THE WEEK IN OTTAWA

(By Frederick Edwards)

OTTAWA, April 1—Regarded by parliamentary critics as one of the weakest opposition efforts ever heard in the Commons, Col. J. L. Ralston's criticism of the "poor-man's" Budget on behalf of the Liberal party occupied two and a half hours yesterday (Tuesday). He culminated, with a straight want-of-confidence motion, a hair-splitting harangue in which he took the government to task for having lowered tariff barriers, for its attempt to stabilize wheat prices, for its revision of the income tax scale placing a greater load on those with higher incomes. He belittled government achievements in fostering foreign trade and juggled figures dizzily in an attempt to prove that the facts are not what Minister of Finance Rhodes said they are.

With the termination of his speech it became apparent that the Liberals would have no further speakers to offer on the subject of the Budget.

There followed a C.C.F. motion calling for social credit to obviate further debt increases. No government front-benchers spoke yesterday, but Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, is expected to be the first of the administration's big guns to be trained on the opposition. Two Conservative members spoke yesterday, J. H. Myers (Queen's, P. E. I.) and W. K. Esling (Kootenay West), both of whom took the Liberals and their spokesman to task quite caustically for their indecisive attitude on the Budget and the reform programme.

Hailed as sane and sound, the Rhodes Budget included a surtax on investment incomes over $5,000 ranging from two per cent on lowest taxable income to ten per cent on investment incomes of $300,000 and over. All income exceeding $14,000 is to be treated as investment income for taxation purposes. The gold tax is removed, but the depletion allowance on income tax of precious metal mines is reduced. Corporation income taxes are increased by one per cent, but there is an increase of 1 1/2 per cent on taxes paid by those making consolidated income returns. There is a graduated tax on gifts exceeding $1,000 ranging from two per cent up to $25,000 to 10 per cent on $100,000 or more, a measure aimed at income tax evasions.

The sales tax is unchanged except for a concession to articles produced by the deaf and dumb which are to be taxed at half the standard rate. Excise duties on spirits is lowered from $7 to $4 per gallon, the intention being to combat smuggling and other illicit liquor traffic. Excise tax is unchanged but Empire preference imports are exempted, and there is a 20 per cent duty placed on cigarette lighters to offset the drop in revenue from sales of matches.

Substantial extensions of the British preference were submitted by Mr. Rhodes, particularly upon woollen items, and an important enlargement of the classification of British goods on the free list.

On Monday the house passed the eight-hour day bill and the bill to establish the Economic Council of Canada. The latter went through without discussion. Both bills are now with the Senate for ratification. Minister of Labour Wesley A. Gordon's bill to provide unemployment relief for 1935-36 also was passed after considerable opposition from the Liberals, and is now with the Senate.

The House committee sitting on the suggested revision of the British North America Act yesterday heard Professor W. P. M. Kennedy, who teaches law at the University of Toronto, declare that there was too much sentimentality about this legislation and too much doctrinaire talk. When it was framed, he said, it was a splendid achievement, but it was intended for a small agricultural country. He and Professor P. R. Scott of McGill University both urged scientific revision. A referendum was not favoured.

From London, England, came official confirmation today of the report that John Buchan, noted Scottish writer and Conservative member of the British House of Commons, and personal friend of Mr. Mackenzie King, is to succeed the Earl of Bessborough as governor-general of Canada. This is the first time that a commoner has been chosen for this high honour. It has been stated, however, that a peerage is in store for Mr. Buchan, and that it will be announced along with other new titles in the King's Silver Jubilee list. Mr. Buchan is well-known to many Canadians, having visited Canada some ten or twelve years ago.

I., who died at the St. Joseph's Hospital, Charlottetown, in the early morning of Monday, March 13, 1935, after an illness of about three weeks at home his condition became serious and he was removed to hospital where he passed away about three weeks later.

Born at Murray Harbour 33 years ago, he lived at home nearly all his life, excepting several trips to Western Canada in the winter seasons. He was a man of quiet disposition and good character and respected by all who knew him.

(By Guardian's Special Wire)

SANTO JOHN, N. B., April 1—The train they were on was badly wrecked but Harold Brodie and Robert Viven, both of Lethbridge, Alta., remained blissfully unaware of the smash-up until told about it hours later.

"We were cattle foremen on a stock train going to Montreal," said Brodie before embarking here with Viven on the C. P. S. Montclair for England. "Having completed our work for the day, we decided to brew ourselves some tea before retiring. Just as we were in the midst of this job, the train came to a very abrupt stop—so abrupt, in fact, that our tea was spilled all over the floor. We didn't think very much about this, aside from an idea that the engineer was angry at something. We thought that the train had been stopped to take on water, so we brewed some more tea and went to sleep.

"We were awakened several hours later by people running through our car. On questioning them we discovered that the train had been wrecked, and that our car and the caboose were the only part of the train that was left on the tracks. The others were all smashed to bits. The damage amounted to $140,000."

der of Great War veterans were present in addition to a large representation from the Institute.

The President and Vice President being absent, Mrs. William McLaren was chosen to preside and the meeting was conducted by her in her usual efficient manner.

The discussion revealed considerable diversity of opinion as to the best form of memorial to establish but an excellent spirit of harmony and good will prevailed. Some of the speakers evidently felt convinced that the ideas of utility and beauty should, if possible, be embodied in all efforts to commemorate the deeds of heroic service and sacrifice. The following suggestions were accordingly, verbally submitted: a town clock set in a suitable tower in one of the public buildings; the long delayed improvement of Kent Square; the erection of a library building, the furnishing of a room in the public school.

Though the above mentioned proposals were acknowledged as being commendable projects, the suggestion which seemed to meet with the heartiest approval of the veterans present was that of a stone monument of the cairn type. The majority of the veterans preferred the Post Office lawn as a site for such monument rather than the Institute lot south of the Court House.

Mayor Condon informed the Institute that the Town Corporation was not financially able at the present time to make any contribution towards this worthy cause but expressed the hope that many young men of the Town would be willing to give a reasonable share of labor service free of charge in furtherance of this movement.

The Executive Committee was asked to make a careful study and enquiry relative to the different plans presented and to report facts and resulting conclusions to their organization.

The Women's Institute of Georgetown, is deserving of great praise for its patient determination in this enterprise which was initiated by the women several years ago. Let us hope that their efforts will be ultimately crowned with success before the present year has expired.
