3,500 BRITISH CEMETERIES WILL BE MAINTAINED IN FRANCE AND FLANDERS

MONTREAL, July 14.—Some-where in France there is a white garden graveyard of British warriors which stands complete as it will stand through the centuries to come, writes a special correspondent of the London Times. Its wealth of flowers and wreaths will change and be renewed; its grassed pathways will become smoother still; and its cypress trees will grow beside its great Stone of Remembrance. But for the rest it stands as a permanent memorial—one of many—of successive battles of the Somme.

This little sanctuary of Forceville is just one of 3,500 British military cemeteries maintained in France and Flanders. It represents the finished achievement of the Imperial Commission into whose keeping the Empire entrusted the

Mystery Ship Again

BOSTON, July 14.—The sighting of an unidentified steamship without starting lights off the New Jersey coast was reported here today by Captain Herbert H. Wallace of the shipping board steamship Craigrownie.

Adding his story to those of other skippers who have seen mysterious ships by night in recent weeks, he said the incident occurred early on the morning of July 3, about fifteen miles east of the northeast end light vessel. A steamship of about 3,500 tons appeared off his starboard bow, he said, and completely circled the Craigrownie. One of the main deck lights was visible, one on the main deck forward of the pilot house and the other abreast of the engine room.

Paris Celebrated the Taking of Bastille Anniversary

PARIS, July 15.—The festivities in connection with the celebration of the anniversary of the Taking of the Bastille, France's 143rd day, were already in full swing tonight, although publication of the news that the great military review in Longchamps had been cancelled caused many prospective visitors from the provinces to remain at home. This, with the exodus of more than 200,000 Parisians to country and seaside resorts made the city appear dull in comparison with 1919, when the victory parade was held, and 1920 when the mil-

SUCCESS COMES ONLY TO THOSE WHO WORK EARNESTLY

Candidates Who Depend on Luck Will Lose—
Resolution Backed by Action Will Win—
Special Extra 60,000 Point Offer Closes
To-night—Second Period Closes Week
From To-night.

HELP YOUR FAVORITE CANDIDATE TO-DAY

A New $1640 Gray-Dort Touring Car is the Prize Awaiting the Candidate Who Secures the Highest Total of Points in the Great Competition—Earnest Work Will Make You a Winner.

Do you think other candidates can get subscriptions easier than you? That's what the unsuccessful man or woman in any line of endeavor in the world. Look into the history of any man who ever did anything that makes him stand out from the rest of humanity. You may say he had money, opportunity, friends at court, good luck, was born with brains, or had a chance. After you've taken stock of all these things, which appear on the surface, look at the man.

You'll find the lines of work in his face. No amount of money ever made any man great; the finest opportunity never made any man famous; the most favorable environment never produced genius or a master of men.

If those things were true there would be only two kinds of people in the world—a class of mental aristocrats, with all the money and brains, and the rest of the world full of cattle.

We would have a race of supermen and a race of slaves. But you'll find that the majority of the supermen come from the classes sometimes called "lower" which only means poorer.

Break away from the field; get the points and get the most of them and you'll win. The first thing to do is to tell yourself you can do it, and you are already a winner. You can't lose if you can convince yourself that you can win.

There is only one more day of the Special 60,000 Extra Point Offer left; seven more days of the second period left and the end of the competition is but little more than a few weeks away.

Tell your friends how many points you already have and ask them if they will not extend their present subscription in order to help you win.

Tell them about the prizes and show them where you stood in the last point list. Get them interested and impress upon them the fact that it means much to you to get every possible subscription now.

If they understand that you will get some benefit from their paid-advance subscriptions they will be willing to give you their help. This is the chance of a lifetime and all the contestants seem to realize it.

Probably never again will you have the chance to get such valuable prizes by the simple method of getting a few subscriptions for The Guardian and The Examiner.

NOW IS THE TIME TO WORK. The time to act is NOW. Work hard while the competition is running, win a good prize and you will have something which will last a life time.

You don't have to do much—just a little more than your competitors. Don't hang back and loaf. You can't afford to do that with so much at stake.

Did you ever work with such an object in view before? What could you do in the next few weeks that would bring you a bigger return for your efforts? You can win if you want to—you know that you can.

Go right out and get subscriptions. One thing is certain in this competition; that is, the hardest workers are going to win. And when it comes to mixing brains with work some of the contestants have very good schemes.

COMPETITION WORK IS LEGITIMATE. It is a perfectly legitimate business and many men and women make a living soliciting subscriptions.

It isn't as if you were asking people to buy pictures or books or something for which they have little use. A daily paper is a necessity. And in buying a newspaper everybody should have the best, just as they demand the best clothes or the best groceries or the best kind of food.

Everybody knows The Guardian is an excellent paper and that's why you need not feel a bit timid in asking for Guardian or Examiner subscriptions. The Guardian speaks for itself—all you have to do is look after your own interests and get the points.

WORKING OVER OLD TERRITORY. Some of the contestants are going around among the subscribers they got a week ago, and are getting extensions. In some cases contestants have turned in almost duplicate subscriptions to the ones they turned in first.

That is a contestant, who got subscriptions from people early in the competition period, and therefore reaping the benefit of the of the subscription period, and therefore reaping the benefit of the EXTRA points on "second payments."
