TWITCHING OF THE NERVES

Foretold Nervous Exhaustion and Child was Saved by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. Griffith, Weymouth Street, Charlottetown, P. E. I., and whose husband is a grocer, states: "One of my children was troubled with muscular weakness and an affection of the nerves which caused twitching. We tried several remedies with little and no result. Some weeks ago I procured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and since she has been taking this treatment I am pleased to say that we have noticed a wonderful difference in her condition. Her health is better in every way, and her nerves seem to be stronger and steadier. We feel sure that a continuance of this medicine will entirely cure her."

"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmansson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box."

 The effects of home life are seen in the national life. Note the decline and fall of nations, Sodom, Gomorrah, Palmyra and Thetes, Alexandria, Spain, Greece and Rome trace their downfall to the vices of the home. France is a dying nation today. Her literature is saturated with Atheism and Sensualism; marriage is a convenience, and motherhood is a misfortune. Napoleon said France is a nation without mothers. Mohammed said, Paradise is at the feet of mothers.
 "O wondrous power. How little understood
 Entrusted to a mother's mind above
 To fashion genius from the soul for good."
 More than one hundred years ago when this Island was one unbroken forest divided only by streams and rivers and glassy lakes, our sturdy forefathers with the best blood of Scotland in their veins came to fall the trees and earn a livelihood. Their home life was happy. The family bible and the family altar were not forgotten. And the heritage we enjoy today is not ours by merit, we have only inherited it. Let us place the emphasis where it belongs. Out in yonder country where the ivy grows in its twining round that time-worn marble slab, and where the mosses and the lichens obscure the once plainly written epitaph, it is here on the sacred mounds of our fathers that we should place our gratitude for the splendid heritage that we enjoy today. Islanders are great today in other lands because of Godly homes and Godly influence. Children were taught to obey the fifth commandment, and it was better for them than gold.

But to everyone there comes a time of home-leaving! It is a law of human life. The boy has visions and dreams. He builds his air castles and forms his beau ideals. His thoughts resolve themselves into action, and out from the old home, amidst the sighs and tears of loved ones, the young man leaves for other lands but not forever. The picture that you take when you leave home is the one that ever hangs on the walls of memory.

But if there is sadness in home leaving, there is joy in home coming. There is but one thought in your mind, and that thought is home; and when after days and nights of travel in the distance you see the red sands one cliffs of your native land, your heart is filled with feelings of gladness and longing, and when amidst the greetings, tears and welcomes of the loved ones you say with heartfelt joy, I am home.

Oh! how the silent memories of years are stirring in my spirit. I have been a lone and joyless wanderer. And I have come yet once again to stray Where erst I strayed in childhood. Oh "tis sweet
 To gaze on the dear old landscape, Here My thoughts first revealed in the wild delirium
 Of new existence.

I have presented to you the different scenes in the home, said the speaker, but in the program of every human existence is written "final scene". No earthly climate to visit, no money needed for travel, no earthly friends to all must take along. Friends and loved ones will say good-bye amidst hushed sobs and breaking hearts, but the curtain will drop between the seen and the unseen and we will be a part of it from the time we are born to the time we are buried.
