POWNAL NOTES

On Sunday night last the rally day program for Pownal Sunday School was held in the United Church here. Despite the inclement weather a goodly number were present to take part in the service of worship. The superintendent, Mr. Harold Smith, presided, while the following program was carried out:—
Music by organist, Mrs. Beatrice Judson, Call to Worship; Hymn, Praise my Soul; Prayer; Scripture; Solo, Mr. J. A. Moore; Prayer, Rev. Mr. Campbell; Hymn, O Master Let Me Walk With Thee; Offering and Offering Service; Prayer Hymn; Picture Talk, The Good Shepherd, by Mabel Emman; Solo, "The Ninety and Nine," Mrs. Nat MacKinnon; Hymn, Stories of a follower of Jesus, John Wesley, was well presented by Parker Ings; Address, by Pastor Campbell; Closing Hymn and Benediction.

The funeral of the late George Jenkins was largely attended on Sunday last from the home of Mr. William Ings, Pownal, where he was tenderly nursed during his long illness by Mr. and Mrs. Ings. Rev. W. Lindsay presided at the house and grave. Interment was in the cemetery of the Baptist Church, Alexandria. The pall-bearers were Lemuel Wood, Earl Jenkins, Seymour MacLennan, W. E. Smith and Walter Ings.

On Friday night last the W. M.

S. and prayer service of the Baptist Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Judson, Pownal Village. An exceptionally large number were present and a profitable meeting held. This being the last meeting at which Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay would be present the society took this opportunity to present them with an address and sum of money, the address being read by their president Mrs. Earl Jenkins and the presentation made by Mrs. Mary Judson. Mr. Lindsay replied in his usual pleasing manner, after which a dainty lunch was served.

On Wednesday night the 18th, the Women's Missionary Society of the Alexandria Baptist Church celebrated their 45th anniversary by putting on a special program in the church at Alexandria. Rev. Mr. Lindsay presided. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Sidney, Bedeque. Solos were given by Miss Francis Wood, Mt. Mellick, Mr. James MacPhee and little Miss Grace Lindsay, the five year old daughter of the pastor. A duet by Mrs. Parkman Jenkins and Mrs. Lemuel Wood was well rendered. The musical numbers were interspersed with a reading by Mrs. Lindsay and a brief history of the society by Mrs. Rhoda Wood. Altogether a very profitable time was spent.

Misses Ethel and Mabel Emman were visitors to the capital Saturday evening. The former who is the teacher at South Lake School is spending the fall holidays at her home here.

Master Bruce Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, City, is spending a pleasant time with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. David Jones.

Mrs. Frank Burhoe of Alexandria, has entered the P. E. Island Hospital where she underwent a very serious operation. Her condition at time of writing is very critical and much sympathy is felt for the family in this their time of anxious waiting.

Despite the dry weather the grain crop here was an especially good one. One modest farmer Mr. Robert Enman by name had a bumper field of oats which yielded over sixty stook to the acre of well filled tall grain which was dangerous for a small person like the writer to attempt to travel through. No scientific experiments were tried here, just plenty of hard work plus a "good" man.

Miss Hazel Carver was a visitor to the City on Saturday evening.

Oyster fishing is going merrily on in the village waters. Both sexes are participating this season. So if you like a good stew and a true fish story come to Pownal Village.

Miss Jessie Jenkins, Marshfield, was a recent visitor in Pownal.

World's Most Amazing Criminal

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 1.—One of the world's most amazing and most confirmed criminals has just been arrested in South Africa. He is Carl Ludwig von Veltheim or, perhaps, just plain Carl Kurtz. His offence and sentence this time were comparatively mild—a month's imprisonment for entering the country as a prohibited immigrant—but many a more serious misdeed attributed to him has resulted in no punishment at all.

In his time, Veltheim has duped and married many women, robbed them of their money, sought to blackmail millionaires, killed a diamond king and won acquittal, and coolly confessed to a plot to kidnap a president.

He first came into world-wide attention back in 1898, when the Boer Republic of the Transvaal was still in existence and the grim old Dutchman, Kruger, was boss and president. Von Veltheim had gone into the office of Woolf Joel, a nephew of the famous diamond king, Barney Barnato.

Acquitted in Killing

Shots were heard and von Veltheim stated he had killed Joel. The trial caused great excitement. He claimed he killed in self-defence. Barney Barnato was bitterly hostile to the Kruger regime, he said because it interfered with his plans for gold and diamond mining. Von Veltheim said he got in touch with Barnato and outlined a scheme whereby he would kidnap Kruger and bring about the election of a new president. The plot would cost about $5,000,000 and, if successful, von Veltheim was to get a quarter of a million dollars. It was never carried out, but he claimed money was due him for work already done.

Barnato was dead, but von Veltheim wrote a series of seven letters signed "Kismet," in which he demanded $50,000 from Woolf Joel.

Did Some Blackmailing

The jury accepted von Veltheim's story that he shot in self defence and acquitted him of the murder charge, but the Kruger government deported him from the Transvaal.

He continued his shady career and while living in Antwerp and Paris sent blackmailing letters to Solly Joel a brother of the murdered Woolf, and now head of the great gold and diamond business founded by Barnato.

Joel procured his arrest and extradition to England, where von Veltheim was tried for sending threatening letters. He was then 50 years old and a huge figure of a man, six feet six inches in height and with coal black hair and eyes. A police inspector from Scotland Yard read out his record.

He said the accused was born in Brunswick in Germany in 1858 and his real name was Carl Kurtz. Even as a school boy he had a bad record. He stole a schoolmaster's pistol and injured himself with it. This record followed:

1872—Served as a sailor on a German ship, but deserted and served on various British ships.

1880—Served in the German navy, but deserted. It is supposed to have stolen the gold watch of Captain von Veltheim, and this gave him the idea of masquerading under that name.

Was British Sailor

1883-86—Served in British ships all over the world. Posed in Germany as Captain Oliver Jackson of the British Royal Navy.

1886—Turned up in West Australia where he posed as Baron von Veltheim.

1887—Married an American woman and went to Capetown, South Africa, where he blackmailed a male acquaintance of his wife for $4,000.

1894—Posed as American Consul at Santa Maria.

1896—Married a German woman in London under the name of von Veltheim. Got $7,500 from her and skipped out.

1897—Returned to London and married a Greek woman, getting $1,500 from her. The man went to South Africa where he enlisted in the Cape Police as an Austrian.

1898—Forced to resign from the Cape police, he turned up in the Transvaal Republic, where he killed Woolf Joel and was acquitted. Deported, but returned and was imprisoned.

1900—Found by the British troops as a prisoner of war in Pretoria and deported to England.

1901—Turned up in Italy where he duped easy marks, raising $100,000 to finance a search for Kruger gold.

Eloped With American

1903—Eloped from Naples with a married woman who got a divorce in South Dakota, U. S. and married him. He soon deserted her.

1905—On the way to England met an American woman whom he wed in a mock marriage in Paris. Skipped to Germany where under promise of marriage he got the fortune of a German widow, who committed suicide when she learned the truth.

His next appearance was in the English court where this record was read, the while the accused bellowed from the dock, "lies, all lies"

He was found guilty and sentenced to 20 years penal servitude, but served less than 10 before being released. Since then he has twice entered South Africa illegally, twice been imprisoned and twice deported.
