an earned run scored against him when he shut out the hard-hitting Red Sox at the High School diamond in Summerside yesterday evening, the final score being Kinsmen 4, Red Sox 0. Stewart pitched a gem, striking out seven batters and allowing only one hit. The only walk he issued was an intentional one to Schurman with two out and Gaudet on third in the fourth.

Pony Daley, who started for the Sox, was touched for four hits and walked one in the four innings he worked. Powell, who came in to relieve him, was never in danger but the damage had already been done.

For the winners, Clair White's nonchalant one-hand stab of Gaudet's deep fly to right in the second was a feature of the well-played contest. Landry's smooth work as shortstop stood out for the losers, Hank getting a beautiful one-hand shoe string stab of Benny Grady's bid for a hit in the third and taking Schurman's throw for a lightning play at second to liquidate Pope, who was attempting to pluffer the keystone sack in the fifth.

Ted Williams Leads American League Race

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 14—They said it wouldn't happen again after Boston's Ted Williams won the American League batting crown with a stratospheric .406 in 1941.

But thumpin' Ted, getting hotter as the season gets older, today led the 1948 hitting race with a gaudy .398. That gave him a 35-per cent margin over second-place Lou Boudreau of Cleveland, who had .363 through Sunday's games.

Third in batting with .352 was Detroit's George Kell, who belted 14 hits in 30 trips during the week. Williams' surge in RBI's gave him 55 and wrested the lead in that department from Yankee Joe DiMaggio. The slugging Red Sox outfielder continued to lead in two other specialized departments—runs with 45 and hits with 70.

Vic Raschi's 7-1 record retained the pitching lead for the New York right-hander.

Sport Echoes From Prince County

We have had a visit from that classy American airforce team from Harmon Field and local fans have certainly enjoyed the two games they played here. They are a smart team and we have a feeling they could teach the baseball nines around here a great deal about the fine points of baseball. For example, that little fellow at second base called Kontowsky might show our infielders how to stop a ground ball zipping through the infield. This boy plays a ground ball in such a way that the apple hasn't one chance in ten of going through him. He may not make a clean pick up, (though he mostly does), but the ball doesn't keep on its merry way as if he were just a mirage, as happens so woefully often with the home talent.

Scully, who must be crowding the half century mark in years, is still a mighty useful ball player. He pitched Saturday's game against our local airforce aggregation and allowed two earned runs and nine hits in nine innings. In Sunday's game he went in as pinch hitter, and smacked out a double that won the ball game. The Harmon Field boys tell us that Scully was up for a short time with the Philadelphia Phillies some twenty-five or so years ago.

Frankie Oatway, promising young junior, who shares the batting leadership of the Summerside League with Lambert of the R. C. A. F., was called into the game to bat for Haynes with one out and an All-Star decorating each base in the fourth inning. It was a tough spot for a junior, but Frankie didn't seem to mind. He lashed out a two-bagger, cleaning the sacks and tying the score.

Freddie Foy had a disastrous day in short field in Saturday's game. He made a total of six errors, and looked pretty bad on some of them. In spite of this if we controlled a ball club and Freddie was a member, it would be very difficult to persuade us to turn him adrift. Maybe Foy just had a day off, and then again maybe he isn't cut out for a shortstop. In any case he has too much hitting ability not to experiment with him in other positions. In the four games we've seen him in, he has got five hits in twelve trips to the plate, and in at least half of the times he drew a blank the opposition had to hustle to get him out. He has reached first base ten times in fifteen tries, and struck out only once. Once on the paths, he has that old giddy-up that unsettles pitchers and basemen alike. We still think he'll do, this fellow Foy.

As a coach, our batting average is zero-zero-zero. In the game between Summerside All-Stars and Harmon Field, one of the Americans bunted a ball along the third base line. Bernard raced over to pick it up, but the pellet was very close to the white line and seemed to have enough English to carry it foul. Just as the pitcher was about to pick up the ball and snap it to first, we entered the situation in a totally un-called-for coaching capacity. "Let 'er roll!" we shouted, and Joe did. Whether the apple struck a small pebble, or whether it was a slight rise in the grass, we don't know. We haven't ground at this point (we haven't decided which lib to adopt) the ball stayed fair and a hit was charged against the pitcher. No doubt the Summerside Journal Sports Department will charge us with an error for we noticed that they were looking very superior at this juncture.

Jokes aside, this situation is one which calls for sound, yet split-second judgment. There are three things that can happen. From a defensive standpoint, the best is that you will get the man out, the second best, that it will be a foul ball, and least desired is that the runner will be safe on first. If there is a fifty-fifty chance to nip the man at first, we suppose the correct play is to pounce on the ball as quickly as possible; if the chances are against your beating the runner, it's better, perhaps, to gamble on the ball rolling foul. You've got to size up the situation in a flash and do what you think is right. We have a guilty feeling that in this particular case Bernard could have thrown the runner out if he had picked the pill up at once, because Joe has few equals in these parts when it comes to pitching a ball fast and true to a base. And, shut my mouth, if the runner didn't score, too, before the inning was over. Rub it in, if you must, Mr. John Keats McNeill, but please, not in metre. Your reading public will only stand so much. First thing you know, somebody's going to organize a posse.

TORONTO, June 14—(CP)—Bill Tobin said he was elated over the reception accorded himself and coach Charlie Conacher at North Bay, Ont., where his Chicago Black Hawks will condition for next winter's National Hockey League schedule.

Reece Squad Regain Lead In Junior Baseball League

Pounding three opposing pitchers for a total of eighteen safe blows good for 27 bases, Reece regiment juniors last night regained first place in the Junior Baseball League by defeating Kinsmen Juniors 2-1 in a seven inning tussle.

Reece picked the opening of the new diamond at Memorial Field to give their outstanding display of power at the plate as they scored in every inning but the last with their biggest frame batted the fifth when they pounded seven runners across the plate before being retired.

Kinsmen's lone tally came in the last half of the first inning, Sonny Stull hitting a long homer into right field with two out to even up Reece's lone tally in the top half of the same inning.

In addition to Stull's circuit clout Glen Matheson homered in the fifth with one man riding the sacks.

Despite the one-sided score the game again produced some sparkling plays with Ready and Lund coming through with great running catches, the former robbing Jackie Williams of what might have turned into a two base blow.

Donnie McLean in chalking up his second straight victory over the Kinsmen team allowed but two hits over the route Stull of the losers being the only player able to fathom his deliveries getting a single in the seventh in addition to his first inning home. Cairns, Barrett and Currie divided up the hurrying chores for the losers in that order.
